FARM SPLIT REMAINS

Despite Urging From Johnson

. . . THAT UNITY NEEDED

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson Wednesday urged national farm leaders in a White House meeting to bury past squabbles and help develop new programs to cut surpluses, boost wheat prices, and relieve rural poverty.

There was quick evidence, however, that the session had failed to produce harmony in farm ranks on the controversial issue of new legislation which Johnson wants to cut cotton surpluses and head off a scheduled 1964 drop in wheat price supports.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the nation's biggest farm group, the American Farm Bureau Federation, told Johnson that he and other farm leaders "can find some areas of agreement."

But Shuman added his group "cannot compromise" its long-standing opposition to government farm control programs backed by the administration and some of the other farm organizations.

Johnson and Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman met with leaders of eight farm organizations at the White House for 45 minutes. Freeman told reporters it was mostly a "far-ranging review" by the President dealing with the need to fight rural poverty as well as new federal programs for commodities like wheat and cotton.

There was no specific discussion of details of new commodity programs, Freeman said.

Really See

"Let's try to really see what we can do," Johnson told the farm leaders. "We don't want to talk about yesterday. Let's talk about tomorrow."

Johnson later told a news conference that he asked the farm leaders "to try to find areas of agreement, and to give me their recommendations and be prepared to give them to the Senate (agriculture) committee." Johnson said he was "very hopeful" the farm leaders would develop a consensus.

Still later, however, Freeman met alone with the farm leaders for two and one half hours and reported to newsmen that the "broad areas of agreement" he uncovered did not extend to the details of new wheat and cotton programs.

Freeman said it was fair to say that on the commodity programs, there was no more agreement among the farm groups than before Wednesday's meeting.

Even before calling the White House session, Johnson had urged congressional farm leaders to get busy developing new wheat and cotton legislation.

Wheat legislation is being sought because federal price supports for the 1964 crop are scheduled to drop sharply on the heels of the rejection by farmers of a mandatory federal production control program. The Agriculture Department has estimated that wheat income may drop $600 million in 1964 without new legislation.

The administration has not recommended any specific new wheat bill yet. Officials have indicated, however, that they were leaning toward support of a program endorsed by their wheat advisory committee and by several of the farm groups attending Wednesday's meeting. This plan — strongly opposed by the Farm Bureau — would boost wheat price guarantees to farmers who voluntarily limit production.

WEST BERLINERS . . . apply for Christmas passes.

Reds Cut Hole In Wall— Westerners Get Passes

Berlin (UPI) — The Communists Wednesday chopped a hole in their Berlin wall for the first time since they put it up 28 months ago to enable West Berliners to visit their relatives behind the wall during the Christmas season.

The Communists tore out a section of the wall blocking the east side of the Oberbaum bridge which spans the Spree River between East and West Berlin. West Berliners will be permitted to walk across the bridge during the Christmas season.

Four other crossing points will be used for the visits but they have been in existence since the wall went up. Three are for motorists and pedestrians and one is for the elevated train system, but only West Germans and foreigners had been permitted into East Berlin since the wall was built.

Waited Hours

Tens of thousands of West Berliners lined up for hours in the snow Wednesday seeking Communist passes for the Christmas visits with their relatives in East Berlin as Communist border guards erected temporary control sheds beside the three road crossing points.

West Berlin police reported a total of 24,500 persons managed to fill out application forms in the pass bureaus that the Communists opened in West Berlin school gymnasiums.

Since entire families could apply on one form, the total was believed to represent at least 50,000 potential holiday visitors to East Berlin.

Turned Away

Thousands of others who arrived at the pass bureaus in midafternoon were turned away because the lines were so long they had no chance of getting into the offices Wednesday. But 8,000 persons still were waiting when the bureaus closed at 6 p.m.

Some West Berliners waited 10 hours or more through the frosty night and chilly morning for the pass bureaus to open at 1 p.m. Others waited only three or four hours in long, orderly queues stretching through schoolyards, corridors and classrooms to file their applications for one-day passes.

They faced more hours of waiting Thursday to pick up the passes which they can use anytime between this Friday and Jan. 5 for their first visit to relatives in East Berlin in 28 months.

An estimated 800,000 West Berliners are eligible for the passes which were agreed on Tuesday after long negotiations between the Communist East German government and the West Berlin city government.

'I Know I'll Get It Someday'

New York (AP)—Cab driver John Giamaro, in 23 years of pushing a hack, had been robbed 20 times, and on four occasions beaten or knifed.

"I know I'll get it someday," he told his wife, Irene. "Someday they're going to get me."

But Giamaro kept on driving because, at 52, he felt he was too old to do anything else.

Tuesday night Giamaro's body was found on a sidewalk, stab wounds in the chest. His cab was found about four miles away. His log book showed he had done about $30 worth of business — but the money was gone.

"I knew it was going to happen," cried Mrs. Giamaro, when informed her husband had been slain in his 21st holdup.

Johnson 'Ready For Summit'

. . . WHENEVER IT PROMISES TO BE PRODUCTIVE

Washington (UPI) - President Johnson said Wednesday he was "ready and willing" to meet with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev or any other world leader whenever such a summit conference promised to be productive.

At his second surprise news conference since taking office, the President also pledged to cut out waste in federal spending and put the savings into programs to meet unfilled needs. But he served notice the next budget would top this year's $98.8 billion spending program.

Sweeping from topic to topic, he put new emphasis on this country's interest in Latin America and disclosed that he already had reached full agreement with Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., on the question of presidential disability. McCormack is next in line of succession.

The first issue raised by reporters after they had been unexpectedly summoned to the President's office was the question of a possible meeting with Khrushchev on cold war problems. Johnson took much the same attitude as his predecessor, John F. Kennedy.

He replied that he was "ready and willing to meet with any of the world leaders at any time there is any indication a meeting would be fruitful and productive." When there are any such indications, he said, he will make a decision and announce it.

The No. 1 obligation of the U.S. president and all the world's people, he declared, is to "learn how to live together." He said his prime objective was to convince the world that the United States wants to live in peace and prosperity.

Other news conference highlights:

—Asked if he would debate his opponent in the 1964 presidential election, the President said: "I will make those decisions at the time I am the nominee, and in the light of the circumstances existing then." He ruled out any further political discussion for the present.

—The President said the Senate's $3.2 billion foreign aid bill — providing $500 million more than the House version—was "substantial enough to advance our national interest," although it had some undesirable limitations. He agreed with a questioner that he could "live with it."

—So that the United States will speak with one voice on Latin American problems, the President announced that Thomas C. Mann, his newly selected assistant secretary of state for Latin America, also will be a special White House assistant. Mann will coordinate hemisphere policy after consultation with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

—The President extended the people a Christmas present, announcing that the gross national product—the volume of all goods and services produced in this country—was now passing the $600 billion annual rate for the first time in history.

The chief executive tied this report into his discussion of the budget he will submit to Congress next month for the fiscal year starting July 1. All indications are that it will be about $102 billion, although he said the government is still "trying the case."

Referring to his daily conferences on the problem, the President said: "We are going to cut out every dime of waste that we can in order to have as much to spend (as possible) on the unfilled needs of this nation."

But, as noted previously, he warned that the budget cutters are confronted with at least $3.5 billion in "built in" increases that go on top of the current spending programs. Therefore, he said, the goal is to trim at all other possible places.

The President said that, God and Mrs. Johnson willing, he planned to fly to Texas for Christmas after lighting the nation's tree Dec. 22 and participating that night in Lincoln Memorial ceremonies concluding the formal period of mourning for President Kennedy.

Immediately after Christmas, he said, he might steal away for a bit of hunting, a chance to "spend the day out in the hills, communing with myself."

State Retirement System Challenged

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

A case challenging the constitutionality of the new retirement system for state employes was filed in Lancaster District Court Wednesday.

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles, in a temporary restraining order, enjoined members of the State Employees Retirement System board and the state auditor and treasurer from enforcing the system which was scheduled to go into effect in January.

Judge Boyles set hearing Jan. 9 at 10 a.m. on the declaratory judgment suit brought by Gordon F. Gossman, an agricultural aviation representative of the State Department of Aeronautics.

Gossman asks the court to declare the new system, included in LB512 passed in the Legislature's last session, invalid, void and unconstitutional.

Called Arbitrary

The plaintiff alleges the plan is "arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious as to who shall become a member of the system."

He alleges that the plan requires participation of some employes on an involuntary basis; grants certain individuals special privileges; violates the constitutional provision for uniformity of levy of taxes and exactions within a class; excludes certain employes who are already covered by retirement plans; provides greater benefits for those making more than $4,800 per year in that the state will be required to pay a greater contribution derived from tax sources.

The plaintiff also contends that deducting one per cent from the salaries of all employes to pay prior service benefits for some employes is "invalid, void and unconstitutional."

Gossman alleges this:

—provides extra compensation for services after those services have been rendered.

—deprives the plaintiff and other employes similarly situated of property without due process of law.

—exacts from plaintiff and others money in which they will have no interest and which is for the benefits of others.

—is to be paid only by certain individuals including the plaintiff who will not benefit from the past service provisions.

The Christmas Story

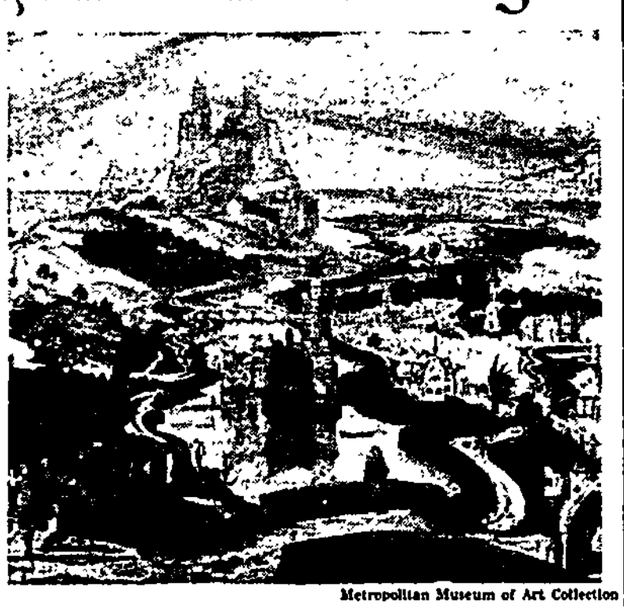
THE ARRIVAL IN BETHLEHEM — When Mary returned to Nazareth to bear her child, the Emperor Augustus who ruled from Rome "commanded that every man should go into the towns, cities or villages from where they were of, and should bring with him a penny in acknowledgement that he was subject to the empire of Rome."

The story of the journey which Joseph and Mary made to Bethlehem as a consequence of this decree was popular with writers who saw it as yet another chance to set forth the holy family's life.

It was, to some, an ordinary family crisis. To others, an example of the virtues of poverty.

Cornelis Massys, a Flemish artist who painted landscapes, saw in the journey a different opportunity — and painted the wide horizons of an imaginary countryside.

This landscape was never finished. In its upper parts one can see the sketchy pen-and-ink drawing and the amber-tinted understain. Upon this, as in the lower area, successive coats of paint were to have been painstakingly applied.



Metropolitan Museum of Art Collection

It is an exciting painting, not because it is forceful in its plan, but because it entices one along stretches of wide rivers, out to distant seas, up snaking roads past snatches of forest, and through fields surmounted by huge rocks.

When Mary and Joseph came to Bethlehem, because of the many people there at the time, they could get no shelter in any house.

NPPS Can't Handle USBR Power Requested For 1966

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Power Review Board Wednesday was told that the Nebraska Public Power System does not have the transmission capacity needed to bring in all the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation power which has been requested for 1966.

"In my opinion, we do not have the transmission capacity," NPPS Executive Manager Howard N. Ericksen told the board.

Ericksen's pronouncement threw a sudden and unexpected bomb into the Power Board's hearing on Consumers Public Power District's application to build a new 110,000-kilowatt generation unit at its Hallam plant.

Hearing Continued

The board continued the hearing until Jan. 29 at the request of Wayne attorney Kenneth Olds, representing the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, Inc., an organization of rural districts which is opposing CPPD's application at this time.

Board Chairman Clair Callan of Odell said the board is making "no definite commitment at this time" as to whether or not it will approve Consumers' request.

In the meantime, he said, CPPD "can do what it feels it needs to do" in the matter of preparing or taking bids on revenue bonds to finance the plant.

CPPD General Manager Ray Schacht of Columbus said Consumers could wait until February to award contracts, but it "must move one way or the other by the end of February" if the new unit is to be completed by May 1966.

"Gambling"

Without addition of the $8,933,500 plant, Schacht said, the state will be "gambling" with the prospect of a power shortage in 1966.

Power resource estimates indicate a surplus of 5,000 kilowatts in 1966, but these figures include a 105,000 kilowatt request for short term power from the USBR.

Bureau officials have written NPPS officials that they can probably provide 75,000 kilowatts in 1966, Schacht noted.

The 105,000 kilowatt estimate was made contingent upon the availability of short-term firm power and adequate NPPS transmission capacity.

Studies still under way indicate that new transmission capacity, if required, would cost at least $5 million. That was the estimate for a line from Fort Randall, S.D., to Grand Island.

Other possibilities are a $7 million line from Oahe, S.D., to North Platte, and an $8 million line from Oahe to Grand Island.

The Nebraska G&T is opposing CPPD's application at this time out of a fear that its approval might reduce the allocation of additional low-cost USBR power to Nebraska.

Callan indicated that the board shares the same fear. The board, he said, has met with USBR officials a number of times and "some of these people indicated the same thing."

Announcement of the new allocation of firm USBR power is not expected before March.

"Everyone in this room agrees that this CPPD plant should be built," Callan noted. "But we do not want to jeopardize USBR power."

A possible solution may have to be to defer construction of the plant a year, Callan said.

Could Reschedule

If sufficient power is obtained to meet demands in 1966, CPPD could reschedule its construction program for a May 1967 completion date, Schacht said.

Africans Stage Protest

. . . SCUFFLE WITH MOSCOW COPS

Moscow (AP) — About 500 angry African students swept past police barricades into Red Square Wednesday in a protest against the death of a medical student from Ghana.

To the amazement of thousands of onlooking Russians, they scuffled with police and raced along the Red wall of the Kremlin right under the windows of Premier Khrushchev's office. Whether the Premier was in his office at the time was not known. The students finally were brought up short at the main entrance of the Kremlin, at Spasky Gate with the huge clock tower.

The big gate was closed against them. A delegation later was received by Education Minister Vyacheslav Yelutin. They told the minister of education the dead student, Asare Addo, 29, was stabbed to death by a Russian last Friday. The delegates said they were told Addo froze to death but they didn't believe this.

First Time

It was the first known public demonstration of foreign students directed against the Russians. Astonished thousands of Russians in the square and from nearby Gum's, the big state department store, stared in amazement.

The Russians probably were also startled to hear one of the demonstrators shout: "Moscow is a second Alabama."

Most of the students were from Ghana, which has 700 studying in the Soviet Union. But they were joined by other students from African nations. The weather was a bitter 6.8 degrees below zero and the students were bundled in thick coats and fur hats.

Clear Square

By late afternoon, police finally cleared the square and the demonstrators went back to their lodgings.

When the students first assembled at the embassy, members of the embassy staff tried to talk them out of carrying their protest to the Kremlin.

They carried the kind of banners which Russians so often have reported as being carried by protesting Negroes in America.

Friendship

One sign showed a knife plunged into the skulll of a Negro. It carried these words: "Russian Friendship!"

"Stop killing African students," said another sign, a third indicated they had still other complaints. It said: "Russians live well in Africa. We are cold here."

A barricade of police cars and trucks was formed at one end of the street on which the embassy is located. When the police refused to get out of their way, students began rocking a police car as if to tip it over. Outnumbered 100-1, the police gave way.

Stormed On

On to the Kremlin they stormed. In front was a young Negro girl carrying a wreath on which was a picture of Addo.

The students broke through a barricade aimed at keeping them out of Manege Square, under the Kremlin walls just around the corner from Red Square. Once it was used as a training center for the Czar's horses.

Then to the astonishment of the vast Russian throngs they swarmed running and shouting across Manege Square toward the Kremlin.

How Come?

"What are you demonstrating for?" asked some surprised Russians.

At the entrance to Red Square, a barricade of heavy trucks blocked the way. A cordon of police tried to hold them back. Sound trucks pleaded with them to go home.

But they dashed for the openings between trucks, fought police and pushed them aside. Some crawled under the trucks. Others climbed on top, battled with police there then jumped down into the square. They raced up the short slope that passes under Khrushchev's office window, past the tomb of Lenin and on to Spasky Gate.

Blocked

There they were blocked. Kremlin guards had flung shut the big gates, apparently the first time they has been shut against demonstrators since the Bolsheviks themselves stormed the place in the 1917 revolution.

Apparently at no time did the police use guns to try to control the Ghanaians.

The evening edition of the government newspaper Izvestia carried not a word about the demonstration on the slippery flagstones of Red Square.

McNamara's Plane Just Misses Crash

Paris (AP) — "What a close call!" one of U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's aides said Wednesday. "We almost had it."

The close call was a near collision of two big American planes on fog-shrouded Orly Airport.

One was a Boeing-built K135 four-jet transport taking off with McNamara and his staff for Saigon, to review progress of South Viet Nam's American-backed war against Communist guerrillas.

The other was a Trans World Airlines Boeing 707, civilian counterpart of the K135, inbound with American servicemen's dependents from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.

Arthur G. Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense, said only the cat-quick reflexes of the U.S. Air Force pilot of the K135 averted disaster when the red and silver 707 loomed out of the fog on the airport runway.

The pilot, Capt. Meredith Sutton, aided by co-pilot Albert Combs, shut off all power and hit the brakes so hard that two of the tires on the main landing gear exploded.

With a loaded weight of 124 tons, the K135 rolled to within 1,000 feet of the slowly moving TWA plane, then was steered off the runway. McNamara and the others scrambled out an emergency hatch and down a ladder to the ground.

"When a big plane is put under this type of stress it heats up and you never know (about fire)", Sylvester said. "We got out plenty fast."

Nobody in either plane was hurt.

The Orly tower, which directs takeoffs and landings at the modernistic terminal outside Paris, offered no comment.

A TWA spokesman said the Boeing 707 "followed all clearances and procedures." It had landed safely and was getting off the runway at the time, he said, adding: "It has been determined that our plane had no responsibility in the affairs."

Sylvester's version was this:

"Visibility was very bad. The pilot could not see the end of the runway. We got clearances from the tower to take off. Apparently the passenger plane got its signals mixed and tried to land.

"We were rolling down the runway near the point of no return when Capt. Sutton suddenly aborted the flight. His quick reaction saved our lives. I'm sure. Another moment and it would have been too late."

Sylvester said McNamara had no comment on the incident, adding with a chuckle: "None you can print, anyway."

With his own plane held up for repairs, McNamara diverted a K137 arriving from the United States on another mission to take him and his party to Saigon. He expected to land there Thursday morning.

Johnson Promises Free Flow Of Facts

. . . 'DO WHAT'S NATURAL'

Washington (AP)— President Johnson promised Wednesday a free flow of information from the White House, and said "we'll do what comes naturally" about news conferences.

The President, standing behind his desk in his oval office, made that statement at his second news conference—a surprise affair like the first.

But he said he may also hold televised news conferences, a style created by the late President John F. Kennedy

Johnson, in a light gray flannel suit, paced a few steps as he answered the questions of reporters clustered in front of his desk.

Minute Before

The news conference was announced only a minute before it began.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger called reporters into his office for their regular noontime briefing and announced Johnson was going to hold a news conference.

The reporters filed from Salinger's office to Johnson's. Perhaps 50 were on hand.

Been Missing

"You mean I have that many friends out there that I have been missing all of these days?" he asked. "I thought everybody I knew had been in here."

Then Johnson spent a half hour answering questions.

Sometimes he picked up papers to give figures, but most of the time he looked across his desk at the reporters.

One of the questions was what Johnson is going to do about news conferences.

Full Flow

The President said he will maintain a full flow of information from the White House.

He said his news conference format will not be rigid.

One day, he said, there may be a conference like the one he held today. It followed the tradition of President Harry S. Truman's meeting with newsmen, with reporters standing in front of the President's desk.

Another day, Johnson said, he may have a coffee hour news conference, like his first. At that meeting, on Dec. 7, newsmen sat at a coffee table, and were given coffee. Not many took time to drink it when Johnson announced he would answer questions.

At Times

Johnson also said he may hold televised news conferences at times.

Johnson said he will make public all the information he can, consistent with the national interest.

President Signs With Satisfaction

Washington (AP) — Expressing "great personal satisfaction," President Johnson signed Wednesday a $1.56 billion three-pronged federal aid to education bill. It is the third measure in this field passed by Congress this year.

The legislation sets spending authorizations — with actual funds to be provided in separate bills—for these programs:

1. Expansion on a broader basis of federal support for vocational education to train youths for modern day jobs. It is to be expanded to such new fields as business office work, appliance, repair, electronics and others.

2. Extension for another two years of the impacted areas program to aid school districts crowded because of federal installations.

3. Replenishment of exhausted college student loan funds as part of a one-year extension of the National Defense Education Act.

On Monday, Johnson signed a $1.2 billion college construction aid bill, which he called "the most significant education bill passed by Congress in the history of the republic." In September Congress sent the late President John F. Kennedy for his signature a $231 million medical education aid measure.

Johnson said the measure signed Wednesday will provide badly needed technicians, encourage youngsters to stay in school and "make possible immediate loans to 70,000 college students not able to get such loans today."

As he did in signing the college aid bill on Monday, Johnson used a batch of pens, using a single pen for almost every letter of his name and then handing the pen to a congressman.

The first pen went to Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., with the comment, "Someone said Wayne was trying to save enough out of the foreign aid bill to pay for these pens." Morse, who has been battling the administration's foreign aid requests, joined in the laughter.

Nebraska Crop Picture Better

. . . NATIONAL RECORDS SET

By The Associated Press

The Department of Agriculture reported Wednesday that Nebraska's 1963 corn crop was 287,392,000 bushels or 56 bushels an acre

The crop report, final one of the year, was somewhat brighter in this area than on Nov. 1. On that date the department sized up the Nebraska crop as one of 283,126,000 bushels—53 bushels an acre.

Last year the Nebraska crop was 313 million bushels at 61 bushels an acre.

The average corn crop in Nebraska during the 1951 to 1960 decade was only 216 million bushels and the average yield 36½ bushels an acre.

The Agriculture Department said the Nebraska wheat crop had been tallied at 63,490,000 bushels or 21½ bushels an acre. This was 9½ million bushels more than last year and two bushels an acre higher.

The Nebraska oats crop was 26 847 000 bushels (23½ bushels an acre) compared with 32,043 000 bushels in 1962, rye 1,812 000 bushels (12 bushels an acre) compared with 3,600,000; last year; grain sorghum with 95,506,000; dry beans 1 520.000 hundredweight (1,900 pounds per acre) compared with 1,012,000 in 1962; sugar beets 1,590,000 tons (19.2 tons per acre) compared with 915,000 tons last year.

The Agriculture Department's final crop report of the year showed national production exceeded the previous record by far.

It said output was 112% of the 1957-59 average, compared with 107% last year, and the previous high of 103% in 1960 A month ago, the Department had estimated this year's production at 110% of the 1957-59 average

Crop acreage was 2% larger than last year, and the acre-yields for most crops were at or near record highs

The Department said favorable growing conditions in most of the north and south-central states helped push production to the new high level Total output of feed grains, food grains, vegetable oil seeds, cotton, sugar crops, seed crops and fruits and nuts were larger than last year

On the other hand, hay, tobacco and miscellaneous crops were somewhat smaller than last year.

Featuring production this year was the largest corn crop of record—4,081,395,000 bushels, compared with the previous high of 3,908,000,000 in 1960.

Music Store Owner Cited On Gambling

Hastings (UPI)—The owner of a music service here was free on bond Wednesday, charged with keeping a slot machine and 75 cases of punch boards.

Adams County authorities said the arrest resulted from a six-months investigation into activities of Tom May, 31, owner of Jack's Music Service

May was released on $1,500 bond for a Jan 8 hearing. He was booked for keeping gambling devices.

The sheriff's office said a storeroom containing the slot machine, punch boards, and other gambling devices was raided. The illegal equipment was being kept in a rented room.

Swimming Pool Set By Harvard Voters

Harvard (UPI) — Voters here approved a $50,000 bond issue for a municipal swimming pool, the same issue which failed by eight votes last April 2

The tally was 280-145, about 66% compared with the needed 60%.

Kindly Custodian Honored

Omaha (UPI) — Pupils at Kellom School have no better friend than Mrs Louise Campbell, school custodian This year, the school and the city's educational community paid her honor

Mrs Campbell, a widow who has raised her family and is now a grandmother, was asked to be on hand to sing "Silent Night" at the "Friends of Children" award program

Surprise

Dr Paul A Miller, Omaha superintendent of schools, was to be this year's award recipient so Mrs. Campbell was told When the moment arrived, Miller stepped up, not to receive the award but to give it to Mrs Campbell

The kindly custodian of Kellom has helped many in her time

One new kindergarten teacher said she was on the verge of quitting over trouble with a few unruly youngsters. The problem ended with Mrs. Campbell's advice:

"If a child needs a paddling, turn him over your knee and do it. I'll stand by and tell him he deserves it because I know his mother, and I know she would be doing the same thing"

Last winter, Mrs Campbell kept only enough from one of her paychecks to buy groceries one week The rest went to a needy family with four children and not enough warm clothes

Fed Hungry

Kellom teachers said she searches out children who report to school without eating and finds them food

Mrs. Campbell credits a pre-school examination with uncovering a potentially dangerous physical defect in her grandson. Now, she spends hours persuading parents to get examinations for their youngsters

Her singing of "Silent Night" is now a Christmas tradition of 21 years standing.

"It is almost like a prayer," said the principal, Dr. Edythe K Hall

Agents Eye Nov. 21 Handout Of Hate-Kennedy Literature

Dallas (AP)—The Dallas Times Herald said Wednesday that the Secret Service is probing appearance of hate-Kennedy literature at Arlington State College the day before the President was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22

The agency also is probing a remark by a student who, the Times Herald said, is believed to have said it would be possible for him to shoot the President from an office window.

Agents, accompanied by detectives from the Arlington police, questioned students of a night history class Tuesday night.

One of the students said secret Service agents were primarily concerned with the remark of the student

The day before Kennedy's assassination, literature attacking the late President appeared on the campus of the school about 15 miles west of Dallas.

Nebraska Crop Picture Better

. . . NATIONAL RECORDS SET

By The Associated Press

The Department of Agriculture reported Wednesday that Nebraska's 1963 corn crop was 287,392,000 bushels or 56 bushels an acre.

The crop report, final one of the year, was somewhat brighter in this area than on Nov. 1. On that date the department sized up the Nebraska crop as one of 283,126,000 bushels—53 bushels an acre.

Last year the Nebraska crop was 313 million bushels at 61 bushels an acre.

The average corn crop in Nebraska during the 1951 to 1960 decade was only 216 million bushels and the average yield 36½ bushels an acre.

The Agriculture Department said the Nebraska wheat crop had been tallied at 63,490,000 bushels or 21½ bushels an acre. This was 9½ million bushels more than last year and two bushels an acre higher.

The Nebraska oats crop was 26,847,000 bushels (28½ bushels an acre) compared with 32,043,000 bushels in 1962; rye 1,812,000 bushels (12 bushels an acre) compared with 3,600,000; last year; grain sorghum with 95,506,000; dry beans 1,520,000 hundredweight (1,900 pounds per acre) compared with 1,012,000 in 1962; sugar beets 1,590,000 tons (19.2 tons per acre) compared with 945,000 tons last year.

The Agriculture Department's final crop report of the year showed national production exceeded the previous record by far.

It said output was 112% of the 1957-59 average, compared with 107% last year, and the previous high of 103% in 1960. A month ago, the Department had estimated this year's production at 110% of the 1957-59 average.

Crop acreage was 2% larger than last year, and the acre-yields for most crops were at or near record highs.

The Department said favorable growing conditions in most of the north and south-central states helped push production to the new high level. Total output of feed grains, food grains, vegetable oil seeds, cotton, sugar crops, seed crops and fruits and nuts were larger than last year.

On the other hand, hay, tobacco and miscellaneous crops were somewhat smaller than last year.

Featuring production this year was the largest corn crop of record—4,081,395,000 bushels, compared with the previous high of 3,908,000,000 in 1960.

Polk — There's a Cheerful Giver in the Polk community.

For three consecutive years at Christmas time an anonymous giver has sent $50 to the ministers of three churches of Polk, the Methodist, the Baptist and the Evangelical Free.

There's no note or letter with the bills. Ministers say the money is put in the general fund.

The postmark on the envelopes is Polk.

Music Store Owner Cited On Gambling

Hastings (UPI)—The owner of a music service here was free on bond Wednesday, charged with keeping a slot machine and 75 cases of punch boards.

Adams County authorities said the arrest resulted from a six-months investigation into activities of Tom May, 31, owner of Jack's Music Service.

May was released on $1,500 bond for a Jan. 8 hearing. He was booked for keeping gambling devices.

The sheriff's office said a storeroom containing the slot machine, punch boards, and other gambling devices was raided. The illegal equipment was being kept in a rented room.

Swimming Pool Set By Harvard Voters

Harvard (UPI) — Voters here approved a $50,000 bond issue for a municipal swimming pool, the same issue which failed by eight votes last April 2.

The tally was 280-145, about 66% compared with the needed 60%.

Kindly Custodian Honored

Omaha (UPI) — Pupils at Kellom School have no better friend than Mrs. Louise Campbell, school custodian. This year, the school and the city's educational community paid her honor.

Mrs. Campbell, a widow who has raised her family and is now a grandmother, was asked to be on hand to sing "Silent Night" at the "Friends of Children" award program.

Surprise

Dr. Paul A. Miller, Omaha superintendent of schools, was to be this year's award recipient, so Mrs. Campbell was told. When the moment arrived, Miller stepped up, not to receive the award but to give it to Mrs. Campbell.

The kindly custodian of Kellom has helped many in her time.

One new kindergarten teacher said she was on the verge of quitting over trouble with a few unruly youngsters. The problem ended with Mrs. Campbell's advice:

"If a child needs a paddling, turn him over your knee and do it. I'll stand by and tell him he deserves it because I know his mother, and I know she would be doing the same thing."

Last winter, Mrs. Campbell kept only enough from one of her paychecks to buy groceries one week. The rest went to a needy family with four children and not enough warm clothes.

Fed Hungry

Kellom teachers said she searches out children who report to school without eating and finds them food.

Mrs. Campbell credits a pre-school examination with uncovering a potentially dangerous physical defect in her grandson. Now, she spends hours persuading parents to get examinations for their youngsters.

Her singing of "Silent Night" is now a Christmas tradition of 21 years standing.

"It is almost like a prayer," said the principal, Dr. Edythe K. Hall.

Football In Limelight

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

There isn't much doubt that one of the top stories of 1963 for Nebraska has been football at the University of Nebraska. If it can be topped by anything, it would be headed by the state situation on interest rate laws but the two would run a close contest in public interest. A great many things can be said about the football situation, most of them good, but a few of them a little sobering.

Talented Also In Comedy

Definitely on the good side is the news that head Coach Bob Devaney has withdrawn his name from consideration for the same position at Miami University. True to form, Devaney quipped in Omaha that his wife had just purchased new snow tires and they wouldn't give her her money back. Naturally, the only way to make the deal pay off was to stay in Nebraska. This is typical of Devaney who, if he ever does stop coaching, should go immediately into the comedy field. He is one of those spontaneous and natural comedians who always leaves his audience in stitches. They are a real rarity and always good to have around.

But as a great many teams can attest, Devaney is no comedian on the football field. He is deadly serious when it comes to winning a football game and, as a result of this, racked up a 9-and-1 season in 1963. This put Nebraskans in the clouds and almost lost them the coach who did it for them. It's strange how a victory of one kind can come so close to a defeat of another kind.

With two winning seasons in a row, Nebraska fans were not about to lose Devaney. A $100,000 life insurance policy is now assured for Devaney as a result of a concentrated fund drive over the state. One of the brighter aspects of this is that Omaha has led in contributions toward paying off the premiums on this policy.

It is with genuine good feeling that we welcome Omaha into Nebraska. There is a note of sarcasm there, in case you didn't detect it. Omaha, however, is to be complimented on the leading part it took in meeting the premium demand. And it is sincerely felt that if Omaha took the action in a number of other areas that it took on the premium matter, this state would be a heck of a lot better off than it is. Omaha has metropolitan needs that must be met but all too often the city tries to satisfy these needs at the expense of some other area and is prone to refuse to recognize that any of the rest of the state also has its problems. It would be a wonderful thing if the state cooperated in all areas as it does when it comes to football.

For Nebraska fans, a word of caution might be in order at this time. It is hoped that Devaney has a 10-and-0 record in 1964, wins every single game, and wallops Auburn in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1 and somebody else in the same place a year from then. But it is just possible that all this might not come to pass. Anything can happen in football and many, many college teams are to the point today where any one of them could knock off another one on any given Saturday afternoon. The Big Eight race will be even tougher next year than it was this year. Missouri, Iowa State and Oklahoma will all be better next year than they were this year. Nebraska will lose next year many of those who starred on this year's championship club.

We are not attempting to make any excuses in advance for Devaney and his staff and hope they need none but the record in 1964 could be 5-and-5 as easily as it was 9-and-1 this year. If the coaching seems at fault any place along the line, whether in victory or defeat, we will not hesitate to say so but we hope Nebraskans are not fair weather football followers.

We hope that if Nebraska loses a few next year, the people of this state are as gracious as they are now. One of the most disgraceful things of all in college football is the effigy business and we hope we never see it again in Nebraska even if we lose every single game we play.

State's Capacity For Liberalism

Still on the subject, it can be said that if Nebraska went about things in other areas as it goes after football we would, indeed, be an outstanding state. We are burning liberals when it comes to football and money seems to be no object at all if it can produce a winning team. Without judgment as to the merits or shortcomings of that, we wonder why there is such hesitancy in other areas. Why isn't the rest of the University of Nebraska which, believe it or not, is more important than football, not given the enthusiastic support that athletics receives? We wonder how many thousands could be collected for the chancellor of the university if he were offered a better position elsewhere? And incidentally, this has already happened in the past and few people even knew about it.

We have eaten no sour grapes and go to every football game and cheer our lungs out and love to win and can hardly stand to lose and love our national ranking in the Top Ten—but, we hope, haven't yet lost our sense of values. With that, we say, on to the Orange Bowl and we expect the Huskers to show no mercy to the Auburn Tigers.

The Extension Agent

Nebraska takes its county extension agents for granted and considers the extension service in agriculture and home economics a fireside institution not only in the farm areas but in many small towns as well.

It is interesting to note that in Iowa, a state which has long considered itself No. 1 in the extension service, there is a rising conviction that the county agent must diversify his service or suffer self-elimination.

The Des Moines Register observed that, "The technological revolution in agriculture which Extension did so much to generate is removing extension clients from the scene. The fewer farmers who remain now get much of their technical and educational help from private business and public agencies that are more specialized than Extension."

In a way this is a great tribute to the excellence of the extension service. Its leadership and educational program worked. It trained a couple of generations of 4-H boys and girls who are now carrying on as adults. It breathed new life into junior fairs. It guided farmers through the transition to farming by power machinery and chemistry. It did spectacularly fine work organizing agriculture for the production demands of World War II.

Iowa may fear that the extension agent has taught himself out of a job. We think not. A teacher need not retire simply because his class has graduated. Rather it appears that the extension service has proved its usefulness.

Making The Least Of Things

When your car goes on the blink, call a plumber. When you have a pain in the chest, consult your lawyer. If you have a problem with your local City Council, talk it over with your state senator. That is a bunch of pretty poor advice but it is the kind of hash being thrown out by the Nebraska School Improvement Association.

The NSIA wants the professional educator thrown out of all discussions of education. How ridiculous can we get? What, we would like to know, is wrong with the professional educator's taking a leading part in the progressive growth of education? Who else knows the subject and the need any better than the professional educator?

The fact is that we should be critical of the educator if he is not vitally interested in the subject of education and working to improve our schools. But instead, the governor of the state is criticized for holding a statewide conference on education at which professional educators were in attendance and at which they were active.

The NSIA contends that the statewide conference was "loaded" against the small schools and used to disseminate propaganda for a broadened tax base and school district reorganization. We were there and the assertion by the NSIA is completely false. In fact, quite the contrary is true. It is beyond a doubt that this statewide conference included more new faces and fewer professional educators than has been the case in any other educational effort with which we are familiar.

Naturally, the small schools probably were not as heavily represented as the larger schools but isn't this rather logical? The NSIA simply discovered at the conference that it could find few followers of its regressive position and for this the state can be thankful. What we really need is more of the professional educator and less of the NSIA.

Time For The Evidence

Governor Morrison has assured the Nebraska cattle industry that his administration's investigation of the maladjustment in beef prices will continue. He added that the ultimate findings will be made available to the federal government.

This leads to the hope that something more concrete and useful will come out of future hearings and study. This week's hearing in which 28 interests testified did not so qualify. It simply produced whipping boys according to the inner convictions, or the respective doctrines of agricultural organizations. If there was any one common villain it was imported meat.

The Nebraska tax structure was blamed. Vertical integration was castigated. The agricultural organizations which lay store by cooperatives saw in them the happy answer. The Farm Bureau preached its dogma against restrictive controls on livestock production. The AFL-CIO exonerated labor, noting that it extracts but 1.5 cents per pound for its part in the business. Two witnesses thought the whole investigation should be quashed.

Such testimony is not truly investigative. It is simply an assertion of points of view. Future hearings should address themselves to gathering and studying substantial evidence. Indictments should give way to dialogue out of which useful information can be derived.

The fact that only two witnesses were opposed to further inquiry while 26 were prepared for further fact finding can be construed as a strong demand for a continuing investigation. It can be deduced that Nebraskans are eager to find out what is really the matter with their livestock industry. And they have a right to know.

Girlie Probe Is Senate Baffler

WASHINGTON — For almost two days last week the Senate Rules committee hassled behind closed doors with the controversial problem of sex.

Republican senators, particularly Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Carl Curtis of Nebraska, wanted to bring in call girls as witnesses. They discussed problems of assignation and whether telephone calls placed over Senate telephone lines, leading to assignation, were proper. Sen. Howard Cannon, Democrat from the unsophisticated city of Las Vegas, Nev., even wanted to know what an assignation was.

The debate was inspired by the Bobby Baker investigation and the claim by Sen. John Williams, R-Del., that girls were used to pull wires and influence people in getting business contracts. At the end of this closed-door debate, the Senate Rules committee apparently had come to no conclusive position on the question of sex.

The only definite conclusion, unexpressed but nevertheless firm, was that the Republican members were anxious to prolong the Bobby Baker probe as long as possible in order to break into headlines nearer elections.

It all began when Sen. Williams, GOP sleuth from the duchy of the Du Ponts, reported that certain ladies of the evening had spoken to him about their relations with other senators and some of them would be willing to testify. As far as could be determined from the closed door testimony, ten Democratic senators and administrative assistants, plus five Republicans were involved.

☆ ☆ ☆

This information has been hanging like a pink cloud with lace frills over the Senate, and the Senate Rules committee finally decided to dispel it. The committee was not successful. The pink cloud remains undispelled.

While examining Edward M. Bostick, president of the Melpar Company which Bobby Baker represented, Sen. Scott asked the witness whether two girls, and he named them, were on the Melpar payroll.

Bostick replied in the negative.

"Do you know Miss S---?" Scott asked.

"This question is not germane," replied Bostick.

Scott argued that it was germane, but the chief counsel of the committee, P. L. McLendon, argued that it was not. There is no information in the files uncovered by our investigators which would show this question to be germane, he said.

"If there's nothing in the files," ruled Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., "I'll have to rule against the senator from Pennsylvania."

Scott was not easily discouraged. He argued that the question was germane.

Finally Sen. Claiborne Pell proposed, "why not excuse the witness for 30 seconds while we find out whether the question is germane?"

"It would take a lot longer than 30 seconds to ascertain this," shot back the Philadelphia lawyer. He agreed, however, to an adjournment.

FBI Helps Local Police Without Usurping Powers

NEW YORK — Dallas police lips and Los Angeles rumbling in the Sinatra kidnapping case imply some treading on local toes by the FBI. Yet, it's high time that bureau's beneficent help to community law enforcement was better understood.

Cooperation with local agencies is as fixed in FBI policy as the four wheels in a car. But that's only part of the largely unwritten story. The rest is the spirit and vision of Director J. Edgar Hoover, thanked not only in many great American city but in our embassies abroad.

This fighter against crime and the Communist apparatus is as touchy as a bear with a sore nose about any push of the FBI toward becoming a national police force. A basic and frustrating problem of the FBI is to limit its own responsibilities. The drain on personnel and facilities is constant and the strains on FBI policy intense. Even Congress doesn't help too much.

For example, disgusted with cattle theft during a rash of moo-moo snatching, plains Congressmen passed a law that made the chasing of cows across state borders an FBI responsibility. Yet this is exactly the tendency FBI policy tries to resist.

Twenty-eight years ago Director Hoover began his offset against such a gravitational pull, attempting to lift the quality and independence of local law enforcement agencies by founding the FBI National Academy, among other moves.

In two 12-week sessions every April and August 100 community law enforcement officers, nominated locally, enter the Academy for what the famous Nachrichtendienst, the Swiss intelligence service, and Scotland Yard alike have told me is the finest training course in the world.

In this way 4,354 topflight men in their communities have been graduated. In the current year alone 191 officers from 41 states, the District of Columbia and 15 foreign countries have been returned to where they came from with greatly perfected knowledge and, moreover, very close workings with the FBI.

In addition to its Academy, the FBI has more than a thousand special agents qualified to instruct other law enforcement officers in our communities when requested. At the moment they're working away in local law enforcement schools with an attendance exceeding 100,000. These are specialists in defensive tactics, search and seizure, fingerprinting, photography and the whole new, enormous range of electronic police and counterespionage work.

Their credentials are impressive. Over 96 percent of the persons brought to trial this year in cases investigated by the FBI were convicted. The money scooped up is a remarkable item, too. Fines, savings and recoveries totaled—for the year alone—more than $186 million. A study of the bureau's annual report shows this means a return of $1.37 for every dollar appropriated for the FBI for fiscal 1963.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes pyorrhea? Is there a cure? Years ago I worked for an orthodontist, and am wondering what advances have been made since then, because he tried everything but the ultimate result was loss of teeth. Now my 37-year-old son has this trouble. He has consulted a number of dentists but they don't all agree. Some want to extract only a few teeth and leave the others for an abutment. Personally I feel all the teeth should be removed if they are diseased.—MRS. R. L.

I can't agree that all his teeth should be removed. Perhaps so, perhaps not. It depends on the condition of those teeth.

I've consulted a dentist of considerable prominence and I'll give you the information he gave me. But first, what is pyorrhea? A disease of the gums, rather than of the teeth. It is quite possible (although perhaps not probable) that someone without any cavities may still have pyorrhea.

Molner

Germs congregate, not in the gums at first, but in the crevices between or on the surface of the teeth. As this continues, the gums become inflamed, at the tooth margins. There may be little or no pain. But as the germ colonies increase, they work down below the surface, along the tooth, and the gum recedes.

There is no single germ. There are many varieties. There is no drug that can "cure pyorrhea." There's no easy way of stopping it.

Yet it is not a hopeless problem, either. We have antibiotics, and we also have modern techniques.

My adviser states: "Not many years ago pyorrhea or periodontitis, as we call it, was generally regarded as incurable and therefore doomed the teeth to removal. Today dentists have found methods to eliminate much pyorrhea without tooth extraction."

If the ailment has continued too far, there isn't much to do. But with careful examination, often including X-ray, it now is possible to save the teeth that have not been too much damaged, while removing the ones for which there is no hope. Treatment includes medication, special techniques for removing under-the-surface pockets of infection and care to prevent or remove sites of new infection.

Having the teeth cleaned by a dentist every so often is certainly the best method of preventing pyorrhea, because it removes the tartar or calculus which is such a breeding ground for germs.

But even when pyorrhea has developed, painstaking care can save the teeth which have not been too much loosened, and saving some teeth is better than losing all. Or as the dentist puts it, "So far there are no medicines or miracle drugs which in themselves cure pyorrhea. Nothing can take the place of daily gum massage and regular visits to the dentist for thorough examinations."

But you CAN quite easily avoid most pyorrhea, and you CAN now find out which teeth can be saved and which cannot, if the disease has gained a start but been recognized in time.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was told to eat sunflower seeds to strengthen my eyesight. I am 68. Are they good to eat? — MRS. M.P.

They won't help your eyes, or anything else. Let the birds eat 'em.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would it be wise for a person to start playing tennis at the age of 30? I bowl occasionally, and am healthy except that I have an underactive thyroid. — J. H.

There's no reason why you shouldn't play tennis. We'd all be better off if we started such sports at 30 instead of stopping them, as so many of us do. Take it easy in the beginning.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Molner: If a person has smoked cigarets for 50 years and then stops, could he suffer any reaction or ill effect? — S. P.

Any reaction? Possibly, depending on how heavily he has smoked.

A moderate smoker would have no reaction at all. A heavy smoker might find himself quite irritable, perhaps sweaty, possibly sleepless and generally uncomfortable until he adjusted. This would be only a matter of a few days, and would not be harmful, only annoying.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is osteomyelitis and what can be done about it? — A. R.

It is inflammation of the bone, usually the result of infection, and tending to become chronic. Sometimes it is necessary to scrape the bone along with using antibiotics. Choice of the antibiotic depends on the type of germ.

Dr. Dr. Molner: Can children of the same parents have children of three different blood types? — A. D.

Yes, depending on the blood types of the parents.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Gratitude

Lincoln, Neb.

At this time we would like to express our gratitude to the many friends and neighbors in this whole city and surrounding area for all the kindness shown us during the past days since the death on December 5 of our beloved wife and mother.

Words cannot begin to thank all the wonderful people for what they have done for us during this time, trying to bring us a bit of comfort and assurance.

We have always loved Lincoln as a clean, beautiful and friendly community and, as many have done, we more or less have taken everything for granted from day to day. But when the tragedy of death comes, we suddenly are awakened to the fact that we are in a large community of God's own children, who day after day go out of their way to help others. We are grateful that we have been allowed to be a part of this group of people.

I appreciated the editorial, "Farming Gets Attention." Farmers are gullible not to see that the Farm Bureau's ultimate goal is to control farmers and reap the 1½ to 2 percent write-off on all farm produce sales through AAMA. To achieve this goal means removal of all government programs and free trade with little or no tariff imports. People live more cheaply overseas. Soon we will be on their living standards.

Not The First Time

Syracuse, Neb.

For years the Farm Bureau and our good Senators Hruska and Curtis have stated that the government should get out and let the farmer run his own business. "Look at the cattle industry," they said. "They have no government help and are doing fine."

What happened? Did the cattlemen do something wrong? Cattle prices are low and going lower. Cattlemen all over the nation are crying for help from their congressmen, governors, Secretary Freeman and other heads of state.

Maybe the cattlemen do need help from their government. This is not the first time they have been in trouble.

Wheel Tax Increase

Lincoln, Neb.

Councilman John Mason in proposing an increase in the wheel tax should explore a few facts. A wheel tax is a duplicate form of taxation and can be constitutional only upon a vote of the people. The facts cannot be denied that when the voter voted in favor of a wheel tax, he voted for a set amount and was led to believe that this money was to go for street improvements over a period of 11½ years at the cost of $16½ million.

It is a further fact that this money has not been used as the public was led to believe it was going to be. It is also a fact that a court action was filed pertaining to the amount that the wheel tax should be.

Apparently Mr. Mason feels that since the voters approved a wheel tax, this gave the City Council the right to raise the amount at any time, which is definitely not true. The only way this tax can be raised is through a vote of the people.

Gun Ownership

Lincoln, Neb.

I noticed a letter recently regarding the owning of guns. Laws such as those suggested are in effect in England and New York and in both instances have disarmed the honest citizen and put the trade in guns into the hands of crooks.

The letter stated that our guns are no good for defense. I'd say they were an improvement over the pitchfork my English cousin intended to use on the Nazis in 1940.

In order to protect stock and children, we have killed most predators. During the last century, we hunted meat animals a lot, too. About 1900 people started a movement to save the buffalo and others. The result is that deer and a lot of other animals are having a population explosion. There are more deer in this country than in 1492 but only a tenth of the food, so they die of cold and hunger instead of a merciful bullet.

A traffic safety program would save more lives, as we have killed more people with cars in 60 years than in all the wars and gun accidents of 90 years.

The Ratings

Alexandria, Neb.

Teachers should have their certificates renewed on the basis of how well they teach. At the conclusion of each course, their classes should be given a state-conducted examination. If their classes do exceptionally well, they should be given a highly rated certificate. If their classes do average, they should be given an average certificate. If their classes do poorly, their certificates should be lifted.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"—And this one, I can let you have at a bargain price."

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

There isn't much doubt that one of the top stories of 1963 for Nebraska has been football at the University of Nebraska. If it can be topped by anything, it would be headed by the state situation on interest rate laws but the two would run a close contest in public interest. A great many things can be said about the football situation, most of them good, but a few of them a little sobering.

Talented Also In Comedy

Definitely on the good side is the news that head Coach Bob Devaney has withdrawn his name from consideration for the same position at Miami University. True to form, Devaney quipped in Omaha that his wife had just purchased new snow tires and they wouldn't give her her money back. Naturally, the only way to make the deal pay off was to stay in Nebraska. This is typical of Devaney who, if he ever does stop coaching, should go immediately into the comedy field. He is one of those spontaneous and natural comedians who always leaves his audience in stitches. They are a real rarity and always good to have around.

But as a great many teams can attest, Devaney is no comedian on the football field. He is deadly serious when it comes to winning a football game and, as a result of this, racked up a 9-and-1 season in 1963. This put Nebraskans in the clouds and almost lost them the coach who did it for them. It's strange how a victory of one kind can come so close to a defeat of another kind.

With two winning seasons in a row, Nebraska fans were not about to lose Devaney. A $100,000 life insurance policy is now assured for Devaney as a result of a concentrated fund drive over the state. One of the brighter aspects of this is that Omaha has led in contributions toward paying off the premiums on this policy.

It is with genuine good feeling that we welcome Omaha into Nebraska. There is a note of sarcasm there, in case you didn't detect it. Omaha, however, is to be complimented on the leading part it took in meeting the premium demand. And it is sincerely felt that if Omaha took the action in a number of other areas that it took on the premium matter, this state would be a heck of a lot better off than it is. Omaha has metropolitan needs that must be met but all too often the city tries to satisfy these needs at the expense of some other area and is prone to refuse to recognize that any of the rest of the state also has its problems. It would be a wonderful thing if the state cooperated in all areas as it does when it comes to football.

For Nebraska fans, a word of caution might be in order at this time. It is hoped that Devaney has a 10-and-0 record in 1964, wins every single game, and wallops Auburn in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1 and somebody else in the same place a year from then. But it is just possible that all this might not come to pass. Anything can happen in football and many, many college teams are to the point today where any one of them could knock off another one on any given Saturday afternoon. The Big Eight race will be even tougher next year than it was this year. Missouri, Iowa State and Oklahoma will all be better next year than they were this year. Nebraska will lose next year many of those who starred on this year's championship club.

We are not attempting to make any excuses in advance for Devaney and his staff and hope they need none but the record in 1964 could be 5-and-5 as easily as it was 9-and-1 this year. If the coaching seems at fault any place along the line, whether in victory or defeat, we will not hesitate to say so but we hope Nebraskans are not fair weather football followers.

We hope that if Nebraska loses a few next year, the people of this state are as gracious as they are now. One of the most disgraceful things of all in college football is the effigy business and we hope we never see it again in Nebraska even if we lose every single game we play.

State's Capacity For Liberalism

Still on the subject, it can be said that if Nebraska went about things in other areas as it goes after football we would, indeed, be an outstanding state. We are burning liberals when it comes to football and money seems to be no object at all if it can produce a winning team. Without judgment as to the merits or shortcomings of that, we wonder why there is such hesitancy in other areas. Why isn't the rest of the University of Nebraska which, believe it or not, is more important than football, not given the enthusiastic support that athletics receives? We wonder how many thousands could be collected for the chancellor of the university if he were offered a better position elsewhere? And incidentally, this has already happened in the past and few people even knew about it.

We have eaten no sour grapes and go to every football game and cheer our lungs out and love to win and can hardly stand to lose and love our national ranking in the Top Ten—but, we hope, haven't yet lost our sense of values. With that, we say, on to the Orange Bowl and we expect the Huskers to show no mercy to the Auburn Tigers.

The Extension Agent

Nebraska takes its county extension agents for granted and considers the extension service in agriculture and home economics a fireside institution not only in the farm areas but in many small towns as well.

It is interesting to note that in Iowa, a state which has long considered itself No. 1 in the extension service, there is a rising conviction that the county agent must diversify his service or suffer self-elimination.

The Des Moines Register observed that, "The technological revolution in agriculture which Extension did so much to generate is removing extension clients from the scene. The fewer farmers who remain now get much of their technical and educational help from private business and public agencies that are more specialized than Extension."

In a way this is a great tribute to the excellence of the extension service. Its leadership and educational program worked. It trained a couple of generations of 4-H boys and girls who are now carrying on as adults. It breathed new life into junior fairs. It guided farmers through the transition to farming by power machinery and chemistry. It did spectacularly fine work organizing agriculture for the production demands of World War II.

Iowa may fear that the extension agent has taught himself out of a job. We think not. A teacher need not retire simply because his class has graduated. Rather it appears that the extension service has proved its usefulness.

Making The Least Of Things

When your car goes on the blink, call a plumber. When you have a pain in the chest, consult your lawyer. If you have a problem with your local City Council, talk it over with your state senator. That is a bunch of pretty poor advice but it is the kind of hash being thrown out by the Nebraska School Improvement Association.

The NSIA wants the professional educator thrown out of all discussions of education. How ridiculous can we get? What, we would like to know, is wrong with the professional educator's taking a leading part in the progressive growth of education? Who else knows the subject and the need any better than the professional educator?

The fact is that we should be critical of the educator if he is not vitally interested in the subject of education and working to improve our schools. But instead, the governor of the state is criticized for holding a statewide conference on education at which professional educators were in attendance and at which they were active.

The NSIA contends that the statewide conference was "loaded" against the small schools and used to disseminate propaganda for a broadened tax base and school district reorganization. We were there and the assertion by the NSIA is completely false. In fact, quite the contrary is true. It is beyond a doubt that this statewide conference included more new faces and fewer professional educators than has been the case in any other educational effort with which we are familiar.

Naturally, the small schools probably were not as heavily represented as the larger schools but isn't this rather logical? The NSIA simply discovered at the conference that it could find few followers of its regressive position and for this the state can be thankful. What we really need is more of the professional educator and less of the NSIA.

Time For The Evidence

Governor Morrison has assured the Nebraska cattle industry that his administration's investigation of the maladjustment in beef prices will continue. He added that the ultimate findings will be made available to the federal government.

This leads to the hope that something more concrete and useful will come out of future hearings and study. This week's hearing in which 28 interests testified did not so qualify. It simply produced whipping boys according to the inner convictions, or the respective doctrines of agricultural organizations. If there was any one common villain it was imported meat.

The Nebraska tax structure was blamed. Vertical integration was castigated. The agricultural organizations which lay store by cooperatives saw in them the happy answer. The Farm Bureau preached its dogma against restrictive controls on livestock production. The AFL-CIO exonerated labor, noting that it extracts but 1.5 cents per pound for its part in the business. Two witnesses thought the whole investigation should be quashed.

Such testimony is not truly investigative. It is simply an assertion of points of view. Future hearings should address themselves to gathering and studying substantial evidence. Indictments should give way to dialogue out of which useful information can be derived.

The fact that only two witnesses were opposed to further inquiry while 26 were prepared for further fact finding can be construed as a strong demand for a continuing investigation. It can be deduced that Nebraskans are eager to find out what is really the matter with their livestock industry. And they have a right to know.

There is no single germ. There are many varieties. There is no drug that can "cure pyorrhea." There's no easy way of stopping it.

Yet it is not a hopeless problem, either. We have antibiotics, and we also have modern techniques.

My adviser states: "Not many years ago pyorrhea or periodontitis, as we call it, was generally regarded as incurable and therefore doomed the teeth to removal. Today dentists have found methods to eliminate much pyorrhea without tooth extraction."

If the ailment has continued too far, there isn't much to do. But with careful examination, often including X-ray, it now is possible to save the teeth that have not been too much damaged, while removing the ones for which there is no hope. Treatment includes medication, special techniques for removing under-the-surface pockets of infection and care to prevent or remove sites of new infection.

Having the teeth cleaned by a dentist every so often is certainly the best method of preventing pyorrhea, because it removes the tartar or calculus which is such a breeding ground for germs.

But even when pyorrhea has developed, painstaking care can save the teeth which have not been too much loosened, and saving some teeth is better than losing all. Or as the dentist puts it, "So far there are no medicines or miracle drugs which in themselves cure pyorrhea. Nothing can take the place of daily gum massage and regular visits to the dentist for thorough examinations."

But you CAN quite easily avoid most pyorrhea, and you CAN now find out which teeth can be saved and which cannot, if the disease has gained a start but been recognized in time.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was told to eat sunflower seeds to strengthen my eyesight. I am 68. Are they good to eat? — MRS. M.P.

They won't help your eyes, or anything else. Let the birds eat 'em.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would it be wise for a person to start playing tennis at the age of 30? I bowl occasionally, and am healthy except that I have an underactive thyroid. — J. H.

There's no reason why you shouldn't play tennis. We'd all be better off if we started such sports at 30 instead of stopping them, as so many of us do. Take it easy in the beginning.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Molner: If a person has smoked cigarets for 50 years and then stops, could he suffer any reaction or ill effect? — S. P.

Any reaction? Possibly, depending on how heavily he has smoked.

A moderate smoker would have no reaction at all. A heavy smoker might find himself quite irritable, perhaps sweaty, possibly sleepless and generally uncomfortable until he adjusted. This would be only a matter of a few days, and would not be harmful, only annoying.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is osteomyelitis and what can be done about it? — A. R.

It is inflammation of the bone, usually the result of infection, and tending to become chronic. Sometimes it is necessary to scrape the bone along with using antibiotics. Choice of the antibiotic depends on the type of germ.

Dr. Dr. Molner: Can children of the same parents have children of three different blood types? — A. D.

Yes, depending on the blood types of the parents.

Gratitude

Lincoln, Neb.

At this time we would like to express our gratitude to the many friends and neighbors in this whole city and surrounding area for all the kindness shown us during the past days since the death on December 5 of our beloved wife and mother.

Words cannot begin to thank all the wonderful people for what they have done for us during this time, trying to bring us a bit of comfort and assurance.

We have always loved Lincoln as a clean, beautiful and friendly community and, as many have done, we more or less have taken everything for granted from day to day. But when the tragedy of death comes, we suddenly are awakened to the fact that we are in a large community of God's own children, who day after day go out of their way to help others. We are grateful that we have been allowed to be a part of this group of people.

I appreciated the editorial, "Farming Gets Attention." Farmers are gullible not to see that the Farm Bureau's ultimate goal is to control farmers and reap the 1½ to 2 percent write-off on all farm produce sales through AAMA. To achieve this goal means removal of all government programs and free trade with little or no tariff imports. People live more cheaply overseas. Soon we will be on their living standards.

Not The First Time

Syracuse, Neb.

For years the Farm Bureau and our good Senators Hruska and Curtis have stated that the government should get out and let the farmer run his own business. "Look at the cattle industry," they said. "They have no government help and are doing fine."

What happened? Did the cattlemen do something wrong? Cattle prices are low and going lower. Cattlemen all over the nation are crying for help from their congressmen, governors, Secretary Freeman and other heads of state.

Maybe the cattlemen do need help from their government. This is not the first time they have been in trouble.

Wheel Tax Increase

Lincoln, Neb.

Councilman John Mason in proposing an increase in the wheel tax should explore a few facts. A wheel tax is a duplicate form of taxation and can be constitutional only upon a vote of the people. The facts cannot be denied that when the voter voted in favor of a wheel tax, he voted for a set amount and was led to believe that this money was to go for street improvements over a period of 11½ years at the cost of $16½ million.

It is a further fact that this money has not been used as the public was led to believe it was going to be. It is also a fact that a court action was filed pertaining to the amount that the wheel tax should be.

Apparently Mr. Mason feels that since the voters approved a wheel tax, this gave the City Council the right to raise the amount at any time, which is definitely not true. The only way this tax can be raised is through a vote of the people.

Gun Ownership

Lincoln, Neb.

I noticed a letter recently regarding the owning of guns. Laws such as those suggested are in effect in England and New York and in both instances have disarmed the honest citizen and put the trade in guns into the hands of crooks.

The letter stated that our guns are no good for defense. I'd say they were an improvement over the pitchfork my English cousin intended to use on the Nazis in 1940.

In order to protect stock and children, we have killed most predators. During the last century, we hunted meat animals a lot, too. About 1900 people started a movement to save the buffalo and others. The result is that deer and a lot of other animals are having a population explosion. There are more deer in this country than in 1492 but only a tenth of the food, so they die of cold and hunger instead of a merciful bullet.

A traffic safety program would save more lives, as we have killed more people with cars in 60 years than in all the wars and gun accidents of 90 years.

The Ratings

Alexandria, Neb.

Teachers should have their certificates renewed on the basis of how well they teach. At the conclusion of each course, their classes should be given a state-conducted examination. If their classes do exceptionally well, they should be given a highly rated certificate. If their classes do average, they should be given an average certificate. If their classes do poorly, their certificates should be lifted.

Retired Teacher Becomes Enthusiastic Piano Player

By ROBERT PETERSON

I've met elders who have mastered a host of complex new skills, from adagio dancing to x-ray repairing. But until today I never met one who actually learned to play the piano well after retiring.

"I didn't touch a piano keyboard until I was past 60," said Mrs. Sara Cook of Hinsdale, Ill., a retired 76-year-old kindergarten teacher.

"I had always admired folks who played the piano. But I wasn't given lessons as a child and when I grew up I felt I was too old to learn. It would have been enormously helpful in my teaching to have been able to play. But I felt I had missed my chance and that it just wasn't in the cards."

She went on to say that when she was 61 years old she saw a newspaper ad stating that a Chicago music store was offering group piano lessons to adult beginners. "I had read a great deal in geriatrics to the effect that older people could learn anything they wanted to learn," said Mrs. Cook, "so I decided to enroll and put the theory to a test.

"I went to my first lesson with considerable trepidation. But it proved to be a very pleasant experience. The lessons were so effective that within two or three weeks I was playing the simple songs and rhythms used in my kindergarten classes and I realized how foolish I had been in assuming I was too old to learn.

"I practiced four and five hours a day, and when the group sessions were completed I signed up with the teacher for private lessons. By the end of my first year I was playing simplified versions of some of the great classical piano selections.

"When I was 65 I retired and bought an electric piano with earphones. This is an ingenious device for it permits you to play at any hour without disturbing your neighbors. I often get up in the middle of the night and play.

"Playing the piano is a wonderfully relaxing hobby, and it's also a constant challenge because there's no such thing as perfection. It's always possible to improve and inject better technique or improved feeling into each rendition."

Another late starter is Tom Donahue who was 47 when he got married for the first time. In the past 15 years this sightseeing guide in New York City has fathered six fine children.

Now at 61 he has invested $1,500 producing a long-playing record called "Reflections on the Bible."

Against a background of organ music which he himself plays, he recites a moving, personal testimony on the greatness of God's Universe. Then he reads from the book of Genesis. He hopes ultimately to do a record on each of the books of the Bible.

But can a newcomer launch a new recording in the face of competition from the many established record companies? Apparently—if he has a good product, plus faith and persistence. Last week Tom persuaded the world's biggest department store to stock his product in their religious records department.

If you would like a booklet "Selecting a New Career After 40" write to this column c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Rehearing Of Time Sales Ruling Refused

The Nebraska Supreme Court has refused to reverse its decision invalidating LB811—the Installment Sales Act enacted by the 1963 Legislature as an emergency measure at the end of its regular session in July.

In rejecting the motion for rehearing, the Supreme Court closed out the case. The test action had been filed in Dodge County District Court by Clarence Stanton against E. E. Mattson.

The Supreme Court had ruled it invalid on Oct. 18, the Friday before the start of the recent special session.

It was on the basis of this decision that the Legislature wentahead and enacted LB11—the comprehensive interest law designed to bring lending practices into conformity with the State Constitution.

LB11 is also expected to be tested in the courts soon.

It was generally expected that the court would refuse to reconsider LB811. It was passed as a stopgap measure after the Supreme Court in June ruled that the 1959 Installment Sales Law was unconstitutional.

The basis of the ruling was that time sales transactions were actually loans and void if the interest exceeded the usury limit of nine per cent.

LB11 keeps the usury limit at nine per cent, but authorizes 12% interest on installment loans and up to 30% on the first $300 of small loans which are limited to $1,500.

Assistant History Professor Honored

Dr. Robert N. Manley, University of Nebraska assistant professor of history, has been named an honorary member of Mu Epsilon Nu, undergraduate honorary fraternity in education.

Charles Stewart of Dallas, Tex., Mu Epsilon Nu president, said Manley was cited for his continuously outstanding service to the teaching profession in Nebraska and for his relationship with students.

It marked the second time Manley has been cited by the student group. In 1958, while teaching at Seward High School, he was named "the most outstanding male teacher in Nebraska."

Manley is presently in the process of writing a history of the University of Nebraska.

Bids Of $682,564 On McPhee School Accepted

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Board of Education Wednesday accepted low bids totalling $682,564 for construction of Clare McPhee Elementary School subject to approval of the University of Nebraska.

The new two-unit school, replacing Capitol School which will be demolished, will also serve as a laboratory, practice-teaching facility for the NU Teachers College.

The University will share in the construction cost, but the final figure hasn't been determined.

On the basis of a one-third share, the University would pay $226,6[illegible] of the cost.

If share for the 44,904 square-foot building is computed on the square footage excess over an average 32,000 square-foot school used by Lincoln, the University cost is computed at $205,433.

Could be Saturday

University officials said a final determination could be made by the Board of Regents at its regular meeting Saturday.

They said ceiling estimate of $250,000 has been set on the NU share, but bids were well within this figure.

The new school will be air-conditioned at an estimated cost of 51 cents per square foot. The over-all cost is $15.01 per square foot.

Half of the classrooms will be carpeted, a feature which is estimated by experts to lower maintenance costs as well as offset costs in acoustical ceilings and asphalt flooring.

If the carpeting wears 15 to 17 years, this will equal the life of asphalt flooring, architect Selmer Solheim said.

Accepted bids were M. W. Anderson Co., general, $481,587; Wentz Plumbing and Heating, mechanical, $147,777; and ABC Electric Co., $53,200.

Anderson was also awarded the demolition contract for Capitol at $7,915.

School officials said completion of the school is scheduled for second semester of the 1964-65 school year.

In other action, the board Kingery Construction Co. if the Maud Rousseau Elementary School at 33rd and Calvert is completed by Sept. 1, 1964.

Kingery has estimated a cost of $6,550 for a winter protection structure so that construction of the school can be undertaken during the winter months.

The "bonus" offer could benefit both parties, the board said. If the school is completed by Sept. 1, the additional cost of $6,500 would be worth the money. Similarly, the contractor could keep his crew working during the winter and benefit from early completion of the building.

Also authorized was the paving of Stockwell from 46th west to serve the Calvert School parking lot and park department property. The park department and school district would jointly share the estimated $4,000 paving cost.

Highways Clear, But State Still Gripped By Cold

Highways around the state were clear except for spots as temperatures remained cold Wednesday.

John McMeekin, State Maintenance Engineer, said highways had spots of packed snow in sheltered areas and towns. Interstate routes were clear, he added.

Temperatures in the state ranged from 35 above to 14 below.

Sidney registered the state high with 35 while Norfolk and Grand Island had the state low of 14 below, the Lincoln Weather Bureau reported.

Lincoln's high Wednesday was nine with the low a minus eight.

Muskegon, Mich., Staggers Under Huge Mound Of Snow

Muskegon, Mich. (AP) —The Lake Michigan industrial-port city of Muskegon, Mich., staggered by a record snowfall, fought under near-blizzard conditions Wednesday to continue normal operations.

More than 30 inches of snow covered the ground by noon in greater Muskegon, an area of 100,000 population. The snowfall started late Tuesday.

In excess of four inches of new snow was forecast with extremely heavy drifting under winds of 20 to 30 miles per hour in the afternoon. Visibility at times was down to near zero in the city.

Tops Marks

The pre-winter storm, ending abruptly at a line about 15 miles inland, toppled Muskegon's one-hour, 24-hour, 48-hour, one-week and month of December records set last year.

Snowplow crews in suburban Muskegon Heights gave up shortly before noon after having plowed all the city streets three times in 24 hours with little appreciable progress.

Some streets were made one-way temporarily because the repeated plowing had narrowed the passageway.

Passable

Muskegon main roads were passable but side streets were treacherous and few were touched by plows which stayed on the major thoroughfares.

Fire Chief Dennis Ward warned citizens to guard against anything that could cause a fire in view of difficulties of getting equipment to the scene.

The storm was not without its lighter side.

Mason County Jail trusty Robert Woodring, 18, serving 20 days for theft, was ordered to shovel clear a path outside the jail at Ludington. Sheriff's men said he made a path around a corner and vanished. They found the shovel abandoned.

Italy Cold; Snow Falls On Volcanic Vesuvius

Rome (AP) — A bitter new cold wave knifed across Italy Wednesday. The nation reported five more weather fatalities, pushing the death toll to 20 in more than a week of fierce winter weather.

The cold ranged all the way down the Italian boot. Fresh snow fell on volcanic Mt. Vesuvius.

HEY, THIS IS GREAT!

Josie the Penguin at Marineland of the Pacific in Palos Verdes, Calif., finds that her new roller skates really speed up this business of transportation. Usually Josie just waddles around Marineland with the rest of the birds. But the trainers fitted her with special roller skates, and after a little practice, Josie put on this exhibition—complete with a sports-type cap.

'Just As Soon As Possible'

Puerto Vallarta, Mexico (AP) — Richard Burton said Wednesday he and Elizabeth Taylor will be married somewhere in Mexico "just as soon as possible—and the sooner the better."

Brandt Decides Not To Run For Another Term

State Sen. William A. Brandt of Unadilla announced Wednesday night he will not seek re-election to the Legislature next year.

"This decision comes with a great deal of reluctance as I class my experiences in the Legislature as one of the most gratifying of my life. I find, however, that I must bevote more of my time to my family and business than would be possible if I were to be a candidate," he said.

Brandt, chairman of the Legislative Council Study Committee on Community Problems, said he intends to remain active as head of that committee. He said the group will start holding hearings shortly after the first of the year.

Report Tells Salt Creek's Effects

A report by the U.S. Geological Survey estimated that between 1950 and 1959 Salt Creek transported through Lincoln the equivalent of a soil layer one foot thick and 13 square miles in extent.

The report, "Sedimentation and Chemical Quality of Water in Salt Creek Basin Nebraska, was written by Lester Kister and James Mundorff.

The authors state that most of the total soil carried away in Salt Creek occurs on only a few days of each year.

In 1954 the discharge for 12 days accounted for about 87% of the total annual discharge, the report stated. The combined suspended-sediment discharge for five days in June 1951 was about the same as the combined suspended sediment discharge for the entire 1952, 1953 and 1954 years.

In Suspension

Suspended sediment is the sediment that at any given time is maintained in suspension by the upward component of turbulent currents or that exists in suspension in the water.

The U.S. Geological Survey began studies of water quality in the Salt Creek drainage basin in 1950 as part of the program of the Department of the Interior for the development of the Missouri River basin.

During the flood of 1951 from May 31 to June 4, about 1,800,000 tons of suspended sediment was discharged by Salt Creek at Lincoln.

In contrast, during 1953 only 92,000 tons of suspended sediment was discharged.

The report also shows that the maximum concentration of suspended sediment precedes the arrival of a flood.

The authors say that the possible reasons for the maximum concentration to precede the maximum water discharge are:

—The early runoff carries the most easily eroded weathered material from the drainage area.

—The sediment deposited in the channel during low-flow periods is eroded and placed in suspension by the initial flood wave as it moves downstream.

Lincoln Man Is Hired As Iowa Parole Agent

Burton Galaway, 26, of Lincoln is one of three new parole agents hired by the Iowa Board of Control

Galaway will begin work Feb. 1 as a parole worker and supervisor at Cedar Rapids and will be in charge of five other juvenile parole agents. Galaway received his bachelors degree at Nebraska Wesleyan and earned a masters degree in social work from Columbia University.

Tragedy, Weather Slowed Sales

New York (AP)— A national tragedy and unusually warm weather held Christmas buying to a slow start. But most merchants are confident that a late surge will carry them to a record.

The assassination of President Kennedy Nov. 22 disrupted plans of retailers to get the Christmas shopping season off to an early opening. They were trying to make up in advance for the five fewer shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas this year than last year.

A warm autumn also put a damper on early Yule shopping inspiration.

However, the National Retail Merchants Association reported, business was "extremely good" last week, and it predicted a four per cent increase nationally over the record 1962 season.

Optimism, Pessimism

In New York City, David L. Yunich, president of the big Macy's department store chain, said, "The underlying tone of business is excellent."

Some other merchants, however, are not optimistic.

In Washington, where the shock of Kennedy's death was perhaps the greatest, a spokesman for Hecht Co., operator of four department stores, said

"The death of President Kennedy had quite an impact on our business. Sales of November were down from last year although there was an increase, compared with last year, in the first few days of December. We don't believe that total business for the season will be as high as last year."

Merchants around the country reached in an Associated Press survey found that customers apparently have plenty of money and are spending it, concentrating more than ever on quality goods.

Prices are about the same as last year.

Toys Inexpensive

Toys are going at rock-bottom prices as competition intensifies among department, variety and drug stores, supermarkets and discount houses.

Biggest sellers among toys are talking dolls, road race sets, scientific, electronic and military-type toys.

Fads are generally absent this year but for people loaded with money there are plenty of luxury items available.

Jewel-top sweaters in the $60-$80 category were selling well in Los Angeles.

"It's difficult for a woman to try on a mink coat when it's 97 degrees outside," remarked Ken Stuart, manager of the Plaza Merchants Association of Kansas City, with 150 members. The first snow of the season came Dec. 10 and stores were jammed the next day.

Tippler's Umbrella

In Denver, a mild fall curtailed sales of imported sweaters, jackets and overcoats. Unusual items on sale there include a vicuna polo shirt at $125, a toy dog that moves on a call or whistle and an umbrella with a handle containing liquor flasks.

The star items among high-priced gifts at Nieman-Marcus department store in Dallas are "his" and "hers" submarines at $18,700 each. The sub is 14 feet long, 14 inches high and 90 inches wide.

"All predictions are for the best season ever," said Tom Redmond of the Miami-Dade (County) Chamber of Commerce. "Miami has a habit of following the national indicators and the national trend is good."

Liquor Banned

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — Iraqi diplomats and officials throughout the world have been told to serve soft drinks only at receptions, Baghdad Radio reported. Iraqis are mostly Moslems, who eschew alcohol.

Wage Boost Offer, Wives' Threats Fail To Budge Striking Coal Miners

Marion, Ill. (AP) — An offer of doubled wages coupled with housewives' threats to continue picketing their picketing husbands failed to break up a strike at a southern Illinois coal mine Wednesday.

Nine women, mothers of a total of 19 children less than 11 years old, carried placards in 10-degree cold for the third day demanding that miners halt their strike in time for Christmas.

Management and the United Mine Workers Union said they are somewhat embarrassed by the women's picket line.

No Talks Slated

No negotiations were scheduled. The 29 miners at Crab Orchard Cooperative Coal Co. mine southeast of Marion walked out Dec. 7.

Slogans on placards nailed to broom handles by the housewives included:

"We want Christmas for our kids."

"We want work, not relief."

Ted Storme, co-owner of the mine, said he offered double wages until Christmas if work would resume.

"The women are angry at a few union leaders, and not owners," Storme said.

Embarrassing

"But it is sort of embarrassing to us as well," he said. "I offered to double wages and pay them Christmas eve."

Strikers at the strip mine declined comment on the offer and would make no statement on the women's picketing.

Some of the women are wives of employes of a coal sales company supplied by the mine.

Laid Off

Their husbands were laid off when the mine was idled. The menfolk also were barred from jobs crushing rock at the mine site.

Mrs. Luray Morris of Harrisburg, a mother of eight children and wife of a welder at the mine, said of the striking miners:

"They could not have picked a worse time of the year to strike because of Christmas coming."

Mrs. Coy Franklin of Marion, whose husband works on one of the mine's two huge strip shovels, said the women, "want wages — not union charity."

Open Mine

"When we get 25 girls," Mrs. Franklin said, "we are going up there and open the mine ourselves."

Asked if she thought the women could operate the mine's heavy equipment — including power shovels lifting 30 tons of earth at one bite—she replied:

"Did you ever know a woman who couldn't learn if she was mad enough?"

The strike at the 2-year-old mine began after management rejected a union contract. Issues generally involved work assignments, and not wages.

Wage Boost Offer, Wives' Threats Fail To Budge Striking Coal Miners

Marion, Ill. (AP) — An offer of doubled wages coupled with housewives' threats to continue picketing their picketing husbands failed to break up a strike at a southern Illinois coal mine Wednesday.

Nine women, mothers of a total of 19 children less than 11 years old, carried placards in 10-degree cold for the third day demanding that miners halt their strike in time for Christmas.

Management and the United Mine Workers Union said they are somewhat embarrassed by the women's picket line.

No Talks Slated

No negotiations were scheduled. The 29 miners at Crab Orchard Cooperative Coal Co. mine southeast of Marion walked out Dec. 7.

Slogans on placards nailed to broom handles by the housewives included:

"We want Christmas for our kids."

"We want work, not relief."

Ted Storme, co-owner of the mine, said he offered double wages until Christmas if work would resume.

"The women are angry at a few union leaders, and not owners," Storme said.

Embarrassing

"But it is sort of embarrassing to us as well," he said. "I offered to double wages and pay them Christmas eve."

Strikers at the strip mine declined comment on the offer and would make no statement on the women's picketing.

Some of the women are wives of employes of a coal sales company supplied by the mine.

Laid Off

Their husbands were laid off when the mine was idled. The menfolk also were barred from jobs crushing rock at the mine site.

Mrs. Luray Morris of Harrisburg, a mother of eight children and wife of a welder at the mine, said of the striking miners:

"They could not have picked a worse time of the year to strike because of Christmas coming."

Mrs. Coy Franklin of Marion, whose husband works on one of the mine's two huge strip shovels, said the women, "want wages — not union charity."

Open Mine

"When we get 25 girls," Mrs. Franklin said, "we are going up there and open the mine ourselves."

Asked if she thought the women could operate the mine's heavy equipment — including power shovels lifting 30 tons of earth at one bite—she replied:

"Did you ever know a woman who couldn't learn if she was mad enough?"

The strike at the 2-year-old mine began after management rejected a union contract. Issues generally involved work assignments, and not wages.

U.S. CUTTING INTO RUSSIAN SPACE LEAD

London (UPI)—The United States has finally cut down Russia's lead in space exploration to "a measure of equality," the authoritative "Jane's All The World's Aircraft" said Wednesday.

With its new giant booster rocket due next year the United States may actually be ready soon to go ahead of the Russians, Jane's hinted. It said the rocket would place America "in a position to become far more adventurous in space."

The American success story—a long, tough, expensive, but brilliant comeback from the shock of the first Russian sputnik in 1957—was highlighted by Editor John W. R. Taylor in the new edition of the famous annual, first published at the dawn of aviation 55 years ago.

Surprises, Partners

Taylor said that although there was always the possibility of surprises from the Soviet Union, the American effort had reached a stage where the two nations could work together on major projects such as lunar exploration on the equal partnership—as suggested by the late President Kennedy.

Taylor said such suggestions were "both timely and sensible" after a year in which Russia had "less success than usual" and the United States exceeded its objectives in the Mercury man in space program with the final 22-orbit flight of Maj. Gordon Cooper in May.

Explaining his assessment of the Russian aerospace effort as less successful than usual, Taylor said:

"This may seem a strange comment to make at the end of a period in which Soviet pilots have established or retained a high proportion of the International Aeronautics Federation-recognized international records, including the absolute speed and free take-off height records, and in which Soviet rockets have put astronauts, both male and female, into orbit for periods of up to nearly five days.

Not Spectaculars

"But the real measure of achievement in aviation is a day-to-day service, not once-only exploits, and here the Soviet picture looks less self-assured than it did at the end of 1962.

"Nor has Russia's space program gone with its customary smoothness and unsullied success.

"By comparison, America's Mercury man-in-space program far exceeded its original —more limited — design objectives with the final 22-orbit flight of Gordon Cooper, while the Mariner 2 space probe sent back invaluable, if depressing, data concerning conditions on the planet Venus, ending our hope of finding any form of life known on Earth.

"With the great Saturn booster (rocket) due to become operational in 1964-65, the United States will soon be in a position to become far more adventurous in space and the suggestion that America and the Soviet Union should work together on major projects like lunar exploration is both timely and sensible now that the prospective partners are attaining a measure of equality."

Jane's said the Russians now have their own version of the high flying American U2 reconnaissance plane. It is a Yakolev design (Yak) given the NATO code name, "Mandrake."

Its operational altitude is unknown, but Russia set a conventional plane height record of 113,892 feet in 1961 and presumably a variation of the turbojet engines was used on that occasion to power Mandrake.

Faintness Attack Hits China Chief

Aswan, Egypt (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Red China Wednesday received emergency treatment for a brief attack of faintness and nose bleed but finished the day in evident good spirits. He even had some kind words for the Russians.

Chou was on a one-day flying trip to Aswan, where the Soviet Union is helping build the billion-dollar Aswan High Dam—a larger aid project than China ever got from Russia.

Chou, 65, became pale and his face was grim as he neared the top of the stairs at the power station. At the top he faltered, then feebly walked into a corner, averting his face. He was slightly bowed, with his right hand raised to his face when an accompanying Chinese doctor reached his side.

Trickle

The doctor pulled something from his pocket and held it before Chou's face. As Chou turned slightly a trickle of blood could be seen coming from his nose. Shortly thereafter he turned, smiled, waved hesitantly and resumed his inspection.

A chinese aide with Chou told newsmen: "It is his nose and it happens whenever he gets tired . . . This happens from time to time. It is not serious but that's why he always has a doctor with him."

Rushing through the tour, Chou stopped only to inspect the chasm of the diversion canal at the dam site, watch a battery of big concrete mixers at work and peer down a 300-feet-deep gorge carved out by Russian excavators for a power plant that will double Egypt's supply of electricity.

Admiration

The Egyptian high dam minister later told newsmen, "Chou expressed great admiration of the work, and the Chinese party was surprised by the size of the project." He declined to say whether Chou had any comment on the Russian performance.

Chou appeared in better form later at a luncheon. He proposed a toast to Egyptian officials and high dam authorities. Turning toward two Russians at the table he drank to the welfare of "the Soviet experts on this project."

Denouncing imperialism, in a speech he praised the high dam as "a tremendous effort and achievement in transforming nature, developing agriculture and building a thriving economy."

Showing Age

Chou is showing his age and though he appears healthy enough in public appearances he never is very animated.

One characteristic that has attracted widespread attention since his arrival in Cairo last Saturday is that Chou never straightens his right arm. The right elbow is always bent about 30 degrees.

Balancing any speculation that Chou may be in poor health is the fact that he is undertaking a two-month African tour that would tax a far younger man.

Faintness Attack Hits China Chief

Aswan, Egypt (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Red China Wednesday received emergency treatment for a brief attack of faintness and nose bleed but finished the day in evident good spirits. He even had some kind words for the Russians.

Chou was on a one-day flying trip to Aswan, where the Soviet Union is helping build the billion-dollar Aswan High Dam—a larger aid project than China ever got from Russia.

Chou, 65, became pale and his face was grim as he neared the top of the stairs at the power station. At the top he faltered, then feebly walked into a corner, averting his face. He was slightly bowed, with his right hand raised to his face when an accompanying Chinese doctor reached his side.

Trickle

The doctor pulled something from his pocket and held it before Chou's face. As Chou turned slightly a trickle of blood could be seen coming from his nose. Shortly thereafter he turned, smiled, waved hesitantly and resumed his inspection.

A chinese aide with Chou told newsmen: "It is his nose and it happens whenever he gets tired . . . This happens from time to time. It is not serious but that's why he always has a doctor with him."

Rushing through the tour, Chou stopped only to inspect the chasm of the diversion canal at the dam site, watch a battery of big concrete mixers at work and peer down a 300-feet-deep gorge carved out by Russian excavators for a power plant that will double Egypt's supply of electricity.

October Business Activity Rises Almost 10%

Nebraska retail sales in October were up 4.2% from September by three-tenths of a point below October a year ago, according to Business in Nebraska, a publication of the University of Nebraska Bureau of Business Research.

General business activity for October continued strong, up 9.9% over September and 3.5% ahead of October last year. Measured by index reports from 18 municipalities, general business activity includes bank debits, building activity, retail sales, electricity and gas consumed, water pumped, postal receipts, and newspaper advertising.

Thirteen of the 18 reporting cities showed increases in business activity compared with a year ago: Chadron up 21.1; Sidney up 17.1; Norfolk up 13.8; York up 11.6; Falls City up 8.2; Hastings up 6.5; Lincoln up 4.4; North Platte up 4.1; Holdrege up 3.5; Omaha up 2.4; Fremont up 2.1; Columbus up 1.1; Kearney up 0.5.

South Sioux City's business activity remained unchanged from October, 1962, and declines were recorded by McCook, down 0.1; Grand Island down 0.9; Broken Bow down 1.9; and Alliance down 13.0.

New car sales gave strength to retail sales. In retail sales Falls City led the field with a 12% gain over October of last year, followed by Chadron, up 6.5, and Holdrege up 5.5.

Assassination Top Story In News-Filled Year

New York (UPI)—The assassination of President Kennedy—one of the top stories of the century—completely dominated a news year that ranked highest in drama and import of any year since World War II.

That was the consensus of editors who selected the "Ten Biggest News Stories of 1963," compiled by United Press International.

The integration story in the U.S.A. was the overwhelming choice for second place on the list, announced Thursday. The annual poll of editors represents hundreds of UPI subscribers in the United States and Canada.

The Pope John XXIII-Pope Paul VI story and the Gordon Cooper space flight contested closely for third place. The papal death-and-succession took third, Cooper fourth.

Here is the 1963 list:

1. Kennedy assassination.
2. Integration, U.S.A.
3. John XXIII dies, Paul VI succeeds.
4. Cooper space flight.
5. U.S.A.-Britain-Russia nuclear ban.
6. Assassination of Premier Diem and brother in Viet Nam.
7. Atomic submarine Thresher lost.
8. Profumo sex scandal in Britain.
9. Supreme Court rules against reciting Lord's Prayer in schools.
10. Fischer quintuplets.

The ban by the major powers on nuclear testing in the air held steady in fifth place throughout the balloting.

Fairly close to the quintuplets of Aberdeen, S.D., as runner-up but not quite big enough to make the list, were two stories of widely dissimilar news import: The 14-day ordeal and rescue of two buried coal miners at Shepton, Pa.; and the widening split between Red China and Russia.

Those two finished in a virtual tie for the 11th spot. Others close in the honorable mention list were De Gaulle's veto of British membership in the European Common Market, and the Russian launching of "twin" astronauts, one a woman.

Many editors remarked that 1963 seemed the newsiest year since the war. Some said the list might have better included the 15, or perhaps 20, "biggest."

The "Ten Biggest News Stories of 1963" list as voted by editors of UPI subscribers in Europe.

1. Kennedy assassination.
2. Pope John-Pope Paul.
3. Nuclear test ban treaty.
4. The Profumo affair.
5. French veto of British Common Market entry.
6. The German mine disaster and rescues.
7. Vaiont Dam collapse kills thousands.
8. and 9. (tie) Adenauer resigns, Erhard takes over; and Skopje earthquake.
10. Macmillan resigns; Lord Home takes over.

Assassination Top Story In News-Filled Year

New York (UPI)—The assassination of President Kennedy—one of the top stories of the century—completely dominated a news year that ranked highest in drama and import of any year since World War II.

That was the consensus of editors who selected the "Ten Biggest News Stories of 1963," compiled by United Press International.

The integration story in the U.S.A. was the overwhelming choice for second place on the list, announced Thursday. The annual poll of editors represents hundreds of UPI subscribers in the United States and Canada.

The Pope John XXIII-Pope Paul VI story and the Gordon Cooper space flight contested closely for third place. The papal death-and-succession took third, Cooper fourth.

Here is the 1963 list:

1. Kennedy assassination.
2. Integration, U.S.A.
3. John XXIII dies, Paul VI succeeds.
4. Cooper space flight.
5. U.S.A.-Britain-Russia nuclear ban.
6. Assassination of Premier Diem and brother in Viet Nam.
7. Atomic submarine Thresher lost.
8. Profumo sex scandal in Britain.
9. Supreme Court rules against reciting Lord's Prayer in schools.
10. Fischer quintuplets.

Kidnap Charge To Be Heard

The Nebraska Supreme Court will hear oral arguments Jan. 6 in a Douglas County District Court case involving a robbery-by-telephone attempt.

Involved are two Omaha men—Junior James Salanitro and Harry Dean Tatreau. Both have requested the high court to reduce the district court charge of kidnapping to extortion and, thus, reduce their life sentences.

Salanitro and Tatreau were judged guilty by a district court jury of attempting to extort money from Harry S. Lewis of Omaha on July 21, 1962, by holding Lewis' wife and three boys hostage. The extortion attempt was made over the telephone to Lewis, who was working at a liquor store at the time.

But the attempt was foiled when a pick-up man in a black coat failed to appear at the liquor store. The police were tipped and the three later taken into custody.

Salanitro and Tatreau argue that the primary purpose of the state's kidnaping statute is to prevent the kidnapping of persons for the purpose of carrying them out of the state. Because the Lewis family was not removed from the Lewis home, they contend no kidnapping was involved.

A kidnapping conviction in Nebraska when no bodily injury is involved carries a mandatory life sentence, extortion one to three years.

Dear Abby

Wrong Dog, Maybe?

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently had to get rid of our dog (she was only a puppy) because my husband abused her so terribly. If anything happened at the shop, or if he became upset around the house, he'd kick that poor little dog within an inch of her life. He says it's better to take it out on a dog than on a person. Is that a good enough excuse? He is 33 years old and in good health, but I can't understand such cruel actions. Do you think something could be the matter with him? Mentally, I mean.

WORRIED WIFE

DEAR WORRIED: You are worried with good reason. Getting rid of the dog did not solve your problem. The hostility that motivated your husband to abuse the pup is still with him. Your husband may appear to be "in good health," but he could well be mentally or emotionally upset. (P.S. And some will say you threw out the wrong dog!)

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I an 15 and I've got a problem. His name is Paul and he doesn't even know I'm alive. Every girl in school has flipped for him, including me. Some of the kids I hang around with have tried to find out if he likes me, but he doesn't say anything. I am not bad looking. In fact some people think I am cute. I have long blonde hair (natural) and large blue eyes. I've got everything but a good figure. No curves.) I don't expect you to work miracles, Abby. I just want a little help in getting this guy to notice me.

BOY TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Sometimes, the more "help" a girl has trying to get a boy to notice her, the faster he runs—away. Don't try too hard, and tell your friends to quit "helping" you, and you might catch him through the novelty of your indifference.

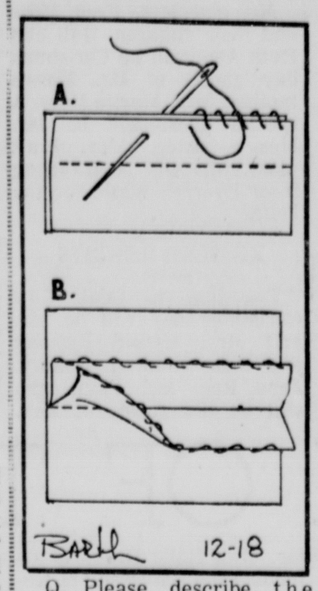
It Seams To Me

Good Answers To Pertinent Questions

Patricia Scott



Q. Please describe the overcasting stitch, how to make it and when it is used. —MISS L. W.

A. The overcasting stitch is used to finish raw edges of seams on fabric that ravels, but not too badly. It can be used on a normal seam that is pressed open, or on seams that are pressed to one side as on a set-in sleeve (figures A and B).

To make, place your thread over the edge of the fabric and point your needle toward your left shoulder (your right shoulder if you are left-handed) as it is inserted into the fabric. Your stitches should be slanting and evenly spaced.

☆ ☆ ☆

Q. I have been given an old sewing machine. how can I obtain an instruction booklet for it?—MISS A. R.

A. Write to the manufacturer. Give the style number on your machine and you will be sent the proper instruction booklet.

Q. I'm still confused about markings on patterns. What does the long arrow in the center of each piece mean? —MRS S. P.

A. This indicates the straight of the goods. Place this line exactly on the proper grain when pinning your pattern to fabric.

Q. The bodices of all my dresses pull under the arms. What should I do? —MRS. R. J.

A. The armholes of your sleeve are probably too tight. I suggest that you alter your patterns from now on. To adjust, lift the edges of the sleeve 3/8 inch and then add 3/8 inch to your side seams, tapering to nothing just below the notch. Alter the bodice front and back in the same way.

To the underarm seam, add 3/8 inch, and the same at the underarm side, tapering to nothing at the waistline. However, the problem may be that the front is too narrow across the chest. If so, taper the front armhole from the shoulder to the underarm, allowing yourself more width.

☆ ☆ ☆

Q. I notice that on many ready-made dresses my shoulder line falls a little to the back. Is this right? If not, where should it be? —MISS J. C.

A. Your shoulder line should fall exactly on your shoulder, and not to the back or the front.

Dear Abby

Wrong Dog, Maybe?

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently had to get rid of our dog (she was only a puppy) because my husband abused her so terribly. If anything happened at the shop, or if he became upset around the house, he'd kick that poor little dog within an inch of her life. He says it's better to take it out on a dog than on a person. Is that a good enough excuse? He is 33 years old and in good health, but I can't understand such cruel actions. Do you think something could be the matter with him? Mentally, I mean.

WORRIED WIFE

DEAR WORRIED: You are worried with good reason. Getting rid of the dog did not solve your problem. The hostility that motivated your husband to abuse the pup is still with him. Your husband may appear to be "in good health," but he could well be mentally or emotionally upset. (P.S. And some will say you threw out the wrong dog!)

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I've got a problem. His name is Paul and he doesn't even know I'm alive. Every girl in school has flipped for him, including me. Some of the kids I hang around with have tried to find out if he likes me, but he doesn't say anything. I am not bad looking. In fact some people think I am cute. I have long blonde hair (natural) and large blue eyes. I've got everything but a good figure. No curves. I don't expect you to work miracles, Abby. I just want a little help in getting this guy to notice me.

BOY TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Sometimes, the more "help" a girl has trying to get a boy to notice her, the faster he runs—away. Don't try too hard, and tell your friends to quit "helping" you, and you might catch him through the novelty of your indifference.

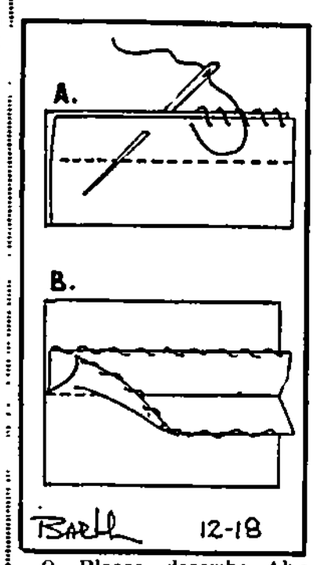
It Seams To Me

Good Answers To Pertinent Questions

Patricia Scott



Q. Please describe the overcasting stitch, how to make it and when it is used. —MISS L. W.

A. The overcasting stitch is used to finish raw edges of seams on fabric that ravels, but not too badly. It can be used on a normal seam that is pressed open, or on seams that are pressed to one side as on a set-in sleeve (figures A and B).

To make, place your thread over the edge of the fabric and point your needle toward your left shoulder (your right shoulder if you are left-handed) as it is inserted into the fabric. Your stitches should be slanting and evenly spaced.

Q. I have been given an old sewing machine. how can I obtain an instruction booklet for it?—MISS A. R.

A. Write to the manufacturer. Give the style number on your machine and you will be sent the proper instruction booklet.

Q. I'm still confused about markings on patterns. What does the long arrow in the center of each piece mean? —MRS S. P.

A. This indicates the straight of the goods. Place this line exactly on the proper grain when pinning your pattern to fabric.

Q. The bodices of all my dresses pull under the arms. What should I do? —MRS. R. J.

A. The armholes of your sleeve are probably too tight. I suggest that you alter your patterns from now on. To adjust, lift the edges of the sleeve ⅜ inch and then add ⅜ inch to your side seams, tapering to nothing just below the notch. Alter the bodice front and back in the same way.

To the underarm seam, add ⅜ inch, and the same at the underarm side, tapering to nothing at the waistline. However, the problem may be that the front is too narrow across the chest. If so, taper the front armhole from the shoulder to the underarm, allowing yourself more width.

Q. I notice that on many ready-made dresses my shoulder line falls a little to the back. Is this right? If not, where should it be? —MISS J. C.

A. Your shoulder line should fall exactly on your shoulder, and not to the back or the front.

In response to requests for reprints of her series on slipcovers, Patricia Scott has compiled them in booklet form, HOW TO MAKE SLIPCOVERS. For your copy of this helpful booklet, write to Miss Scott in care of the Lincoln Star, enclosing a long, self-address, stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Evening Wedding

Clusters of lighted white cathedral candles appointed the chancel of the First Methodist Church on Wednesday evening, Dec. 18, for the marriage of Miss Kathleen Louise Lux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Lux, to Donald Warren Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Parker. The ceremony was solemnized at 8 o'clock by Dr. Carl M. Davidson.

Wearing frocks of white velveteen fashioned with belled skirts were Mrs. Richard L. Nelson of Papillion, as the matron of honor; Mrs. Jack A. Calfee, the bridesmatron; and the bridesmaids, Miss Peggy King and Miss Rita Nelson. Holly red accessories completed their ensembles, and they carried nosegays of red carnations.

Kenton R. Hill served Mr. Parker as best man, and seating the guests were Richard L. Nelson, Papillion; Douglas Parker, Jack A. Calfee, John E. Lux and Stanley Lux.

The bride selected white satin and imported lace for her wedding gown. The sculptured bodice was designed with a rounded neckline and long, fitted sleeves, and the very bouffant skirt extended into a chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was held by a pearl coronet, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker will make their home at 5043 Walker. Both are junior students at Nebraska Wesleyan University, where the bride is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. Mr Parker is a member of Phi Kappa Tau.

BSP Annual Parties Held

Mrs. Bob Landon was hostess on Tuesday evening to the members of Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, at the group's annual Christmas party at her home.

A program of games was directed by Mrs. Jack Hanna and Mrs. Myron France, and the identities of secret sisters were revealed with a gift exchange.

The group sang carols led by Mrs. Gary Cole, after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

The annual Christmas party of Beta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, was held Wednesday evening when the members met for dinner at the University Club.

Mrs. Cecil Wadlow was hostess for the evening, and following the dinner, a gift exchange was held at which time secret sisters were revealed.

Suburbia Greets The Holidays

FIENE HEIGHTS

That Day is growing nearer, and parents of small children may catch them now and then eyeing the fireplace or shaking certain packages beneath the Christmas tree.

Nothing on this earth rivals a package which a youngster has wrapped, except a holiday card made of crayons and paste.

Everything seems to be made of fun, and that includes all the parties and guests in Fiene Heights this week.

An annual Christmas tea will be given by Mrs. Phil James Sunday afternoon. Her guests will include Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Schmidt, Dr. and Mrs. Curtis M. Elliot and family, and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Burnett.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moss and their children, Gail and Ruth Ann, will be Christmas day guests of Mr. Moss's mother, Mrs. Minnie Moss. A special guest will be Mr. Moss's sister, Mrs. Pat Moss, who will be traveling from Everett, Wash. for the holiday.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Traveling to Odell for Christmas day will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Essman and their children, Jimmy, Jana Rae, and Pam, who will be the guests of Mrs. Essman's mother, Mrs. Mary Ditose.

Leaving the day before Christmas are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Rotter and their children, Craig, Scott, Becky, and Gretchen, who will be visiting at the home of Mrs. Rotter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horky of Sargent. The Rotter family plans to return Dec. 27.

KIMBERLY HEIGHTS

Mrs. Leonard Dinges will spend Christmas with her twin sister, Mrs. Robert Paspas of Lansing, Mich. for the first time in 17 years.

Mrs. Paspas will be in Lincoln for the holidays, and will remain here until Jan. 4.

A Christmas gift exchange will be part of the activities Wednesday evening when Mrs. Karl Kubitscheck entertains her bridge group at her home.

Guests include Mrs. Joe Carroll, Mrs. Jack Devoe, Mrs. Joe O'Gara, Mrs. Jay Aldrup, Mrs. Lloyd Corp, Mrs. Leon Adelson, Mrs. Gunnar Overgaard, and Mrs. Maurice Sigler.

There will be small stocking filled with toys and other good things at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Andrews Christmas eve.

It's all for their new two-week old daughter, Kathleen Rae, who arrived at the Andrews home last Friday, just in time for the holiday season.

Young Miss Andrews has three grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Maul, and Mrs. M. C. Andrews, all of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mitchell and their children, Kathy and Eric, will spend the holidays in Cleghorn, Iowa. They will be visiting at the home of Mrs. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Frederick, and Mr. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell.

SOUTH HILLS

Returning home recently from their trip through India and Europe were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry DePrenger. While in Dali, they heard Nehru deliver a speech on co-operative farms at a conference of statesmen.

Among the highpoints of their journey was viewing the Taj Mahal by both moonlight and by a noon sun. They stayed a few days at Lucknow, cite of the Isabella Thoburn College for Women, where Mrs. DePrenger's mother had once taught. Mr. and Mrs. DePrenger were entertained by a musical, "The Sound of Music" put on by the Indian students.

Leaving India Nov. 22, they traveled home, stopping for a few days in Vienna, Rome, and Paris.

Among their souvenirs is a hand-carved solid walnut coffee table which they purchased in India and many memories of their overseas trip.

TALK OF THE TOWN

There is more Christmas news to be told this morning, but before we begin the telling of who is coming, who is going from where and to where, we want to mention an approaching marriage which we feel sure will be of interest.

Invitations came out a week or two ago for the wedding of Miss Beverly Childress Diebold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Heim Diebold of Pittsburgh, Pa., to John Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fisher (Clarissa Flansburg) formerly of Lincoln, later of Mexico and now of Windermere, Fla.

The wedding will take place on Saturday afternoon Dec. 28, at Fox Chapel, Community Church, in Pittsburgh.

The bride-elect will be graduated from Smith College at the end of the current semester, and Mr. Fisher is attending the Yale University School of Law.

* * *

It is time now to speak of Christmas guests — and they are many.

Mrs. E. B. Drake, for instance, is expecting her family for Christmas week, and we learned this morning that they will be arriving this weekend.

Charles Drake will be the first arrival—He comes on Satuday from Los Angeles — Mrs. Drake's son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Drake and their younger daughter, Patte, will be arriving from Detroit, Mich. on the far side of the weekend—Monday. Dr. and Mrs. Drake's older daughter, Miss Halle Drake is attending the University of Nebraska, and will join her family at the home of her grandmother at the beginning of the Christmas recess.

* * *

From Camarillo, Calif., on Sunday will come Mrs. Gardner Wade (Marnie Hallam) and her daughter, Sherry, who are coming not only for Christmas, but also for the wedding of Mrs. Wade's sister, Miss Linda Hallam and Roger R. Reiling which is an event of Friday, Dec. 27.

Mrs. Wade and her daughter, of course, will be the guests of Mrs. Wade's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hallam, and the family circle will be completed on Christmas day when Mr. and Mrs. Hallam's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Burk (Nancy Hallam) and their young son, KC, join Mrs. Burk's parents and her sister at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hallam.

* * *

An eightsome of Christmas guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John C. Thompson will include Dr. and Mrs. Thompson's daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Thompson and her three daughters, Kate, Sarah and Nora of Boulder, Colo.—and their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. John S. Thompson and their children, John and Frankie Lee of Chicago, all of whom will arrive on Tuesday.

* * *

Another of Lincoln's Christmas guests came from Riverton, Wyo., a few days ago, and is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Harder. She is Mrs. Margaret Ainsworth who is spending several days in Lincoln before going on to Dallas, Houston and McAllen, Tex.

Arriving on Friday will be William F. Harder, Jr., who is coming from the Millard School, Banton, Ore., to spend the holidays with his parents.

* * *

Home for Christmas will be Miss Sue Healey who arrives on Sunday from New York City where she is careering. We hear that Miss Healey plans to remain in Lincoln for a few weeks.

* * *

There are those, it seems, who have Christmas travel plans—Among these are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hyland and their three children, Johnny, Pat and Dan'l, who are leaving on Saturday for Estes Park, Colo., where they will spend Christmas at their cabin—The plans and specifications call for considerable time spent on the ski slopes.

* * *

And to Clinton, Iowa, on Sunday will go Mr. and Mrs. John P. Miller who will spend the holidays with members of their family.

* * *

On Monday's departure list will be Judge and Mrs. Frederick W. Messmore who will fly to Houston, Tex., where they will be the holiday guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Messmore and their two children, Mary Jane and Biff.

* * *

Christmas parties are dotting the calendar rather frequently—We already have mentioned numerous of them, but each day brings news of another.

Today is the day, for instance, that Mrs. Jack Trombla is entertaining at a Christmas party for the members of her bridge eightsome—The group not only will have luncheon and an afternoon of bridge, but it also will have gift exchange fun.

* * *

Then, on Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. David Tews will be a host and hostess at their home when they entertain 100 guests at a buffet supper and Christmas party at their home.

* * *

We do have some news that in no way involves the holiday season—Dr. Ralph Blanchard of Plympton, Mass., returned home on Monday after spending a brief time as the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Faulkner.

We understand that the University Publishing Co., is planning a compilation of lectures, given by Dr. Blanchard during the years he was chairman of the Department of Insurance at Columbia University, which will appear in book form sometime next spring.

The other day we told you about the Holiday Club's Christmas dinner dance planned for Saturday evening at the Lincoln Country Club. This morning we have more to tell—the names of the guests. The guest list includes Miss Dorothy Easley of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schorr, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jacobson, and Mrs. O. J. King.

December Bride

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lind make announcement of the marriage of their daughter, Karen to William Ludwick, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Ludwick, Jr.

The marriage was solemnized in Pocatello, Idaho, on Thursday, Dec. 12.

Both Mr. Ludwick and his bride are attending the University of Nebraska.

Invitations came out a week or two ago for the wedding of Miss Beverly Childress Diebold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Heim Diebold of Pittsburgh, Pa., to John Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fisher (Clarissa Flansburg) formerly of Lincoln, later of Mexico and now of Windermere, Fla.

The wedding will take place on Saturday afternoon Dec. 28, at Fox Chapel, Community Church, in Pittsburgh.

The bride-elect will be graduated from Smith College at the end of the current semester, and Mr. Fisher is attending the Yale University School of Law.

It is time now to speak of Christmas guests — and they are many.

Mrs. E. B. Drake, for instance, is expecting her family for Christmas week, and we learned this morning that they will be arriving this weekend.

Charles Drake will be the first arrival—He comes on Satuday from Los Angeles — Mrs. Drake's son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs E. B. Drake and their younger daughter, Patte, will be arriving from Detroit, Mich. on the far side of the weekend—Monday. Dr. and Mrs. Drake's older daughter, Miss Halle Drake is attending the University of Nebraska, and will join her family at the home of her grandmother at the beginning of the Christmas recess.

* * *

From Camarillo, Calif., on Sunday will come Mrs. Gardner Wade (Marnie Hallam) and her daughter, Sherry, who are coming not only for Christmas, but also for the wedding of Mrs. Wade's sister, Miss Linda Hallam and Roger R. Reiling which is an event of Friday, Dec. 27.

Mrs. Wade and her daughter, of course, will be the guests of Mrs. Wade's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hallam, and the family circle will be completed on Christmas day when Mr. and Mrs. Hallam's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Burk (Nancy Hallam) and their young son, KC, join Mrs. Burk's parents and her sister at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hallam.

* * *

An eightsome of Christmas guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs John C. Thompson will include Dr. and Mrs. Thompson's daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Thompson and her three daughters, Kate, Sarah and Nora of Boulder, Colo.—and their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. John S. Thompson and their children, John and Frankie Lee of Chicago, all of whom will arrive on Tuesday.

* * *

Another of Lincoln's Christmas guests came from Riverton, Wyo., a few days ago, and is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Harder. She is Mrs. Margaret Ainsworth who is spending several days in Lincoln before going on to Dallas, Houston and McAllen, Tex.

Arriving on Friday will be William F. Harder, Jr., who is coming from the Millard School, Banton, Ore., to spend the holidays with his parents.

* * *

Home for Christmas will be Miss Sue Healey who arrives on Sunday from New York City where she is careering. We hear that Miss Healey plans to remain in Lincoln for a few weeks.

* * *

There are those, it seems, who have Christmas travel plans—Among these are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hyland and their three children, Johnny, Pat and Dan'l, who are leaving on Saturday for Estes Park, Colo., where they will spend Christmas at their cabin—The plans and specifications call for considerable time spent on the ski slopes.

* * *

And to Clinton, Iowa, on Sunday will go Mr. and Mrs. John P. Miller who will spend the holidays with members of their family.

* * *

On Monday's departure list will be Judge and Mrs. Frederick W. Messmore who will fly to Houston, Tex., where they will be the holiday guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Messmore and their two children, Mary Jane and Biff.

* * *

Christmas parties are dotting the calendar rather frequently—We already have mentioned numerous of them, but each day brings news of another.

Today is the day, for instance, that Mrs. Jack Trombla is entertaining at a Christmas party for the members of her bridge eightsome—The group not only will have luncheon and an afternoon of bridge, but it also will have gift exchange fun.

* * *

Then, on Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. David Tews will be a host and hostess at their home when they entertain 100 guests at a buffet supper and Christmas party at their home.

* * *

We do have some news that in no way involves the holiday season—Dr. Ralph Blanchard of Plympton, Mass., returned home on Monday after spending a brief time as the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Faulkner.

We understand that the University Publishing Co., is planning a compilation of lectures, given by Dr. Blanchard during the years he was chairman of the Department of Insurance at Columbia University, which will appear in book form sometime next spring.

The other day we told you about the Holiday Club's Christmas dinner dance planned for Saturday evening at the Lincoln Country Club. This morning we have more to tell—the names of the guests. The guest list includes Miss Dorothy Easley of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs Paul Schorr, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jacobson, and Mrs. O. J. King.

December Bride

This morning Mr and Mrs. Ralph Lind make announcement of the marriage of their daughter, Karen to William Ludwick, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Ludwick, Jr.

The marriage was solemnized in Pocatello, Idaho, on Thursday, Dec. 12.

Chapel Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Linda E. Vokoun, daughter of Mrs. Aldrich Vokoun and the late Mr. Vokoun, and Richard A. Amsbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Amsbaugh of Dubuque, Iowa, took place on Wednesday evening, Dec. 11, in the chapel of Grace Methodist Church. The Rev. Merrill Willis read the lines of the 8 o'clock service, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Irvin Unvert, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. G. O. Baker, the vocal soloist.

The maid of honor and bride's only attendant was Miss Kathy Miller who wore a frock of holly green chiffon in the daytime length. She carried an arrangement of white and red carnations.

Charles Newton served Mr. Amsbaugh as best man, and seating the guests was Pete Wiles.

The bride appeared in a gown of white Chantilly-type lace smoothed over taffeta. The long-sleeved bodice was accented by a rounded neckline edged with seed pearls, and the floor-length skirt, which was caught into controlled fullness, was detailed by a back bow of the lace. A tiny crown of pearls held to the head her illusion veil, and she carried a heart-shaped bouquet of white Frenched carnations and huckleberry foliage.

Mr. and Mrs. Amsbaugh will make their home at 1720 Sumner.

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

Let's say you're declarer at four spades and West opens the queen of clubs and continues with the jack, which you ruff.

It is not entirely clear how you should play the hand, but it can hardly be right to draw trumps before attempting to ruff a heart or two in dummy. So you cash the A-K of hearts and play another heart, West following with the nine.

You don't know at this point whether the hearts are divided 3-3 or 4-2, and you have to make a decision that will cover both possibilities.

There is not much point to assuming that the hearts are divided 3-3, because you will almost surely make the contract if that is the case. So what you do, in effect, is to tentatively assume a 4-2 division.

It is dangerous to ruff with the nine of spades because, if East is out of hearts and can overruff with the ten, you are practically sure to go down. So rather than put all your eggs in this one basket, you discard a diamond from dummy.

West continues with the ten of clubs, which you ruff, and now you lead the fourth round of hearts. West plays the queen and again you refuse to ruff, discarding another diamond from dummy.

By now you have lost three tricks — a club and two hearts — but that is the end of the line for the defense. Regardless of what West returns, you can safely ruff a diamond in dummy and then make the rest of the tricks after drawing trumps.

What you do, in effect, is exchange the two unsafe heart ruffs in dummy for a safe diamond ruff in dummy. While doing this you cater not only to the possible 3-3 heart break, but also to the 4-2 division as well. At the same time you are also adopting the method of play that offers the best chance to succeed.

Caldwell Shifting To Pool From Pro Football Via Writing

By DONALD B. THACKREY

Rheem, Calif. (UPI)—Erskine Caldwell, the well-known former professional footb a l l player, is currently taking up pool shooting.

If he starts making money from this pastime, he will have sandwiched a highly successful literary career between his two athletic endeavors.

Caldwell's name is recognized all over the world this week as he celebrates his 60th birthday. But not because of his gridiron performances as a center for Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in the old Anthracite League that pre dated the National Football League.

Disabled List

"In fact I only lasted about two or three games," Caldwell says. "Then I went on the disabled list. After all, I was just a poor li'l ole southern boy and that league was made up of tough coal miners."

The Georgia-born Caldwell found the literary league tough too. It took him seven years of full-time writing to get into the big-time with "Tobacco Road" in 1932. The following year he scored again with "God's Little Acre." And has been hitting pay dirt regularly ever since.

"In all I think I have had about 44 books published," he says. "About half of them are novels and the others are short stories, travel books or other works of non-fiction."

His next book will be non-fiction — a travel book called "Around About America", which Farrar Straus will bring out next spring. It will be illustrated by his wife, Virginia, with whom he toured the country for material for a syndicated newspaper column entitled "USA Today."

"We avoided the big cities and concentrated mostly on the small town," Caldwell said. "Although we did visit some medium-sized cities like St. Paul, Minn., and Memphis, Tenn."

Small communities, some scarcely even towns, are the settings for much of Caldwell's fiction. This is probably natural since he was born in White Oak, Ga., a town of "three houses and a church" and then lived in Wren, Ga., which boasted "about 700 or 800, I guess" until he was 17 years old.

Advice

Asked if he could look back on his 60th birthday, Dec. 17, and give advice to young writers, Caldwell replied:

"I'd probably advise them not to. It's rough for a young writer because it's getting more specialized like anything else. And they get impatient because there is no guarantee.

"Nine-tenths of the writers who have any ability at all drift into advertising, motion pictues, public relations or some other field.

"There is nothing to encourage them in writing. I guess the secret is not to get discouraged and to stick it out. It's tough. I guess that's why there is very little fiction writing going on today."

Caldwell says free lance writing is harder today than when he was doing it.

"Then you could live for nothing. If you could get hold of $20 or $25 a month, you could get by somehow. But the cost of living has changed."

Works Hard

Caldwell still works hard at his profession. When he is doing a novel, he works from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week "until it gets going."

"Then eight hours is not enough and I have to step it up to 10 or so. You see, there's no such thing as perfection. It can always be better and you're never satisfied."

"But he's going to take the day off on his birthday," said Virginia, who gave him a pool table as a combination "birthday-Christmas-evertyhing-for-seven-years" present.

"He can just shoot pool all day that day."

Department store Santa Clauses suffer, especially at mealtime. Let's face it! It's tough to get grub on the tray in the company cafeteria with an insistent little guy like Buddy Bettis, posing pulling on your frock coat. But San Francisco Santas don't mind; they just keep putting food on the tray.

Senate Unit Orders Probe Of Misuse Of Stock Options

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee Wednesday ordered an investigation into the reported misuse of stock option privileges by Chrysler Corp. executives that allegedly benefitted "corporate insiders."

The decision was the most significant action taken by the committee in its sixth day of closed-door drafting sessions on the $11 billion tax cut bill passed by the House Sept. 25.

One non-controversial amendment was approved and five others were either rejected or put aside temporarily.

Fresh Ammo

The investigation was pressed by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn. He told reporters the Chrysler matter provided fresh ammunition for him and others who want to tighten up on existing stock option benefits.

According to a Wall Street Journal story, Chrysler executives disposed of 64,743 shares of the company stock this year at profits estimated as high as $4 million. The stock was obtained through options granted until about two years ago.

Chrysler President Lynn A. Townsend personally profited by about $600,000, or three times his annual salary, the story said.

In Detroit, Chrysler spokesmen declined comment on the committee action.

'Clear Example'

The committee voted to have the Treasury and the House-Senate Tax Committee staff investigate the matter and report back to the tax-writing panel. Gore contended the case was a "clear example of corporate insiders receiving . . . large income on which they did not pay normal taxes if any at all."

Gore later took his criticism of the Chrysler action to the Senate floor where he said the option device is "a wrong that must be corrected, an abuse that must be prevented — a loophole in the tax law."

He said it is something that must be considered when the tax bill comes before the Senate.

Caldwell Shifting To Pool From Pro Football Via Writing

By DONALD B. THACKREY

Rheem, Calif. (UPI)—Erskine Caldwell, the well-known former professional football player, is currently taking up pool shooting.

If he starts making money from this pastime, he will have sandwiched a highly successful literary career between his two athletic endeavors.

Caldwell's name is recognized all over the world this week as he celebrates his 60th birthday. But not because of his gridiron performances as a center for Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in the old Anthracite League that pre dated the National Football League.

Disabled List

"In fact I only lasted about two or three games," Caldwell says. "Then I went on the disabled list. After all, I was just a poor li'l ole southern boy and that league was made up of tough coal miners."

The Georgia-born Caldwell found the literary league tough too. It took him seven years of full-time writing to get into the big-time with "Tobacco Road" in 1932. The following year he scored again with "God's Little Acre." And has been hitting pay dirt regularly ever since.

"In all I think I have had about 44 books published," he says. "About half of them are novels and the others are short stories, travel books or other works of non-fiction."

His next book will be nonfiction — a travel book called "Around About America", which Farrar Straus will bring out next spring. It will be illustrated by his wife, Virginia, with whom he toured the country for material for a syndicated newspaper column entitled "USA Today."

"We avoided the big cities and concentrated mostly on the small town," Caldwell said. "Although we did visit some medium-sized cities like St. Paul, Minn., and Memphis, Tenn."

Small communities, some scarcely even towns, are the settings for much of Caldwell's fiction. This is probably natural since he was born in White Oak, Ga., a town of "three houses and a church" and then lived in Wren, Ga., which boasted "about 700 or 800, I guess" until he was 17 years old.

Advice

Asked if he could look back on his 60th birthday, Dec. 17, and give advice to young writers, Caldwell replied:

"I'd probably advise them not to. It's rough for a young writer because it's getting more specialized like anything else. And they get impatient because there is no guarantee.

"Nine-tenths of the writers who have any ability at all drift into advertising, motion pictues, public relations or some other field.

"There is nothing to encourage them in writing. I guess the secret is not to get discouraged and to stick it out. It's tough. I guess that's why there is very little fiction writing going on today."

Caldwell says free lance writing is harder today than when he was doing it.

"Then you could live for nothing. If you could get hold of $20 or $25 a month, you could get by somehow. But the cost of living has changed."

Works Hard

Caldwell still works hard at his profession. When he is doing a novel, he works from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week "until it gets going."

"Then eight hours is not enough and I have to step it up to 10 or so. You see, there's no such thing as perfection. It can always be better and you're never satisfied."

"But he's going to take the day off on his birthday," said Virginia, who gave him a pool table as a combination "birthday-Christmas-evertyhing-for-seven-years" present.

"He can just shoot pool all day that day."

EVEN AT MEALTIME

Department store Santa Clauses suffer, especially at mealtime. Let's face it! It's tough to get grub on the tray in the company cafeteria with an insistent little guy like Buddy Bettis, posing pulling on your frock coat. But San Francisco Santas don't mind; they just keep putting food on the tray.

Senate Unit Orders Probe Of Misuse Of Stock Options

Washington (UPI) —The Senate Finance Committee Wednesday ordered an investigation into the reported misuse of stock option privileges by Chrysler Corp. executives that allegedly benefitted "corporate insiders."

The decision was the most significant action taken by the committee in its sixth day of closed-door drafting sessions on the $11 billion tax cut bill passed by the House Sept. 25.

One non-controversial amendment was approved and five others were either rejected or put aside temporarily.

Fresh Ammo

The investigation was pressed by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn. He told reporters the Chrysler matter provided fresh ammunition for him and others who want to tighten up on existing stock option benefits.

According to a Wall Street Journal story, Chrysler executives disposed of 64,743 shares of the company stock this year at profits estimated as high as $4 million. The stock was obtained through options granted until about two years ago.

Chrysler President Lynn A. Townsend personally profited by about $600,000, or three times his annual salary, the story said.

In Detroit, Chrysler spokesmen declined comment on the committee action.

'Clear Example'

The committee voted to have the Treasury and the House-Senate Tax Committee staff investigate the matter and report back to the tax-writing panel. Gore contended the case was a "clear example of corporate insiders receiving . . . large income on which they did not pay normal taxes if any at all."

Gore later took his criticism of the Chrysler action to the Senate floor where he said the option device is "a wrong that must be corrected, an abuse that must be prevented — a loophole in the tax law."

He said it is something that must be considered when the tax bill comes before the Senate.

Charges Against 2 Omaha Schools Not Proven

The State Board of Education has ruled that charges of unethical advertising and business practices alleged to have been employed by Nettleton Boyles-Van Sant College and Automation Institute at Omaha have not been substantiated.

A hearing on the matter was held before the board Tuesday afternoon.

On November 26 the State Department of Education had removed the two schools from the approved list for receiving federal benefits for training veterans and war orphans.

On December 3 the State Board of Education suspended the non-approval pending a hearing on the matter which it scheduled for December 17.

The department announced Wednesday that the effect of the hearing findings means the two schools are entitled to continue as approved to enroll and train veterans and war orphans.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Shrine Bowl Gridders Learn Why They'll Bang Heads

By OSCAR FRALEY

Miami (UPI)—It happens every year to the big, confident young men, strong of heart and tough of body, who play in the North-South Shrine football game.

It starts out as a lark, this trip to the Orange Bowl which winds up their collegiate grid careers. Then they visit Variety Children's Hospital and everything changes.

They know then why they're here.

They clatter up to the white portico, joking, laughing and whistling. One, this time, was singing "Here Comes Santa Claus, here comes Santa Claus."

And it still hadn't taken hold as they milled in the lobby, carrying in toys, blowing up balloons and gathering around the platform of electric trains set up in the foyer. There was horseplay, feinted shoulder blocks and a tendency for those in the red jerseys to separate themselves from those in the blue.

Until they went inside.

There the horseplay ended and they forgot that the guy beside them was a Yankee or a Southerner. Those measuring eyes turned damp when they saw more than 100 children playing a bigger game, where life was the stake. The big, rough hands became tender and fumbling and the hoarse voices became soft and consoling.

"Hey there, bub," said Johnny Nichols of Rice to a lad of seven with his leg in a cast. "Look what we got for you."

He held up a toy tank, wrapped in heavy plastic.

"I'll just get this out of here for you," he whispered.

The little boy watched with big eyes as Johnny Nichols wrestled with the plastic, like a lot of fathers will do on Christmas eve.

"Here, let us help you," offered Dewey Lincoln of Michigan State and Bill Swingle of Northwestern. "We got to get this out of here."

They looked abashed, the big ones, when the little boy laughed as a nurse's aid took over and completed the job.

Over in another corner, Al Grugaliunas of Pitt, Jim Mazurek of Syracuse and rival Billy Weaver of Clemson did get the wrappings off a fire engine."

"Shucks," grunted Mazurek in disappointment, "It won't work without batteries."

But the smile they got from the little Negro boy with his arm in a cast almost made it work.

"Can I pick him up?" fearfully asked Iowa's Gary Fletcher of a nurse holding a red-haired boy.

He took the child, gingerly, and there was Christmas, New Year's and the Fourth of July in the youngster's shining eyes.

Tommy Fedor, a 10-year-old from Racine, Wis., who is bedded with a hip disease, talked bright-eyed with "two guys from home," Wisconsin's Louis Holland and Miami's John Sisk, who is from Wauwotosa, Wis., and the two big ones walked away friends if rivals.

Then, as they walked out the door, Ken Kortes from Louisville, stood beside the bed of a reclining youngster of 10 and ordered:

"Hey, each of you guys, sign this boy's autograph book."

They did, they would have anyhow. But Kortes' six feet, four inches and 293 pounds said they'd better.

They left quietly. And you knew practice would be more rugged today. They know now why they're banging heads Saturday.

College Football Attendance Hits All-Time High In 1963

. . . RECORD SET DESPITE CANCELLATIONS

New York (UPI) — Colleges voluntarily cancelled 34 football games during the 1963 season because of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

These games, all scheduled for Nov. 23—the day after the President's death — would have poured an estimated additional 268,900 people into the total college attendance for the year, a record despite the cancellations.

The attendance figures were estimated by the NCAA Service Bureau after three factors . . . study of (1) attendance for games between the two rivals in the past four years; (2) capacity of the home field; and (3) the average 1963 attendance for the host team.

The biggest loss was an estimated 59,000 expected to watch Notre Dame play Iowa at Iowa Stadium with a capacity of 60,150.

Following is a list of the six games cancelled which were expected to attract 10,000 or more each, with attendance estimates:

Notre Dame at Iowa	59,000
Idaho at Arizona State	29,000
Boston College at Boston U.	18,500
Kansas State at Oklahoma State	14,000
Idaho State at Wichita	14,000
Iowa State at Drake	11,000

Other cancelled games with estimates ranging from 1,000 to 8,000:

Colgate at Brown, Delaware at Bucknell, Holy Cross at Connecticut, Moravian at Muhlenberg, Lebanon Valley at Penn Military, Franklin & Marshall at Ursinus, Southern Connecticut at Central Connecticut, Drexel at Dickinson, Temple at Gettysburg, Indiana State at Montclair State, Wofford at Davidson, West Virginia State at Norfolk State, Western Maryland at John Hopkins, Appalachian at East Tennessee, St. Augustine's at Delaware State, Claflin at Savannah State, Howard at Livingstone, Bishop at Grambling, Detroit at Toledo, Washington & Lee at Washington (Mo.), Arkansas AM&N at Mississippi Vocational, Southern Illinois at North Texas State, Arkansas State at Trinity (Tex.), Hardin-Simmons at Arlington State, East Central Oklahoma at Delta State, Lamar Tech at Sam Houston, Los Angeles State at San Fernando State, San Diego State at San Francisco State.

The sectional breakdown:

DOANE ROMPS TO WIN

Westmar, Yankton Cop Close Games

. . . WESLEYAN HAS BYE

By DON SUMMERSIDE
Star Sports Writer

Yankton, Doane and Westmar grabbed opening-round victories Wednesday in Nebraska Wesleyan's Midwest Holiday Basketball Tournament and advanced with Wesleyan—possessor of a bye—into today's semifinal play.

Two of the three contests at Ira J. Taylor Gymnasium went down to the wire. Yankton handed Concordia its first season loss, 64-62. Westmar nipped Midland, 78-77, and Doane had an easy time with Dana, 92-79.

Today's pairings will have Westmar meeting Doane at 7:30 p.m. and Wesleyan facing Yankton at 9:30. In consolation activity, Midland plays Dana at 4 p.m. and Behlen's AAU club joins the losers bracket with Yankton at 5:45.

Midland freshman Art Oliver recorded the day's best individual performance in a losing cause.

The 6-3 Illinois native set a tournament scoring record with 39 points — 15 of 30 field attempts and 9-9 mark at the free throw line. Wesleyan's Chet Paul held the old standard of 33 points.

Twenty-six of Oliver's points came in the second half as Midland surged from eight points back to go ahead, 75-73, with 2:01 left in the game.

With 1:21 remaining, Jerry Vichery hit two free throws to extend Midland's edge to 77-73.

But Sutherland, an all-tournament selection a year ago, sank a long jumper to bring Westmar within two and seconds later, Glen Miller converted a steal into a layup and knotted the game at 77-all with 48 seconds left.

Midland missed on its next opportunity and then Sutherland sank the decider.

Oliver dominated both boards and led all rebounders with 17 grabs.

With Craig Kelley leading the way, Doane broke loose for a 50-point second half and an easy victory over winless Dana.

Kelley pumped in 16 of his 22 points in the last period and led both teams in scoring.

After 12 minutes of see-saw play in the first half, Doane grabbed the lead for good, 20-19, on a tip-in by Dennis Nelsen.

The Tigers moved away to a 42-33 halftime advantage and leads as great as 17 points in the final 20 minutes.

Yankton and Concordia, considered to be the chief threats to a Wesleyan title repeat and Tri-State Conference co-favorites, appeared ragged and tight in their nip-and-tuck struggle.

Each team managed just eight points in the first eight minutes of play and the two could combine for only 7 points in the first six minutes of the second half.

A three-minute scoring drouth by Yankton brought about the biggest point separation of the game. Gordon Bredown's jumper with 5:40 left in the first half gave the Bulldogs from Seward a 28-20 cushion.

Yankton pulled back within a point at intermission, 34-33, and the two teams were never far apart the rest of the way.

The South Dakota Greyhounds gained a 50-44 advantage midway in the final half, but then encountered foul trouble. Concordia surged within two, 54-52, without the aid of a field goal as Yankton lost Percy Stielow and Bill Spears via personal infractions.

After knotting the count at 56-all with 4:51 remaining, Concordia lost the range for almost 4 minutes and Yankton pulled away to a 62-56 edge. Dave Armstead's two free throws with :55 left gave the Hounds a 64-58 margin and Wayne Clement's two fielders in the final seconds were not enough for Concordia.

Ron Bertsch led the scoring for the winners with 19 points; Clements poured through 21 for Concordia.

Omaha (UPI) — The eighton University Bluejays pped to their eighth vicy against no defeats here ednesday night, setting back onzaga of Spokane, Wash., 89-79.

Creighton captain Paul Silas scored 24 points and had 19 rebounds. He and other Bluejay regulars rode the bench at times in the second half as coach Red McManus gave his substitutes a chance to play with his team well out in front.

Chuck Officer scored 18 points for the winners.

Elmer Deschaine paced Gonzaga with 24 points and Bill Wilson had 20 points for the Bulldogs.

Creighton led at halftime, 40-26.

With Silas and other first-stringers out of the lineup, Gonzaga was able to control the ball and at times closed the gap to less than 10 points. The Bulldogs led briefly in the first half, but the Jays quickly regained the lead and held it the remainder of the game.

Kansas State Stops Denver Upset Effort

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Jeff Simons came off the bench to help Kansas State wipe out a 12-point deficit and beat upsetminded Denver 72-65 in a non-conference basketball game Wednesday night.

The Wildcats trailed 41-29 with 15:58 left when Coach Tex Winter inserted the 6-foot-5 Simmons and he responded with nine points and some key rebounds.

Clay's Physical Set For Dec. 27

New York (AP) — Cassius Clay, the heavyweight who throws poetry and punches with almost equal abandon, is scheduled to have his draft physical Dec. 27, Selective Service Headquarters said Wednesday.

Clay, who is scheduled to fight champion Sonny Liston in February, was ordered to appear at 39 Whitehall Street at 7 a.m. for the physical.

If he passes the physical he will have 10 days to decide whether to go into the army for two years or join a National Guard or Reserve unit.

Clay transfered his papers recently from Louisville, Ky. to New York.

Nebraska Athletic Ticket manager James Pittenger reported Wednesday he has sold 7,250 tickets to the Orange Bowl football game in Miami New Year's Day.

Another 1,000 end zone tickets have been requested for Nebraska fans and these will be available through Friday, he reported.

Scottsbluff JC Whips Sheridan Club, 107-98

Sheridan, Wyo., (AP) — Scottsbluff Junior College took the opener of a two-game basketball series from Sheridan, Wyo., Junior College Wednesday night, 107-98.

Sheridan trailed, 42-55, at the half. Cal Graham spearheaded the Scottsbluff attack with 37 points and Walter Wethers netted 25 for Sheridan.

Giants' Offense Is No. 1

New York (AP)— It will be New York's high-powered offense against the Chicago Bears top-ranked defense in the National Football League title game Dec. 29 at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

The Giants led the league in total offense with 5,024 yards while winning their third straight Eastern Conference title. They were second in passing with 3,247 yards to Baltimore's 3,296 and seventh in rushing with 1,777 yards. The Cleveland Browns were first in rushing with 2,639 yards.

The Bears, winning their first Western crown since 1956, gave up only 3,176 yards, lowest in the league. They also had the best rushing defense with 1,442 yards and the best pass defense with only 1,734 yards.

—BEARS' TRULL IS KEY MAN—

Baylor Slight Pick In Bluebonnet

Houston (AP) — Baylor and Louisiana State fly into Houston Thursday morning to begin final preparations for Saturday's fifth Bluebonnet Bowl football game.

Both teams have 7-3 records but Baylor, runner-up in the Southwest to national champion Texas, has been established as two-point favorites over the Southeastern Conference Tigers.

The first workouts at 70,000-seat Rice University Stadium will be delayed by five hours of welcoming activities.

The three-day Bluebonnet Sports Festival begins officially Thursday night with a Sam Houston Coliseum basketball doubleheader matching Mississippi State against the University of Houston and Texas A&M against Oklahoma University. Friday night's pairings send A&M against Mississippi State and Houston against Oklahoma City.

Both Baylor and LSU will be making their second appearance of the season at the Rice Stadium where the four previous Bluebonnet games have attracted crowd ranging from 52,000 to 65,000.

LSU lost to Rice, 21-12, while Baylor, taking advantage of five second half Rice fumbles, defeated the Owls by the same score.

Strategy of both teams—Baylor on offense and LSU on defense-centers to a great extent around Don Trull, the star of Baylor's pro-type offense.

Trull broke three national and six Southwest Conference records while completing 174 passes for 2,157 yards.

Should anything happen Saturday to Trull, Coach John Bridgers of Baylor will turn to his defensive unit, the "Chinese Baptists," for a replacement.

The signal caller for the defensive unit is Bobby Maples, a 225-pound linebacker who was an all-conference quarterback as a freshman.

Maples, a junior, did not like bench warming while Trull dominated signal calling on offense. Maples continued his daily passing drills but sought a full-time assignment at another position.

Bridgers first tried Maples as a corner back then switched him to linebacker.

"He was a natural linebacker from the start," Bridgers said.

New Hunting Permits, Stamps In Effect Jan. 1

Nebraska sportsmen are reminded that changes in permit fees, passed by the 1963 Legislature, will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1964, the Game Commission announced.

All 1963 permits and upland game stamps expire at sunset Dec. 31, 1963. Those wishing to hunt pheasants after that date must have a 1964 permit.

Shrine Bowl Gridders Learn Why They'll Bang Heads

By OSCAR FRALEY

Miami (UPI)——It happens every year to the big, confident young men, strong of heart and tough of body, who play in the North-South Shrine football game.

It starts out as a lark, this trip to the Orange Bowl which winds up their collegiate grid careers. Then they visit Variety Children's Hospital and everything changes.

They know then why they're here.

They clatter up to the white portico, joking, laughing and whistling. One, this time, was singing "Here Comes Santa Claus, here comes Santa Claus."

And it still hadn't taken hold as they milled in the lobby, carrying in toys, blowing up balloons and gathering around the platform of electric trains set up in the foyer. There was horseplay, feinted shoulder blocks and a tendency for those in the red jerseys to separate themselves from those in the blue.

Until they went inside.

There the horseplay ended and they forgot that the guy beside them was a Yankee or a Southerner. Those measuring eyes turned damp when they saw more than 100 children playing a bigger game, where life was the stake. The big, rough hands became tender and fumbling and the hoarse voices became soft and consoling.

"Hey there, bub," said Johnny Nichols of Rice to a lad of seven with his leg in a cast. "Look what we got for you."

He held up a toy tank, wrapped in heavy plastic.

"I'll just get this out of here for you," he whispered.

The little boy watched with big eyes as Johnny Nichols wrestled with the plastic, like a lot of fathers will do on Christmas eve.

"Here, let us help you," offered Dewey Lincoln of Michigan State and Bill Swingle of Northwestern. "We got to get this out of here."

They looked abashed, the big ones, when the little boy laughed as a nurse's aid took over and completed the job.

Over in another corner, Al Grugallunas of Pitt, Jim Mazurek of Syracuse and rival Billy Weaver of Clemson did get the wrappings off a fire engine."

"Shucks," grunted Mazurek in disappointment, "It won't work without batteries."

But the smile they got from the little Negro boy with his arm in a cast almost made it work.

"Can I pick him up?" fearfully asked Iowa's Gary Fletcher of a nurse holding a red-haired boy.

He took the child, gingerly, and there was Christmas, New Year's and the Fourth of July in the youngster's shining eyes.

Tommy Fedor, a 10-year-old from Racine, Wis., who is bedded with a hip disease, talked bright-eyed with "two guys from home," Wisconsin's Louis Holland and Miami's John Sisk, who is from Wauwotosa, Wis., and the two big ones walked away friends if rivals.

Then, as they walked out the door, Ken Kortes from Louisville, stood beside the bed of a reclining youngster of 10 and ordered:

"Hey, each of you guys, sign this boy's autograph book."

They did, they would have anyhow. But Kortes' six feet, four inches and 293 pounds said they'd better.

They left quietly. And you knew practice would be more rugged today. They know now why they're banging heads Saturday.

DOANE ROMPS TO WIN

Westmar, Yankton Cop Close Games

. . . WESLEYAN HAS BYE

By DON SUMMERSIDE
Star Sports Writer

Yankton, Doane and Westmar grabbed opening-round victories Wednesday in Nebraska Wesleyan's Midwest Holiday Basketball Tournament and advanced with Wesleyan—possessor of a bye—into today's semifinal play.

Two of the three contests at Ira J. Taylor Gymnasium went down to the wire. Yankton handed Concordia its first season loss, 64-62. Westmar nipped Midland, 78-77, and Doane had an easy time with Dana, 92-79.

Today's pairings will have Westmar meeting Doane at 7:30 p.m. and Wesleyan facing Yankton at 9:30. In consolation activity, Midland plays Dana at 4 p.m. and Behlen's AAU club joins the losers bracket with Yankton at 5:45.

Midland freshman Art Oliver recorded the day's best individual performance in a losing cause.

The 6-3 Illinois native set a tournament scoring record with 39 points — 15 of 30 field attempts and 9-9 mark at the free throw line. Wesleyan's Chet Paul held the old standard of 33 points.

Twenty-six of Oliver's points came in the second half as Midland surged from eight points back to go ahead, 75-73, with 2:01 left in the game.

With 1:21 remaining, Jerry Vichery hit two free throws to extend Midland's edge to 77-73.

But Sutherland, an all-tournament selection a year ago, sank a long jumper to bring Westmar within two and seconds later, Glen Miller converted a steal into a layup and knotted the game at 77-all with 48 seconds left.

Midland missed on its next opportunity and then Sutherland sank the decider.

Oliver dominated both boards and led all rebounders with 17 grabs.

With Craig Kelley leading the way, Doane broke loose for a 50-point second half and an easy victory over winless Dana.

Kelley pumped in 16 of his 22 points in the last period and led both teams in scoring.

After 12 minutes of see-saw play in the first half, Doane grabbed the lead for good, 20-19, on a tip-in by Dennis Nelsen.

The Tigers moved away to a 42-33 halftime advantage and leads as great as 17 points in the final 20 minutes.

Yankton and Concordia, considered to be the chief threats to a Wesleyan title repeat and Tri-State Conference co-favorites, appeared ragged and tight in their nip-and-tuck struggle.

Each team managed just eight points in the first eight minutes of play and the two could combine for only 7 points in the first six minutes of the second half.

A three-minute scoring drouth by Yankton brought about the biggest point separation of the game. Gordon Bredown's jumper with 5:40 left in the first half gave the Bulldogs from Seward a 28-20 cushion.

Yankton pulled back within a point at intermission, 34-33, and the two teams were never far apart the rest of the way.

The South Dakota Greyhounds gained a 50-44 advantage midway in the final half, but then encountered foul trouble. Concordia surged within two, 54-52, without the aid of a field goal as Yankton lost Percy Stielow and Bill Spears via personal infractions.

After knotting the count at 56-all with 4:51 remaining, Concordia lost the range for almost 4 minutes and Yankton pulled away to a 62-56 edge. Dave Armstead's two free throws with :55 left gave the Hounds a 64-58 margin and Wayne Clement's two fielders in the final seconds were not enough for Concordia.

Ron Bertsch led the scoring for the winners with 19 points; Clements poured through 21 for Concordia.

College Football Attendance Hits All-Time High In 1963

. . . RECORD SET DESPITE CANCELLATIONS

New York (UPI) — Colleges voluntarily cancelled 34 football games during the 1963 season because of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

These games, all scheduled for Nov. 23—the day after the President's death — would have poured an estimated additional 268,900 people into the total college attendance for the year, a record despite the cancellations.

The attendance figures were estimated by the NCAA Service Bureau after three factors . . . study of (1) attendance for games between the two rivals in the past four years; (2) capacity of the home field; and (3) the average 1963 attendance for the host team.

The biggest loss was an estimated 59,000 expected to watch Notre Dame play Iowa at Iowa Stadium with a capacity of 60,150.

Following is a list of the six games cancelled which were expected to attract 10,000 or more each, with attendance estimates:

Notre Dame at Iowa	59,000
Idaho at Arizona State	29,000
Boston College at Boston U.	16,500
Kansas State at Oklahoma State	14,000
Idaho State at Wichita	14,000
Iowa State at Drake	11,000

Other cancelled games with estimates ranging from 1,000 to 8,000:

Creighton Captures 8th Straight Cage Win, 89-79

Omaha (UPI) — The Creighton University Bluejays topped to their eighth victory against no defeats here Wednesday night, setting back Gonzaga of Spokane, Wash., 89-79.

Creighton captain Paul Silas scored 24 points and had 19 rebounds. He and other Bluejay regulars rode the bench at times in the second half as coach Red McManus gave his substitutes a chance to play with his team well out in front.

Chuck Officer scored 18 points for the winners.

Elmer Deschaine paced Gonzaga with 21 points and Bill Wilson had 20 points for the Bulldogs.

Creighton led at halftime, 40-26.

With Silas and other first-stringers out of the lineup, Gonzaga was able to control the ball and at times closed the gap to less than 10 points. The Bulldogs led briefly in the first half, but the Jays quickly regained the lead and held it the remainder of the game.

Kansas State Stops Denver Upset Effort

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Jeff Simons came off the bench to help Kansas State wipe out a 12-point deficit and beat upsetminded Denver 72-65 in a non-conference basketball game Wednesday night.

The Wildcats trailed 41-29 with 15:58 left when Coach Tex Winter inserted the 6-foot-5 Simmons and he responded with nine points and some key rebounds.

Giants' Offense Is No. 1

New York (AP) — It will be New York's high-powered offense against the Chicago Bears top-ranked defense in the National Football League title game Dec. 29 at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

The Giants led the league in total offense with 5,024 yards while winning their third straight Eastern Conference title. They were second in passing with 3,247 yards to Baltimore's 3,296 and seventh in rushing with 1,777 yards. The Cleveland Browns were first in rushing with 2,639 yards.

The Bears, winning their first Western crown since 1956, gave up only 3,176 yards, lowest in the league. They also had the best rushing defense with 1,442 yards and the best pass defense with only 1,734 yards.

—BEARS' TRULL IS KEY MAN—

Baylor Slight Pick In Bluebonnet

Houston (AP) — Baylor and Louisiana State fly into Houston Thursday morning to begin final preparations for Saturday's fifth Bluebonnet Bowl football game.

Both teams have 7-3 records but Baylor, runner-up in the Southwest to national champion Texas, has been established as two-point favorites over the Southeastern Conference Tigers.

The first workouts at 70,000-seat Rice University Stadium will be delayed by five hours of welcoming activities.

The three-day Bluebonnet Sports Festival begins officially Thursday night with a Sam Houston Coliseum basketball doubleheader matching Mississippi State against the University of Houston and Texas A&M against Oklahoma University. Friday night's pairings send A&M against Mississippi State and Houston against Oklahoma City.

Both Baylor and LSU will be making their second appearance of the season at the Rice Stadium where the four previous Bluebonnet games have attracted crowd ranging from 52,000 to 65,000.

LSU lost to Rice, 21-12, while Baylor, taking advantage of five second half Rice fumbles, defeated the Owls by the same score.

Strategy of both teams—Baylor on offense and LSU on defense-centers to a great extent around Don Trull, the star of Baylor's pro-type offense.

Trull broke three national and six Southwest Conference records while completing 174 passes for 2,157 yards.

Should anything happen Saturday to Trull, Coach John Bridgers of Baylor will turn to his defensive unit, the "Chinese Baptists," for a replacement.

The signal caller for the defensive unit is Bobby Maples, a 225-pound linebacker who was an all-conference quarterback as a freshman.

Maples, a junior, did not like bench warming while Trull dominated signal calling on offense. Maples continued his daily passing drills but sought a full-time assignment at another position.

Bridgers first tried Maples as a corner back then switched him to linebacker.

"He was a natural linebacker from the start," Bridgers said.

New Hunting Permits, Stamps In Effect Jan. 1

Nebraska sportsmen are reminded that changes in permit fees, passed by the 1963 Legislature, will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1964, the Game Commission announced.

All 1963 permits and upland game stamps expire at sunset Dec. 31, 1963. Those wishing to hunt pheasants after that date must have a 1964 permit.

Pro Grid Merger Plans Are Denied

Los Angeles (AP)—A Los Angeles newspaper said Wednesday that a merger of the National and American football leagues would be proposed at the NFL's annual meeting next month, but both league offices promptly said they had heard nothing about it.

A spokesman for the NFL quickly scotched the story.

"No one in this office has ever heard of any such thing," he said. "No such program has been submitted here for the league meeting."

The NFL meets Jan. 28 at Miami.

At the AFL, Assistant Commissioner Milt Woodard said: "No one in this office has heard of any such thing."

Two coaches in the four-year-old AFL were naturally enthusiastic about the idea.

Bob Oates, writing in the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, said there has been a change of mind by some of the NFL owners in the cold war with the AFL and peace is in the offing.

Sid Gillman, coach of the AFL San Diego Chargers said he knew nothing about the proposal to merge the two leagues, "but it's something that's got to happen. It should happen soon."

Denver Coach Jack Faulkner said, "it would be just tremendous. There has to be a breakthrough somewhere."

The two coaches pointed to advantage of a common draft of college players.

"The way rookies are coming these days, everyone is running out of money," said Gilman.

"I imagine they're thinking about the draft," said Faulkner.

The Herald-Examiner story said the proposed merger would call for a 22-team league, the current 14 in the NFL and eight in the AFL.

Senators Promote Stamps With Fish

Washington (AP) — A series of postage stamps portraying major species of commercial and sports fish was proposed Wednesday by Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska.

In a letter to Postmaster General John Bronouski, they said issuance of fish stamps would encourage the nation's oldest industry and stimulate interest in the protein resources of the sea.

Other nations, they said, have featured fishing scenes on their stamps and Ireland recently minted a coin bearing the likeness of a salmon.

Australian Beats World Records In Track Meet

Melbourne (AP) — Ron Clarke, a 26-year-old Australian distance runner best remembered as the teen-ager who lit the Olpmpic torch in 1956, cracked world records for 10,000 meters and six miles here Wednesday night.

Running in the Victorian marathon Club's annual "Emil Zatopek" 10,000-meter run, Clarke was clocked in 28 minutes, 15.6 seconds for the metric distance which is equivalent to 6 miles 376 yards, and passed the six-mile mark in 27:17.6.

Clarke clipped 3.2 seconds off the 10,000-meter mark held by Russia's Pyotr Bolotnikov and 26.2 seconds off the six-mile mark held by Sandor Iharos of Hungary.

Steelers Trade Dial For Rights To Scott Appleton

Pittsburgh (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League traded pass-catching flanker back Buddy Dial Wednesday to the Dallas Cowboys for the rights to Scott Appleton, a University of Texas lineman who was the Cowboys' first draft pick.

Steeler Coach Buddy Parker said he made the trade to obtain defensive help. He said he has plenty of pass receivers, including Paul Martha of Pitt and Jim Kelly of Notre Dame, both Steeler picks in the recent NFL draft.

Dial just completed his fifth year in the NFL. During the 1963 season, he caught 60 passes for 1,295 yards, and tallied nine touchdowns.

Buffalo-Boston Playoff To Be Seen On ABC

New York (AP)—The Buffalo-Boston playoff game for the Eastern Division championship of the American Football League will be telecast nationally (ABC) at 12 noon (CST) Saturday, Dec. 28 from Buffalo.

Buffalo and Boston finished their regular season with 7-6-1 records. The winner will play the Western Division champions either San Diego or Oakland, in the title game in the home city of the Western winner, Jan. 5.

CLAY LOSES TEETH, BUT NOT PUT OUT

Miami Beach, Fla. — Cassius Clay went to a dentist and had two teeth pulled. He took Novacain.

"I didn't let him put me to sleep," said the Louisville lip. "I don't want nobody to knock me out."

Then Clay went to the Fifth Street Gym to open training for his fight with Sonny Liston Feb. 26 for the world heavyweight championship. He did 15 rounds sparring, bag-punching and rope-skipping.

"That's the most I've ever done in a gym in one day," Clay said. "I plan to be ready."

A physician named to certify Clay for the show-up insurance clause in millionaire sportsman Bill MacDonald's contract to promote the fight, checked Clay over and found him healthy. He weighed 210 pounds.

"The Torch Is Passed"

The tragic assassination of President Kennedy is unfolded in text and pictures in the Associated Press book, "The Torch Is Passed." Accounts are by leading AP writers who were eye witnesses of the infamous event.

The hard cover, 100 page book will contain pictures in both black and white and color. Advance orders for this historic document indicate a press run of more than a million copies.

The book is described by those who have read it as the most engrossing, complete and cohesive account yet of the four days that shook the world. It includes heretofore unpublished material.

The book will not be sold in bookstores. It is available to readers of The Lincoln Star for $2 a copy.

To get your book just clip this coupon and send it, along with your check or money order for the number of books you want, to the address listed thereon. Delivery of the books will be made after Dec. 30.

The Herald-Examiner story said the proposed merger would call for a 22-team league, the current 14 in the NFL and eight in the AFL.

Steelers Trade Dial For Rights To Scott Appleton

Pittsburgh (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League traded pass-catching flanker back Buddy Dial Wednesday to the Dallas Cowboys for the rights to Scott Appleton, a University of Texas lineman who was the Cowboys' first draft pick.

Steeler Coach Buddy Parker said he made the trade to obtain defensive help. He said he has plenty of pass receivers, including Paul Martha of Pitt and Jim Kelly of Notre Dame, both Steeler picks in the recent NFL draft

Dial just completed his fifth year in the NFL. During the 1963 season, he caught 60 passes for 1,295 yards, and tallied nine touchdowns.

Buffalo-Boston Playoff To Be Seen On ABC

New York (AP)—The Buffalo-Boston playoff game for the Eastern Division championship of the American Football League will be telecast nationally (ABC) at 12 noon (CST) Saturday, Dec. 28 from Buffalo.

Buffalo and Boston finished their regular season with 7-6-1 records. The winner will play the Western Division champions either San Diego or Oakland, in the title game in the home city of the Western winner, Jan. 5.

Senators Promote Stamps With Fish

Washington (AP) — A series of postage stamps portraying major species of commercial and sports fish was proposed Wednesday by Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska.

In a letter to Postmaster General John Bronouski, they said issuance of fish stamps would encourage the nation's oldest industry and stimulate interest in the protein resources of the sea.

Other nations, they said, have featured fishing scenes on their stamps and Ireland recently minted a coin bearing the likeness of a salmon.

Australian Beats World Records In Track Meet

Melbourne (AP) — Ron Clarke, a 26-year-old Australian distance runner best remembered as the teen-ager who lit the Olpmpic torch in 1956, cracked world records for 10,000 meters and six miles here Wednesday night.

Running in the Victorian marathon Club's annual "Emil Zatopek" 10,000-meter run, Clarke was clocked in 28 minutes, 15.6 seconds for the metric distance which is equivalent to 6 miles 376 yards, and passed the six-mile mark in 27:17.6.

Clarke clipped 3.2 seconds off the 10,000-meter mark held by Russia's Pyotr Bolotnikov and 26.2 seconds off the six-mile mark held by Sandor Iharos of Hungary.

CLAY LOSES TEETH, BUT NOT PUT OUT

Miami Beach, Fla. — Cassius Clay went to a dentist and had two teeth pulled. He took Novacain.

"I didn't let him put me to sleep," said the Louisville lip. "I don't want nobody to knock me out."

Then Clay went to the Fifth Street Gym to open training for his fight with Sonny Liston Feb. 26 for the world heavyweight championship. He did 15 rounds sparring, bag-punching and rope-skipping.

"That's the most I've ever done in a gym in one day," Clay said. "I plan to be ready."

A physician named to certify Clay for the show-up insurance clause in millionaire sportsman Bill MacDonald's contract to promote the fight, checked Clay over and found him healthy. He weighed 210 pounds.

"The Torch Is Passed"

The tragic assassination of President Kennedy is unfolded in text and pictures in the Associated Press book, "The Torch Is Passed." Accounts are by leading AP writers who were eye witnesses of the infamous event.

The hard cover, 100 page book will contain pictures in both black and white and color. Advance orders for this historic document indicate a press run of more than a million copies.

The book is described by those who have read it as the most engrossing, complete and cohesive account yet of the four days that shook the world. It includes heretofore unpublished material.

The book will not be sold in bookstores. It is available to readers of The Lincoln Star for $2 a copy.

To get your book just clip this coupon and send it, along with your check or money order for the number of books you want, to the address listed thereon. Delivery of the books will be made after Dec. 30.

Dog Racing Big Business

. . . EIGHT STATES CASH IN ON POPULARITY

Miami, Fla. (AP)—The swift, graceful greyhound, famous for coursing game for centuries, has built a multi-million dollar industry in America.

Eight states are cashing in on the greyhound's tremendous speed, and today 33 dog racing tracks are operating from Arizona to Massachusetts and from Florida to Oregon. The figures are staggering.

In Florida alone, revenue from 17 tracks exceeded $12 million during the 1962-63 fiscal year. More than four million spectators paid to see the dogs run and wagered in excess of $175 million on 1,479 programs.

Eighteeen tracks operated during the past summer in Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Massachusetts, Montana, Oregon and South Dakota. Other states are reported eyeing greyhound racing as an additional source of revenue, among them Nebraska and New York.

The 156-page Greyhound Racing Form summarizes the summer season just ended. It lists 8,663 dogs, of which 4,708 are males and 3,955 females. They range in age from one to five years and in weight from 44 to 86 pounds.

Names are a big problem to the owner, and they cover all conceivable combinations. National Coursing Association rules limit names to 16 letters, but do not count spaces or punctuation as in horse racing. No name, once registered, may ever be used again.

Shortest name on the list is Vu, the longest is Orion's Blue Prince, Imp. The "Imp." stands for imported and does not count in the 16-letter rule.

Kansas is the center of coursing, with headquarters at Abilene. Considerable coursing also is carried on in Oklahoma, Texas and other states.

For the past several years greyhounds have been sent to America from other countries, especially Ireland, for races and some have stayed to become important breeding stock. Leading sires command as much as $200 stud fee.

Single races offer purses as high as $25,000. Recently a man in Massachusetts who raises greyhounds as a hobby saw one of his dogs win the American Greyhound Derby and $16,000.

Big Gossip, now at stud, finished in the money 152 times in 183 races to earn $71,960.

Greyhound farms, ranging from an acre or two to 100 or more are scattered throughout the country, especially in Florida, Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma. Some house as many as 200 dogs and carry on breeding, training and boarding activities.

Most greyhound tracks are a quarter-mile and races may range from 5/16ths to 9/16ths of a mile. Many plants boast deluxe accommodations, including valet parking, escalators, air-conditioned clubhouses and mammoth "tote" boards to flash odds and payoffs. Crowds of 10,000 are not uncommon.

VOSS SELECTED FOR NORTH CLUB

Mobile, Ala. (AP) — Nebraska tackle Lloyd Voss was among the 25 players selected Wednesday to represent the North squad in the 15th annual Senior Bowl all-star football game here Jan. 4.

Voss was one of four players named to the Yankee squad picked in the first round drafts by the NFL and AFL pro teams. These included: Voss, Green Bay Packers; Oklahoma back Joe Don Looney, New York Giants; Bill Munson, Los Angeles Rams; and Jack Concannon, Boston Patriots.

Munson, a Utah State quarterback, Concannon of Boston College and Maryland's Dick Shiner comprise the North's signalcaller corps.

Courcy Leading Knights' Scoring

Omaha (UPI)—Bob Courcy, speedy right winger for the Omaha knights, is leading the team in scoring after the first 27 games with 39 points.

He is the first player to hit the goal mark this season. Courcy has 20 goals and 19 assists.

Second is scoring is Len Ronson, left wing, who has 14 goals and 21 assists for 35 points. Centerman Doug Senior is third with 14 goals and 17 assists for 31 points.

Noel Picard is the team's "bad man" so far with 65 minutes in the penalty box. Picard has missed five games because of injuries.

Dog Racing Big Business

. . . EIGHT STATES CASH IN ON POPULARITY

Miami, Fla. (AP)—The swift, graceful greyhound, famous for coursing game for centuries, has built a multi-million dollar industry in America.

Eight states are cashing in on the greyhound's tremendous speed, and today 33 dog racing tracks are operating from Arizona to Massachusetts and from Florida to Oregon. The figures are staggering.

In Florida alone, revenue from 17 tracks exceeded $12 million during the 1962-63 fiscal year. More than four million spectators paid to see the dogs run and wagered in excess of $175 million on 1,479 programs.

Eighteeen tracks operated during the past summer in Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Massachusetts, Montana, Oregon and South Dakota. Other states are reported eyeing greyhound racing as an additional source of revenue, among them Nebraska and New York.

The 156-page Greyhound Racing Form summarizes the summer season just ended. It lists 8,663 dogs, of which 4,708 are males and 3,955 females. They range in age from one to five years and in weight from 44 to 86 pounds.

Names are a big problem to the owner, and they cover all conceivable combinations. National Coursing Association rules limit names to 16 letters, but do not count spaces or punctuation as in horse racing. No name, once registered, may ever be used again.

Shortest name on the list is Vu, the longest is Orion's Blue Prince, Imp. The "Imp." stands for imported and does not count in the 16-letter rule.

Kansas is the center of coursing, with headquarters at Abilene. Considerable coursing also is carried on in Oklahoma, Texas and other states.

For the past several years greyhounds have been sent to America from other countries, especially Ireland, for races and some have stayed to become important breeding stock. Leading sires command as much as $200 stud fee.

Single races offer purses as high as $25,000. Recently a man in Massachusetts who raises greyhounds as a hobby saw one of his dogs win the American Greyhound Derby and $16,000.

Big Gossip, now at stud, finished in the money 152 times in 183 races to earn $71,960.

Greyhound farms, ranging from an acre or two to 100 or more are scattered throughout the country, especially in Florida, Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma. Some house as many as 200 dogs and carry on breeding, training and boarding activities.

Most greyhound tracks are a quarter-mile and races may range from 5/16ths to 9/16ths of a mile. Many plants boast deluxe accommodations, including valet parking, escalators, air-conditioned clubhouses and mammoth "tote" boards to flash odds and payoffs. Crowds of 10,000 are not uncommon.

VOSS SELECTED FOR NORTH CLUB

Mobile, Ala. (AP) — Nebraska tackle Lloyd Voss was among the 25 players selected Wednesday to represent the North squad in the 15th annual Senior Bowl all-star football game here Jan. 4.

Voss was one of four players named to the Yankee squad picked in the first round drafts by the NFL and AFL pro teams. These included: Voss, Green Bay Packers; Oklanoma back Joe Don Looney, New York Giants; Bill Munson, Los Angeles Rams; and Jack Concannon, Boston Patriots.

Munson, a Utah State quarterback, Concannon of Boston College and Maryland's Dick Shiner comprise the North's signalcaller corps.

Courcy Leading Knights' Scoring

Omaha (UPI)—Bob Courcy, speedy right winger for the Omaha knights, is leading the team in scoring after the first 27 games with 39 points.

He is the first player to hit the goal mark this season. Courcy has 20 goals and 19 assists.

Second is scoring is Len Ronson, left wing, who has 14 goals and 21 assists for 35 points. Centerman Doug Senior is third with 14 goals and 17 assists for 31 points.

Noel Picard is the team's "bad man" so far with 65 minutes in the penalty box. Picard has missed five games because of injuries.

Electric Shaver Service

1140 "N" & APPLIANCE REPAIR 432-1785

The Grand Hotel in Calcutta is so grand it covers a mighty block. It was built in 1880 and English Viceroys lived in pomp and splendor a half mile away.

The inner courtyard (barbered palms and screaming parrots) is the size of a football field. You could play basketball in my room.

The plumbing is hooked up sympathetically. When one bowl empties, all the others cough and gargle in chorus.

☆ ☆ ☆

If it is not the Hilton, it does give you a sense of history. I imagine many a British pukka sahib sat soaping in that king-size tub. Erasing the grime that comes from carrying the White Man's Burden. Secure when he heard the gurgling pipes that Queen Victoria couid boast nothing more modern.

(A lot of people had to throw their bath water out the window.)

The most modern thing I've heard here so far is that TV may be the means of solving India's population.

☆ ☆ ☆

"You see when the villagers come home after the day, the only thing they can do is eat dinner. And then there is nothing for them to do," said the Indian to whom I am attached for sightseeing.

"They have no cinema. They have no cultural activities. They have no plays. Most are illiterate and could not read books if they had them.

"So there is nothing to do but enjoy sex.

"Now, if they had TV—. Perhaps it would only make a small percentage difference. But even that—."

☆ ☆ ☆

Small percentages count up. India has 450 million people doing the best they can and that's not too much.

They are increasing about two percent a year. Sounds small but it's nine million.

Foreign aid has boosted what they can eat and wear about three percent.

"But if you gain three percent and add two percent to eat what you have gained, the net value is only one percent."

And that (as our Foreign Aid people have learned) is the frustrating fact all over the world. Increase food and health and you increase the number of people.

☆ ☆ ☆

It seems an odd approach to birth control. Can "Sam Benedict" really make happy families? Will "Gunsmoke" relieve the family problem of Mr. Mukerjee? Is the world a better place to live in if you live on Channel 4?

Apparently there has been some serious thought of putting a community TV in each village.

As for the new wonder pills—"It is very hard to educate the villagers to take tablets. They do not understand what it is for."

For a time some well-meaning organization distributed beads. They were a wearable calendar to mark the approved rhythm system of birth control. Green beads counted the days of no fertility. Red beads counted the others.

It turned out, however, that the village women figured all you had to do was wear the beads. A sort of lucky charm.

☆ ☆ ☆

Of the 450 million Indians, six million live in Calcutta. A number of them live right on the sidewalk. They build little cardboard lean-to houses. And the whole family lives there.

Washing is done in water outlets that come from the sidewalk edge. There is a good deal of such public bathing in the middle of crowded, bustling business districts.

Crowds of begging kids swarm onto you if you put a foot on the sidewalk—I imagine the foreign tourist is a prime target. Lot of skin disease—that could be easily cured. Lot too many people to take care of properly.

☆ ☆ ☆

If TV can help this, I'm all for it. We could export the residuals of the Jerry Lewis show. Has Foreign Aid thought about that?

The plumbing is hooked up sympathetically. When one bowl empties, all the others cough and gargle in chorus.

☆ ☆ ☆

If it is not the Hilton, it does give you a sense of history. I imagine many a British pukka sahib sat soaping in that king-size tub. Erasing the grime that comes from carrying the White Man's Burden. Secure when he heard the gurgling pipes that Queen Victoria could boast nothing more modern.

(A lot of people had to throw their bath water out the window.)

The most modern thing I've heard here so far is that TV may be the means of solving India's population.

☆ ☆

"You see when the villagers come home after the day, the only thing they can do is eat dinner. And then there is nothing for them to do," said the Indian to whom I am attached for sightseeing.

"They have no cinema. They have no cultural activities. They have no plays. Most are illiterate and could not read books if they had them.

"So there is nothing to do but enjoy sex.

"Now, if they had TV—. Perhaps it would only make a small percentage difference. But even that—."

☆ ☆ ☆

Small percentages count up. India has 450 million people doing the best they can and that's not too much.

They are increasing about two percent a year. Sounds small but it's nine million.

Foreign aid has boosted what they can eat and wear about three percent.

"But if you gain three percent and add two percent to eat what you have gained, the net value is only one percent."

And that (as our Foreign Aid people have learned) is the frustrating fact all over the world. Increase food and health and you increase the number of people.

☆ ☆ ☆

It seems an odd approach to birth control. Can "Sam Benedict" really make happy families? Will "Gunsmoke" relieve the family problem of Mr. Mukerjee? Is the world a better place to live in if you live on Channel 4?

Apparently there has been some serious thought of putting a community TV in each village.

As for the new wonder pills—"It is very hard to educate the villagers to take tablets. They do not understand what it is for."

For a time some well-meaning organization distributed beads. They were a wearable calendar to mark the approved rhythm system of birth control. Green beads counted the days of no fertility. Red beads counted the others.

It turned out, however, that the village women figured all you had to do was wear the beads. A sort of lucky charm.

☆ ☆ ☆

Of the 450 million Indians, six million live in Calcutta. A number of them live right on the sidewalk. They build little cardboard lean-to houses. And the whole family lives there.

Washing is done in water outlets that come from the sidewalk edge. There is a good deal of such public bathing in the middle of crowded, bustling business districts.

Crowds of begging kids swarm onto you if you put a foot on the sidewalk—I imagine the foreign tourist is a prime target. Lot of skin disease—that could be easily cured. Lot too many people to take care of properly.

☆ ☆ ☆

If TV can help this, I'm all for it. We could export the residuals of the Jerry Lewis show. Has Foreign Aid thought about that?

In a survey of its member stores Super Market Institute found that in 1960, they averaged a sales gain of 8% over 1959. Virtually all companies—97%— advertised in newspapers. Some 42% of these used newspapers on one day of the week; 39%—two days; 11%—three days; 8%—four to seven days. Thursday was cited by 66% of the stores as the leading day for newspaper advertising, with Wednesday a strong second.

Comprehensive Study Of Navy Shipyards Set

Washington (AP)—The Pentagon announced Wednesday formation of a joint Defense Department-Navy board to make a "comprehensive study" of the capacity and needs for the 11 Navy shipyards now in operation.

The question of closing some government yards already has brought strong reaction from congressional quarters.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, in announcing last week plans to close or cut down operations of 26 military bases and installations also let it be known that he believed there was excess capacity among the government-owned yards.

He included among the 26 installations a small government yard at San Diego, but noted that this still left 11 major yards in operation.

The new announcement said that, at the direction of McNamara, Secretary of the Navy Paul Nitze established on Dec. 15 a board with membership from both the Navy Department and McNamara's office to make the new study.

The study will include, but not be limited to, such subjects as:

"A. An analysis of present capacity of shipyards, both public and private, for the construction, overhaul, conversion and repair of all types of vessels.

"B. An analysis of work loads on a five-year projection of shipbuilding, repair and conversion programs.

"C. Impact of strategic and mobilization considerations on location of shipyards and major bases.

"D. An analysis of tenant (sic) activities and facilities supported by existing shipyards.

"E. An analysis of yard operating costs."

Phony Badge Brings Arrest

North Platte (AP)—When 24-year-old James M. Hedrick of North Platte stopped a lady driver Wednesday and told her she had been driving in excess of the speed limit he made a mistake that landed him in jail.

Hedrick showed the driver a police badge.

The lady took a second look and that was what landed Hedrick in jail. It seems her husband was a North Platte policeman and the badge Hedrick flashed wasn't the type used by North Platte officers.

Marvel Asks Speed-Up On Big Agency Budgets

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings Wednesday asked the Legislative Council Budget Committee to consider recommending that the 1965 Budget Committee take action which would send its appropriation recommendations on big agencies to the floor much earlier in the session.

Traditionally the Budget Committee has always sent to the floor its recommended appropriations for all state agencies in one package, and it's generally late in the session.

Marvel suggested Wednesday, however, that consideration be given to accelerating action on the state's largest agencies so the Legislature would have plenty of time to study the committee's recommendations.

He proposed that the Legislative Council Budget Study Committee plan to meet with representatives of the larger agencies beginning next month to discuss ways of speeding up budgeting processes.

The Hastings senator noted that usually the Budget Committee hears smaller, less complicated agencies in the early days of the session and delays hearings on the big agencies until midway in the session.

Marvel suggested it might be better to consider big agencies when committee members were "fresher" and thus able to give more careful consideration to the complicated issues before them.

Since the makeup of the 1965 Budget Committee will not be known until the next session begins, the Legislative Council Budget Study Committee's thoughts on the matter could only come as a recommendation.

It would be expected to carry considerable weight, however, as far as future action is concerned.

Firm Picked For Personnel Study

The Legislative Council Study Committee Wednesday selected the management consultant firm of Booz-Allen-Hamilton of Chicago to conduct the first phase of a state government personnel study.

Selection was made after the committee had interviewed representatives of several consulting companies to hear their proposals for the study for which the Legislature appropriated $35,000.

The committee is scheduled to meet with Booz-Allen-Hamilton representatives again on Jan. 6 to work out details for the study's first phase which the company estimated would cost from $7,000 to $9,000.

After this portion is completed, the committee will determine what course it will follow for the remainder of the study.

The Chicago firm estimated it would take about four weeks to complete phase one.

Sen Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln was the principal introducer of the resolution requesting the study.

Not So Feisty

United Nations, N. Y. (AP) — The president of the U. N. General Assembly, Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez of Venezuela, said the three-months fall session was remarkably free of cold war animosities. He attributed this partly to the nuclear test ban treaty signed last summer.

Speed Sought On Bond Requests Of 4 State Colleges

The State Normal Board Wednesday asked the Executive Board of the Legislative Council to give the earliest possible consideration to the Normal Board's request for authority to issue revenue bonds for $3,765,000 for buildings on its four college campuses.

The Executive Board said it would act on the request at its Jan. 6 meeting after it has had a chance to study the bond requests for each college.

The projects include dormitory facilities at Chadron, Peru and Kearney State colleges, and a health and physical education facility at Wayne State College.

Peru has requested $615,000 to build a 122-bed addition to Majors Hall (men's dormitory), and to expand the Student Center to provide additional dining space for 120 persons, plus related food service facilities.

Chadron has requested $1,225,000 for a 304-bed dormitory which would include 100 beds for women students and 204 bed for men students.

$1.5 Million Asked

Kearney has asked for $1.5 million to construct a 398-bed dormitory for men.

Wayne has requested $425,000 to build a health and physical education building which would include a swimming pool and a dispensary.

Legislators indicated they wanted to give a thorough study to the requests, but promised they would reach a decision at the January meeting.

Normal Board President Henry Freed of Chadron agreed that the senators should give the requests full study, but explained the board needs an early decision because unless construction is started in the near future the facilities will not be completed in time for the fall term of 1965.

Will Have $7,500

In other action, the executive board determined that the Legislative Council Tax Study Committee — which has three separate subcommittees studying various phases of taxation — should be informed that it will have $7,500 to pay for its study expenses.

Committee Chairman Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton had asked for a clarification of the committee's budget due to its makeup of three special subcommittees.

The board decided it could guarantee only that the committee would have $7,500 to spend out of the total allocation for legislative interim studies. If its expenses are higher and there are any funds available from other committees, the tax group might be able to obtain some of the balance.

On another matter, the committee heard a progress report from Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. on its accounting study of state government and was informed that the firm hopes to be able to implement part of its new system by July 1 next year.

The company representative said the firm had received "wonderful cooperation" from state agencies in conducting the study which is aimed at streamlining the state's accounting procedures.

WHY SMIRNOFF INSTEAD OF ANY OTHER VODKA?

It's filtered through a "mountain" of charcoal

Of the hundreds of vodkas made today, there's not one made like Smirnoff.

Every drop of Smirnoff is filtered and refined through seven tons of activated charcoal. That's 14,000 lbs., far more charcoal filtration than other vodkas use. This "black magic" removes most of the congeners. No wonder that Smirnoff is the finest liquor in the world; crystal clear and flawless, with no noticeable liquor taste or odor.

That's why Smirnoff makes the driest of dry Martinis. Why it blends so completely in fruit juices or soft drinks. Why it's always so smooth, even on-the-rocks.

Ask for Smirnoff by name at bars and stores. Insist! Persist! Resist anything else!

Not So Feisty

United Nations, N. Y. (AP) — The president of the U. N. General Assembly, Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez of Venezuela, said the three-months fall session was remarkably free of cold war animosities. He attributed this partly to the nuclear test ban treaty signed last summer.

Speed Sought On Bond Requests Of 4 State Colleges

The State Normal Board Wednesday asked the Executive Board of the Legislative Council to give the earliest possible consideration to the Normal Board's request for authority to issue revenue bonds for $3,765,000 for buildings on its four college campuses.

The Executive Board said it would act on the request at its Jan. 6 meeting after it has had a chance to study the bond requests for each college.

The projects include dormitory facilities at Chadron, Peru and Kearney State colleges, and a health and physical education facility at Wayne State College.

Peru has requested $615,000 to build a 122-bed addition to Majors Hall (men's dormitory), and to expand the Student Center to provide additional dining space for 120 persons, plus related food service facilities.

Chadron has requested $1,225,000 for a 304-bed dormitory which would include 100 beds for women students and 204 bed for men students.

$1.5 Million Asked

Kearney has asked for $1.5 million to construct a 398-bed dormitory for men.

Wayne has requested $425,000 to build a health and physical education building which would include a swimming pool and a dispensary.

Legislators indicated they wanted to give a thorough study to the requests, but promised they would reach a decision at the January meeting.

Normal Board President Henry Freed of Chadron agreed that the senators should give the requests full study, but explained the board needs an early decision because unless construction is started in the near future the facilities will not be completed in time for the fall term of 1965.

Will Have $7,500

In other action, the executive board determined that the Legislative Council Tax Study Committee — which has three separate subcommittees studying various phases of taxation — should be informed that it will have $7,500 to pay for its study expenses.

Committee Chairman Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton had asked for a clarification of the committee's budget due to its makeup of three special subcommittees.

The board decided it could guarantee only that the committee would have $7,500 to spend out of the total allocation for legislative interim studies. If its expenses are higher and there are any funds available from other committees, the tax group might be able to obtain some of the balance.

On another matter, the committee heard a progress report from Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. on its accounting study of state government and was informed that the firm hopes to be able to implement part of its new system by July 1 next year.

The company representative said the firm had received "wonderful cooperation" from state agencies in conducting the study which is aimed at streamlining the state's accounting procedures.

Committee Hearings Set On Rights Bill

Washington (AP) — Hearings on the civil rights bill will start in the House Rules Committee on Jan. 9, Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., told the House Wednesday.

The date, only two days after the 88th Congress reconvenes for its second session, indicates the House leadership has won a struggle with Smith to get the fastest action possible on the bill.

Smith didn't say how long the hearings would last, however, and another battle with the Virginian, who opposes civil rights legislation, may ensue if they drag on for a considerable length of time.

Should Be Heard

"I shall not encourage any dilatory tactics," Smith said, but added: "A good many members want to be heard and under our rules a member of Congress should not be denied a chance to be heard."

Smith acknowledged that a majority of the committee may, at any time, vote to end the hearings and send the bill to the floor. Civil rights groups are urging such action be taken after three or four days.

Smith wants the hearings to last long enough to make a record of the provisions he regards as most far-reaching in the omnibus bill.

Employment

In particular, he would like to see extensive testimony about the section outlawing racial discrimination in employment, which would have a nationwide impact instead of being felt mainly in the south, as would most other provisions.

Smith's announcement of the quick start to the hearings came without warning as he took the floor during debate on an unrelated matter.

"There has been a good deal of discussion about the civil rights bill, he said, "and I would like to say what my intentions are with respect to it."

Smith announced two weeks ago he would hold hearings "reasonably soon" after Congress reconvenes, and Jan. 14 had been the earliest anyone expected he would move.

Two meetings late Tuesday probably had a lot to do with Smith's decision. One was between a 10-man delegation of the Civil Rights Leadership Conference and Speaker John W. McCormack, at which the civil rights group, formed to push the legislation, sought the earliest possible action on the bill in January.

That meeting lasted an hour-and-a-half and was followed by a meeting between McCormack, majority leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., and Smith.

Likelihood

Another factor in getting Smith to speed action was the likelihood that more Republicans would sign a discharge petition to take the bill away from the rules committee if an early hearing date was not set.

The petition was filed two weeks ago, but has attracted only 166 of the 218 signatures needed to put it into effect. Only a handful of these are Republicans but more would have been expected to sign up if Smith had delayed the hearings.

Senate Starts Aid Debate; First Slash Attempt Beaten

Washington (AP)—The Senate began debate on a $3.3 billion foreign aid money bill Wednesday by defeating an attempt to knock out a $50 million Latin-American item. Then it put off further action on the measure until Thursday.

The debate was launched with fresh word from President Johnson, expressing confidence that a satisfactory bill will emerge but voicing fears of deep cuts.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., read a letter Johnson wrote Tuesday urging the Senate Appropriations Committee not to vote below the $3.6 billion authorized by Congress. He said "It would be false economy to cut funds which are needed for our own security and future well being."

The President wrote the letter before the committee voted to restore $500 million of $800 million carved out of the appropriation bill by the House.

At a news conference Wednesday, Johnson expressed a seemingly different view, saying the $3.3 billion voted by the committee "was very constructive and very helpful."

Johnson said he had no doubt that a satisfactory bill will emerge which, he added, "may not give us all that we would like to see and it may have some limitations that we think are undesirable."

Weather Setup Target Date Set

The first stages in the establishment of a consolidated weather station for Lincoln are expected to get under way the first or second week of January.

Roy L. Fox, regional administrator for the U.S. Weather Bureau at Kansas City, said that he expects to have people in Lincoln by then to begin work on the facility.

Fox said a target date of April 15 has been set to have "some kind of an operation going by that time."

"Whether the station is operating at that time will depend on the availability of equipment and how the weather will allow us to proceed," he said.

"We do expect to have some service by then. Not necessarily 24-hour-a-day service, however," he added.

Money for the new facility came from a Commerce Department appropriations bill approved by House and Senate negotiators. The bill appropriated $115,000 for the service.

Fox, who is responsible for establishing the continuous weather and aviation service at the Lincoln Municipal Airport, estimated that it will cost between $120,000 and $130,000 a year to operate the facility.

Britain To Aid Siam

London (AP) — The Foreign Office said Wednesday Britain will help Thailand build a new airfield as part of that country's program to improve its military supply lines.

Over $1.5 Million In GI Insurance Due Nebraskans

More than $1.5 million dollars will go to 31,914 Nebraskans under the plan for accelerated payment of 1964 GI insurance dividends, A. H. Duxbury, Veterans Administration regional office manager in Lincoln, reported Wednesday.

Plans for the stepped-up payments to World War I and II veterans holding GI life insurance policies were announced recently by President Johnson.

Regular dividends usually are distributed on the policy's anniversary date. As a stimulant to the economy, the 1964 payments will be completed during January.

The dividends represent primarily a return to the policyholders of part of the premiums they have paid, inasmuch as the death rate among GI policyholders continues to be lower than the rate upon which the payments were established by law.

W. Lincoln Cites 'Double Jeopardy'

The village of West Lincoln claims that Lancaster District Court placed the village board in double jeopardy in connection with court proceedings over a contempt of court citation tried Oct. 29.

A petition filed by village attorney Lloyd Chapman contends that the court "by ordering the intervenor (City of Lincoln) as complainant in the criminal contempt proceeding erred when instead of finding the defendants not guilty and dismissing the criminal contempt proceedings against them, as the court was required to do when the existing complaint was deficient, it placed the defendants in jeopardy by ordering another criminal complaint be filed."

The petition also seeks a new trial on the contempt action originally brought against the village board by Club Safari, which withdrew.

The City of Lincoln, admitted as an intervenor in the case, did not withdraw, and was cited by West Lincoln as fraudulently representing itself as a plaintiff instead of intervenor in the case.

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles has set Jan. 7 for a hearing to determine whether West Lincoln violated a court order in connection with the issuance of a bottle club license to the club.

Gugas To Quit, Omaha Officials Tell Newspaper

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha World-Herald said in its Thursday morning editions that Omaha councilmen Al Veys and H. F. Jacobberger had informed the paper that City Safety Director Chris Gugas would resign before Jan. 15.

Gugas could not be reached for comment. The safety director and members of the council have many times battled over operation of the city's police and fire departments.

Jacobberger said he had told Mayor Dworak, now hospitalized after a back operation, that if Dworak could not get Gugas' resignation by Jan. 1 a resolution would be offered in the council to fire Gugas.

Danish Princess Flies Home From Japan Visit

At Tokyo's International Airport the 23-year-old heiress to the Danish throne was seen off by Japan's Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko.

Men's Dorm Low Bidders Not Decided

The low bid on the prime contract for the proposed men's dormitory at the University of Nebraska was not determined Wednesday when the bids were opened.

Olson Construction Company of Lincoln submitted the apparent low prime contract bid of $3,353,337, but the bid did not cover bedroom cabinet work.

The bids will be reviewed for possible action at the Board of Regents meeting Thursday.

The other bids, including the cabinet work, came from Lippert Bros., Inc., Oklahoma City, Okla., $3,651,635; Peter Kiewit & Sons, Omaha, $3,703,739, and Martin K. Eby Construction Co., Omaha, $3,732,000.

Apparent low bidders on individual phases of construction included:

General contract—Hunter and Lundberg, Manhattan, Kan., $2,136,000.
Plumbing, heating and ventilating—Reinhart Bros., Lincoln, $587,000.
Electric wiring—ABC Electric, Lincoln, $276,000.
Electric elevators—O'Keefe Elevator Co., Omaha, $122,300.
Oil hydraulic elevator—O'Keefe Elevator Co., $8,700.
Bedroom equipment—Chadwick Manufacturing Co., Coleman, Wis., $327,946.

The 13-story dormitory and a dining facility to serve its students will be constructed north of Vine facing west on 17th. It is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1965.

Mayor Defferre To Run Against De Gaulle In '65

Paris (AP)—The Socialist mayor of Marseille, Gaston Defferre, said Wednesday he would run against President Charles de Gaulle in the 1965 election.

De Gaulle is expected to seek a second seven-year term. Until Defferre announced his candidacy, De Gaulle had no opposition.

Defferre made his announcement after a meeting of the board of directors of the French Socialist Party.

"I hope, for one thing, to be a candidate of the entire left wing," Defferre said, "and for another thing, that no decision, that no event of any nature, would prevent this election competition (with De Gaulle) to take place."

Mayor Plans Vigorous Enforcement

. . . OF JAYWALKING, PEDESTRIAN LAWS

Mayor Dean Petersen Wednesday promised vigorous enforcement beginning Jan. 1 of the city's long-standing law against jaywalking and the new pedestrian right-of-way ordinance which becomes effective Dec. 31.

Warning tickets will be issued at the outset, followed later by traffic citations, he said.

Pedestrians are prohibited from crossing Lincoln streets except at the crosswalks.

The new right-of-way ordinance requires motor vehicles to yield the right-of-way, by slowing down or stopping, to pedestrians crossing in the crosswalks at intersections not otherwise controlled by traffic signals or a police officer.

Mayor Petersen said the "strict enforcement" policy was part of the education program for drivers and pedestrians on right-of-way rules.

Traffic officials have advised the new right-of-way ordinance. patterned after reportedly successful California law, must be accompanied by strict enforcement and driver education.

The alternative to the pedestrian right-of-way measure is traffic signals costing thousands of dollars and creating unnecessary traffic conflicts.

STATE WILL REQUEST FIRST ANTI-BILLBOARD PAYMENT

Nebraska will soon make its first application for the federal bonus which goes to states controlling advertising along the Interstate Highway.

Under the federal offer, Nebraska wlil receive a bonus amounting to one-half of one per cent of the cost of Interstate Highway building for exerting billboard controls.

Billboard easements have been obtained by the State Department of Roads for about 60 miles of Interstate from Lexington to Kearney and Lexington to Gothenburg.

Waldo H. Mengel of the State Department of Roads' right-of-way division said easement negotiations for the next project length, Grand Island to Kearney, are almost complete.

So far, only four states out out of the 20 that have billboard control agreements have received bonus payments.

Weather Setup Target Date Set

The first stages in the establishment of a consolidated weather station for Lincoln are expected to get under way the first or second week of January.

Roy L. Fox, regional administrator for the U.S. Weather Bureau at Kansas City, said that he expects to have people in Lincoln by then to begin work on the facility.

Fox said a target date of April 15 has been set to have "some kind of an operation going by that time."

"Whether the station is operating at that time will depend on the availability of equipment and how the weather will allow us to proceed," he said.

"We do expect to have some service by then. Not necessarily 24-hour-a-day service, however," he added.

Money for the new facility came from a Commerce Department appropriations bill approved by House and Senate negotiators. The bill appropriated $115,000 for the service.

Fox, who is responsible for establishing the continuous weather and aviation service at the Lincoln Municipal Airport, estimated that it will cost between $120,000 and $130,000 a year to operate the facility.

Over $1.5 Million In GI Insurance Due Nebraskans

More than $1.5 million dollars will go to 31,914 Nebraskans under the plan for accelerated payment of 1964 GI insurance dividends, A. H. Duxbury, Veterans Administration regional office manager in Lincoln, reported Wednesday.

Plans for the stepped-up payments to World War I and II veterans holding GI life insurance policies were announced recently by President Johnson.

Regular dividends usually are distributed on the policy's anniversary date. As a stimulant to the economy, the 1964 payments will be completed during January.

The dividends represent primarily a return to the policyholders of part of the premiums they have paid, inasmuch as the death rate among GI policyholders continues to be lower than the rate upon which the payments were established by law.

W. Lincoln Cites 'Double Jeopardy'

The village of West Lincoln claims that Lancaster District Court placed the village board in double jeopardy in connection with court proceedings over a contempt of court citation tried Oct. 29.

A petition filed by village attorney Lloyd Chapman contends that the court "by ordering the intervenor (City of Lincoln) as complainant in the criminal contempt proceeding erred when instead of finding the defendants not guilty and dismissing the criminal contempt proceedings against them, as the court was required to do when the existing complaint was deficient, it placed the defendants in jeopardy by ordering another criminal complaint be filed."

The petition also seeks a new trial on the contempt action originally brought against the village board by Club Safari, which withdrew.

The City of Lincoln, admitted as an intervenor in the case, did not withdraw, and was cited by West Lincoln as fraudulently representing itself as a plaintiff instead of intervenor in the case.

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles has set Jan. 7 for a hearing to determine whether West Lincoln violated a court order in connection with the issuance of a bottle club license to the club.

Gugas To Quit, Omaha Officials Tell Newspaper

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha World-Herald said in its Thursday morning editions that Omaha councilmen Al Vess and H. F. Jacobberger had informed the paper that City Safety Director Chris Gugas would resign before Jan. 15.

Gugas could not be reached for comment. The safety director and members of the council have many times battled over operation of the city's police and fire departments.

Jacobberger said he had told Mayor Dworak, now hospitalized after a back operation that if Dworak could not get Gugas' resignation by Jan. 1 a resolution would be offered in the council to fire Gugas.

Danish Princess Flies Home From Japan Visit

Tokyo (AP) — Princess Margrethe of Denmark flew home Wednesday after concluding a seven-day unofficial visit of Japan to promote friendly relations between the two countries.

At Tokyo's International Airport the 23-year-old heiress to the Danish throne was seen off by Japan's Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko.

Men's Dorm Low Bidders Not Decided

The low bid on the prime contract for the proposed men's dormitory at the University of Nebraska was not determined Wednesday when the bids were opened.

Olson Construction Company of Lincoln submitted the apparent low prime contract bid of $3,353,337, but the bid did not cover bedroom cabinet work.

The bids will be reviewed for possible action at the Board of Regents meeting Thursday.

The other bids, including the cabinet work, came from Lippert Bros., Inc., Oklahoma City, Okla., $3,651,635; Peter Kiewit & Sons, Omaha, $3,703,739, and Martin K. Eby Construction Co., Omaha, $3,732,000.

Apparent low bidders on individual phases of construction included:

General contract—Hunter and Lundberg, Manhattan, Kan., $2,136,000.
Plumbing, heating and ventilating—Reinhart Bros., Lincoln, $484,000.
Electric wiring—APC Electric, Lincoln, $216,000.
Electric elevators—O'Keefe Elevator Co., Omaha, $122,500.
Oil hydraulic elevator—O'Keefe Elevator Co., $8,700.
Bedroom equipment—Chadwick Manufacturing Co., Coleman, Wis., $727,936.

The 13-story dormitory and a dining facility to serve its students will be constructed north of Vine facing west on 17th. It is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1965.

Mayor Defferre To Run Against De Gaulle In '65

Paris (AP)—The Socialist mayor of Marseille, Gaston Defferre, said Wednesday he would run against President Charles de Gaulle in the 1965 election.

De Gaulle is expected to seek a second seven-year term. Until Defferre announced his candidacy, De Gaulle had no opposition.

Defferre made his announcement after a meeting of the board of directors of the French Socialist Party.

"I hope, for one thing, to be a candidate of the entire left wing," Defferre said, "and for another thing, that no decision, that no event of any nature, would prevent this election competition (with De Gaulle) to take place."

Mayor Plans Vigorous Enforcement

. . . OF JAYWALKING, PEDESTRIAN LAWS

Mayor Dean Petersen Wednesday promised vigorous enforcement beginning Jan. 1 of the city's long-standing law against jaywalking and the new pedestrian right-of-way ordinance which becomes effective Dec. 31.

Warning tickets will be issued at the outset, followed later by traffic citations, he said.

Pedestrians are prohibited from crossing Lincoln streets except at the crosswalks.

The new right-of-way ordinance requires motor vehicles to yield the right-of-way, by slowing down or stopping, to pedestrians crossing in the crosswalks at intersections not otherwise controlled by traffic signals or a police officer.

Mayor Petersen said the "strict enforcement" policy was part of the education program for drivers and pedestrians on right-of-way rules.

Traffic officials have advised the new right-of-way ordinance, patterned after reportedly successful California law, must be accompanied by strict enforcement and driver education.

The alternative to the pedestrian right-of-way measure is traffic signals costing thousands of dollars and creating unnecessary traffic conflicts.

STATE WILL REQUEST FIRST ANTI-BILLBOARD PAYMENT

Nebraska will soon make its first application for the federal bonus which goes to states controlling advertising along the Interstate Highway.

Under the federal offer, Nebraska will receive a bonus amounting to one-half of one per cent of the cost of Interstate Highway building for exerting billboard controls.

Billboard easements have been obtained by the State Department of Roads for about 60 miles of Interstate from Lexington to Kearney and Lexington to Gothenburg.

Waldo H. Mengel of the State Department of Roads' right-of-way division said easement negotiations for the next project length, Grand Island to Kearney, are almost complete.

So far, only four states out of the 20 that have billboard control agreements have received bonus payments.

Stock Market Closes With Gains, Losses

New York (AP)— In a turbulent session, the stock market Wednesday pushed to new highs in some averages but ended the day with a hodgepodge of gains and losses.

Declines actually outnumbered advances but this has been nothing unusual in recent sessions which saw the averages of pivotal stocks pushing higher.

It was another typical year-end trading day, with cross currents from tax loss selling, switching and reinvestment obscuring any trend.

Toward the end, steels emerged from the patchwork with a solid front of gains, and some of these issues were heavily traded.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been up as much as 3:30 at 1 p.m. closed with a modest gain of .83 at 767.21, bettering Tuesday's historic peak.

The ticker tape was late much of the time and volume swelled to 6.07 million shares from 5.25 million Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks edged up .1 to 286.8, just bettering Tuesday's all-time high. The industrials were unchanged, rails gained 1.0 to a new high for the year and utilities dipped .5.

Of 1,337 issues traded, 589 advanced and 478 declined. New highs for the year totaled 41 and new lows 36.

The trend was generally lower on the American Stock Exchange although the volume leaders posted gains. Turnover was 1.56 million shares compared with 1.4 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds steadied.

Markets At A Glance

New York (AP)—

Stocks—Higher; heavy trading.

Stock Market Closes With Gains, Losses

New York (AP)— In a turbulent session, the stock market Wednesday pushed to new highs in some averages but ended the day with a hodgepodge of gains and losses.

Declines actually outnumbered advances but this has been nothing unusual in recent sessions which saw the averages of pivotal stocks pushing higher.

It was another typical year-end trading day, with cross currents from tax loss selling, switching and reinvestment obscuring any trend.

Toward the end, steels emerged from the patchwork with a solid front of gains, and some of these issues were heavily traded.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been up as much as 3.30 at 1 p.m. closed with a modest gain of .83 at 767.21, bettering Tuesday's historic peak.

The ticker tape was late much of the time and volume swelled to 6.07 million shares from 5.25 million Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks edged up .1 to 286.8, just bettering Tuesday's all-time high. The industrials were unchanged, rails gained 1.0 to a new high for the year and utilities dipped .5.

Of 1,537 issues traded, 589 advanced and 478 declined. New highs for the year totaled 41 and new lows 56.

The trend was generally lower on the American Stock Exchange although the volume leaders posted gains. Turnover was 1.56 million shares compared with 1.4 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds steadied.

Kidnap Case Figure Hits Trial By Papers

Los Angeles (UPI) — A school employe who turned in his brother to the FBI as a suspect in the Frank Sinatra Jr. kidnap case Wednesday expressed remorse over notoriety he received, and asked instead to "have the facts come out in court."

James Irwin of Imperial Beach said Tuesday he notified the FBI at his brother's request. The brother, John William Irwin, 42, was arrested Friday at James Irwin's house, bought after James completed 21 years in the Navy.

"I wanted to live in peace here the rest of my life, said James Irwin, purchasing agent for the South Bay School district. "But now it is impossible."

Trial By Newspapers

"I don't believe in trial by newspapers," James Irwin said when asked when John Irwin first came to him and told him of his part in the Dec. 8 abduction of the famed singer's 19-year-old son from a Lake Tahoe motel lodge.

John Irwin was transferred to federal facilities in the county jail here from San Diego Tuesday night.

Also still in jail here were the two other suspects, Barry Worthington Keenan and Joseph Clyde Amsler, both 23, helad since the case broke at midnight Friday. There was no immediate indication when they would be able to obtain release on bail.

Almost all the $240,000 ransom has been recovered.

The U.S. attorney indicated it was possible the case may go before the federal grand jury seeking multiple indictments Dec. 26, the day after Christmas.

No Official Account

Despite statements by James Irwin, Frank Sinatra and others, as well as information gleaned from confidential sources by various news media, no official account of what led to the arrest of the three men has ever been available. The FBI has released only central facts on recovery of the ransom, the arrests, and records of the three men, all of whom were arrested for a variety of offenses in the past.

"I want it clearly understood I had no prior knowledge of what my brother had done until he confided in me and we decided to call the FBI," said James Irwin, described by his employer, School Superintendent Dr. Robert N. Burress, as an excellent worker.

"I cannot tell you when my brother first came and told me of my involvement," he continued. He said he had been offered $1,000 to sell his story to a publication, but said, "I can't accept that kind of money. He's my brother."

Prospects Of Patriarch Meeting Pope Uncertain

Istanbul, Turkey (AP)—Prospects for a meeting between Pope Paul VI and Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople — spiritual leaders of 700 million people — remained uncertain Wednesday night.

The Orthodox Patriarchate of Constantinople (Istanbul) insisted it was premature to say whether Athenagoras would go to Jerusalem to pray beside the Roman Catholic pontiff during the Pope's Holy Land pilgrimage Jan. 4-6.

Earlier Wednesday Theodossius VI of Antioch, patriarch of the Eastern Orthodox Church in Syria, said in Damascus "it has been definitely decided" that Athenagoras should go to Jerusalem for a courtesy meeting with the Pope.

Satisfaction

At the Vatican the word from Damascus brought unofficial comments of satisfaction. L'Osservatore Romano reported the news on page one without comment. This was the first time the Vatican newspaper had mentioned a possible meeting between the religious ruler of 550 million Roman Catholics and Athenagoras, titular leader of the world's 150 million Orthodox.

The Istanbul announcement that Athenagoras' trip was still up in the air came after L'Osservatore had gone to press.

In Damascus, Theodossius withdrew his statement.

Awaits Word

A patriarchate spokesman in Istanbul said Athenagoras was withholding a final decision on going to Jerusalem until he has word from other Orthodox churches, including those of Alexandria, Antioch, Jerusalem, Greece, Moscow, Belgrade, Budapest, Bucharest, Sofia, Cyprus and Prague.

The spokesman said they were consulted under an agreement for joint decisions reached at a pan-Orthodox conference last September. It was not known here how many of the Orthodox churches have replied.

Differences between Roman Catholicsm and Orthodoxy resulted in a schism between the two churches in the 11th Century. There were later efforts to repair the break.

Pope Eugene IV saw Patriarch Joseph II in 1439 at the Council of Florence. That meeting came at a time of a brief reunion. But it was short-lived, and there has been no meeting of Pope and patriarch since.

KEARNEY STATE DEBATERS WIN

Two Kearney State debaters returned from the Heart of the Continent Debate Tourney with a trophy apiece.

Bob Lapp and John Bliese, both Kearney sophomores, took the runner-up trophy, placing second to host Minot State College in Minot, N.D.

The tourney drew teams from Canada as well as from north central and northwest United States.

Bliese was awarded the "bull thrower" trophy for receiving the highest number of speaker points of any of the 20 debaters at the meet.

Stevenson Asked About Veep Spot; He'll Stay At U.N.

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said Wednesday he expects to remain in his post as chief delegate to the United Nations through next year.

Asked at a news conference if he would accept a nomination for vice president, Stevenson chuckled, then replied:

"This is where I came in 10 years ago. My job is to stay here . . . and do the best job I can for the President and the country."

Stevenson's name has been mentioned in speculation about candidates for vice president on a ticket headed by President Johnson.

Minnesota Takes Intrastate Permit From Lincoln Firm

St. Paul, Minn. (UPI) — A Lincoln, Neb. firm has lost its permit to haul intrastate in Minnesota as the result of a complaint by a former St. Paul housewife, Ron Anderson, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission, announced Wednesday.

The commission cancelled the permit of the Dudley Transfer Co. of Lincoln following a hearing on a complaint by Mrs. Raymond Parsons, now of Winona, Minn.

Mrs. Parsons charged that the firm failed to deliver her household goods to the proper address in St. Paul when she and her husband moved from Lincoln last spring.

The commission order stated that the firm did not deliver the furnishings to the right address "but contrary to its instructions and in complete and total disregard of its duty," delivered the goods to a Minneapolis warehouse.

Anderson said Mrs. Parsons had to pay storage charges of $87.75 in addition to moving charges of $204.

NWU Given $3,000 From Esso Foundation

Nebraska Wesleyan University has received a $3,000 grant from the Esso Education Foundation.

Vance Rogers NWU President said the money would be used for equipment purchases in the chemistry department.

BOUND FOR OHIO

Anatoly Pozdneyev, 16, kicked soccer ball in snow in Moscow as he awaited departure with his parents and sister for a Christmas holiday in Portsmouth, Ohio. Anatoly is a student. He also works in an automobile factory in Moscow. Invitation for the unusual holiday came from the Portsmouth Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Pozdneyev family left by air for their visit Wednesday.

LUNAR ASTRONAUT'S VIEWPOINT

Lockheed scientists say this is the way that the moon will look to the astronauts—just 250 miles away from their lunar landing. This photograph was taken from about 250,000 miles by lunar-planetary scientists of the Lockheed-California Co. at the Stony Ridge Observatory in the San Gabriel Mountains near Los Angeles. The caption information which accompanied the picture said that the 30-inch telescope at the private observatory brought the moon some 1,000 times closer. Scientists said the crater in the picture is Theophilus, one of the largest on the moon and is about 55 miles in diameter and four times as deep as the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona.

Rural Sociologists Talk Development

Community resource development will be achieved only if it is a "people's program," rural sociologists from universities in 13 north-central states told at a meeting in Lincoln.

Dr. William J. Kimball of Michigan State University delivered the address during a three-day seminar which concludes Thursday at the Nebraska Center.

"Only the people of a community can truly understand the resources, identify the problems, establish community goals and priorities and effectively work on projects for their own benefit," he said.

Help from specialists, consultants and resource people is needed, he acknowledged.

Prof. Howard M. Sauer, of South Dakota State, said that while land grant colleges have made some changes in their teaching, research and extension programs in an attempt to face up to their responsibilities, they must do even more if the people they serve are to make decisions based on adequate knowledge.

"Education is needed to overcome public indifference, previous failures, frustration and ignorance," he said.

SURE ENOUGH, 'TWAS LOTS OF GREEN STUFF

North Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—As Mrs. Milton Mathews was driving her husband to work Wednesday, she noticed some paper in the street and said, "That looks like money."

"This would be a good time to find a thousand," he replied.

They drove on and as Mrs. Mathews was returning home she stopped at the spot and found more than 400 new dollar bills wrapped in a rubber band. She looked around a vacant lot nearby and found more bills.

Then she summoned her son, William Mathews, who pried open a drainage culvert lid and found 30 more bills floating in water. The total was $449.

They turned the money over to police, who had found $528 in silver dollars in a metal box near the same spot.

If no one claims the money, Mrs. Mathews could get it, police said.

Gerdes To Make Political Decision Before Christmas

State Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance says he plans to make a decision before Christmas on his future political plans.

New Projects, Power Rate Hike Slated For State

Washington (AP)—A new plan for payout of Missouri River Basin projects will require a $1.5 million annual increase in the area's federal power rates and open the way for authorization of additional irrigation projects.

Kenneth Holum, assistant secretary of the interior for power development, told reporters he feels that the plan, made public Wednesday, clears the way for action by the House Interior Committee on proposed authorization of the $235-million Garrison Diversion Unit in North and South Dakota.

He said it also opens the way for action on bills to authorize the $84 million Mid-State Project and $47 million North Loup Division, both in Nebraska.

The power rate increase of one-quarter of a mill per kilowatt hour—about 5%—in the average price of firm commercial power will apply to customers in the eastern Division of the basin.

Nebraska Affected

The division includes North and South Dakota, Nebraska, most of Montana, and parts of Minnesota and Iowa.

The higher rate prevailing in the western division and the rates for secondary and dump power in the eastern division will not be affected.

The western division includes Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri.

Conferences will be held as quickly as possible with customers in the eastern division to put the proposed increase into effect.

Holum said no decision has been reached as to the amount of the increase to be applied to the demand and energy components of the rate schedule.

Need to Clarify

Holum said no legislative action is required to put the power rate increase into effect, but approval by Congress of ways to clarify the situation regarding the interest charge on commercial power facilities probably will be necessary.

"This report puts us in position to assure the committees and the Congress of repayment for existing power facilities and future authorizations within 50 years."

The plan proposes application of an interest charge of 2.5% per year on the unpaid balance as of June 30, 1964, on commercial power facilities completed or under construction by the Army Engineers. The rate now is 3%.

It is also proposed that interest rates on new power construction after June 30 be based on the interest formula of the Water Supply Act of 1958. For the year ending June 30 this rate has been determined to be 3.046%.

Costs of future units, divisions, or separable features undertaken after July 1 would be repaid within 50 years, except that a development period of up to 10 years would be allowed for irrigation investments.

Costs of units already constructed or under construction by June 30 would be recovered after completion of repayment of the interest-bearing commercial power investment.

"If these recommended financial policies are applied, the bureau's financial analysis shows that the commercial power investment, which will be completed by the year 2000, will be completely repaid by the year 2014," Holum said.

"All irrigation investment will be completed by the year 2018, and repayment will be completed by 2057."

Under the plan, Holum explained, about $40 million a year is expected to be available for irrigation costs beginning after 2018. He said none of the power revenues now accruing in the basin are being used to pay out irrigation projects.

The $5.8 billion 10-state Missouri River Basin Project has been under construction as a joint undertaking by the Army Engineers and Reclamation Bureau since 1944. The actual federal investment to June 30, 1962, was $1,688,300,000, and total power revenues through 1962 amounted to $193 million.

Kidnap Case Figure Hits Trial By Papers

Los Angeles (UPI) — A school employe who turned in his brother to the FBI as a suspect in the Frank Sinatra Jr. kidnap case Wednesday expressed remorse over notoriety he received, and asked instead to "have the facts come out in court."

James Irwin of Imperial Beach said Tuesday he notified the FBI at his brother's request. The brother, John William Irwin, 42, was arrested Friday at James Irwin's house, bought after James completed 21 years in the Navy.

"I wanted to live in peace here the rest of my life, said James Irwin, purchasing agent for the South Bay School district. "But now it is impossible."

Trial By Newspapers

"I don't believe in trial by newspapers," James Irwin said when asked when John Irwin first came to him and told him of his part in the Dec. 8 abduction of the famed singer's 19-year-old son from a Lake Tahoe motel lodge.

John Irwin was transferred to federal facilities in the county jail here from San Diego Tuesday night.

Also still in jail here were the two other suspects, Barry Worthington Keenan and Joseph Clyde Amsler, both 23, held since the case broke at midnight Friday. There was no immediate indication when they would be able to obtain release on bail.

Almost all the $240,000 ransom has been recovered.

The U.S. attorney indicated it was possible the case may go before the federal grand jury seeking multiple indictments Dec. 26, the day after Christmas.

No Official Account

Despite statements by James Irwin, Frank Sinatra and others, as well as information gleaned from confidential sources by various news media, no official account of what led to the arrest of the three men has ever been available. The FBI has released only central facts on recovery of the ransom, the arrests, and records of the three men, all of whom were arrested for a variety of offenses in the past.

"I want it clearly understood I had no prior knowledge of what my brother had done until he confided in me and we decided to call the FBI," said James Irwin, described by his employer, School Superintendent Dr. Robert N. Burress, as an excellent worker.

"I cannot tell you when my brother first came and told me of my involvement," he continued. He said he had been offered $1,000 to sell his story to a publication, but said, "I can't accept that kind of money. He's my brother."

Prospects Of Patriarch Meeting Pope Uncertain

Istanbul, Turkey (AP)—Prospects for a meeting between Pope Paul VI and Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople — spiritual leaders of 700 million people — remained uncertain Wednesday night.

The Orthodox Patriarchate of Constantinople (Istanbul) insisted it was premature to say whether Athenagoras would go to Jerusalem to pray beside the Roman Catholic pontiff during the Pope's Holy Land pilgrimage Jan. 4-6.

Earlier Wednesday Theodossius VI of Antioch, patriarch of the Eastern Orthodox Church in Syria, said in Damascus "it has been definitely decided" that Athenagoras should go to Jerusalem for a courtesy meeting with the Pope.

Satisfaction

At the Vatican the word from Damascus brought unofficial comments of satisfaction. L'Osservatore Romano reported the news on page one without comment. This was the first time the Vatican newspaper had mentioned a possible meeting between the religious ruler of 550 million Roman Catholics and Athenagoras, titular leader of the world's 150 million Orthodox.

The Istanbul announcement that Athenagoras' trip was still up in the air came after L'Osservatore had gone to press.

In Damascus, Theodossius withdrew his statement.

Awaits Word

A patriarchate spokesman in Istanbul said Athenagoras was withholding a final decision on going to Jerusalem until he has word from other Orthodox churches, including those of Alexandria, Antioch, Jerusalem, Greece, Moscow, Belgrade, Budapest, Bucharest, Sofia, Cyprus and Prague.

The spokesman said they were consulted under an agreement for joint decisions reached at a pan-Orthodox conference last September. It was not known here how many of the Orthodox churches have replied.

Differences between Roman Catholicism and Orthodoxy resulted in a schism between the two churches in the 11th Century. There were later efforts to repair the break.

Pope Eugene IV saw Patriarch Joseph II in 1439 at the Council of Florence. That meeting came at a time of a brief reunion. But it was short-lived, and there has been no meeting of Pope and patriarch since.

KEARNEY STATE DEBATERS WIN

Two Kearney State debaters returned from the Heart of the Continent Debate Tourney with a trophy apiece.

Bob Lapp and John Bliese, both Kearney sophomores, took the runner-up trophy, placing second to host Minot State College in Minot, N.D.

The tourney drew teams from Canada as well as from north central and northwest United States.

Stevenson Asked About Veep Spot; He'll Stay At U.N.

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said Wednesday he expects to remain in his post as chief delegate to the United Nations through next year.

Asked at a news conference if he would accept a nomination for vice president, Stevenson chuckled, then replied:

"This is where I came in 10 years ago. My job is to stay here . . . and do the best job I can for the President and the country."

Stevenson's name has been mentioned in speculation about candidates for vice president on a ticket headed by President Johnson.

Minnesota Takes Intrastate Permit From Lincoln Firm

St. Paul, Minn. (UPI) — A Lincoln, Neb. firm has lost its permit to haul intrastate in Minnesota as the result of a complaint by a former St. Paul housewife, Ron Anderson, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission, announced Wednesday.

The commission cancelled the permit of the Dudley Transfer Co. of Lincoln following a hearing on a complaint by Mrs. Raymond Parsons, now of Winona, Minn.

Mrs. Parsons charged that the firm failed to deliver her household goods to the proper address in St. Paul when she and her husband moved from Lincoln last spring.

The commission order stated that the firm did not deliver the furnishings to the right address "but contrary to its instructions and in complete and total disregard of its duty," delivered the goods to a Minneapolis warehouse.

Anderson said Mrs. Parsons had to pay storage charges of $87.75 in addition to moving charges of $204.

NWU Given $3,000 From Esso Foundation

Nebraska Wesleyan University has received a $3,000 grant from the Esso Education Foundation.

Vance Rogers NWU President said the money would be used for equipment purchases in the chemistry department.

BOUND FOR OHIO

Anatoly Pozdneyev, 16, kicked soccer ball in snow in Moscow as he awaited departure with his parents and sister for a Christmas holiday in Portsmouth, Ohio. Anatoly is a student. He also works in an automobile factory in Moscow. Invitation for the unusual holiday came from the Portsmouth Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Pozdneyev family left by air for their visit Wednesday.

LUNAR ASTRONAUT'S VIEWPOINT

Lockheed scientists say this is the way that the moon will look to the astronauts—just 250 miles away from their lunar landing. This photograph was taken from about 250,000 miles by lunar-planetary scientists of the Lockheed-California Co. at the Stony Ridge Observatory in the San Gabriel Mountains near Los Angeles. The caption information which accompanied the picture said that the 30-inch telescope at the private observatory brought the moon some 1,000 times closer. Scientists said the crater in the picture is Theophilus, one of the largest on the moon and is about 55 miles in diameter and four times as deep as the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona.

Rural Sociologists Talk Development

Community resource development will be achieved only if it is a "people's program," rural sociologists from universities in 13 north-central states told at a meeting in Lincoln.

Dr. William J. Kimball of Michigan State University delivered the address during a three-day seminar which concludes Thursday at the Nebraska Center.

"Only the people of a community can truly understand the resources, identify the problems, establish community goals and priorities and effectively work on projects for their own benefit," he said.

Help from specialists, consultants and resource people is needed, he acknowledged.

Prof. Howard M. Sauer, of South Dakota State, said that while land grant colleges have made some changes in their teaching, research and extension programs in an attempt to face up to their responsibilities, they must do even more if the people they serve are to make decisions based on adequate knowledge.

"Education is needed to overcome public indifference, previous failures, frustration and ignorance," he said.

SURE ENOUGH, 'TWAS LOTS OF GREEN STUFF

North Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—As Mrs. Milton Mathews was driving her husband to work Wednesday, she noticed some paper in the street and said, "That looks like money."

"This would be a good time to find a thousand," he replied.

They drove on and as Mrs. Mathews was returning home she stopped at the spot and found more than 400 new dollar bills wrapped in a rubber band. She looked around a vacant lot nearby and found more bills.

Then she summoned her son, William Mathews, who pried open a drainage culvert lid and found 30 more bills floating in water. The total was $449.

They turned the money over to police, who had found $528 in silver dollars in a metal box near the same spot.

If no one claims the money, Mrs. Mathews could get it, police said.

Gerdes To Make Political Decision Before Christmas

State Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance says he plans to make a decision before Christmas on his future political plans.

He has been mentioned as a possible Republican bidder for the congressional seat now held by Republican Rep. Dave Martin of Kearney.

Should he seek a return to the Legislature, he would represent the reorganized 49th district, including Sioux, Dawes and Box Butte Counties.

Turkey Extends Military Rule In Ankara, Istanbul

Ankara (AP) — Turkey's national security council decided Wednesday to extend martial law in Ankara and Istanbul for another two months.

The decision will become effective following parliamentary approval expected within the next few days.

The country's two biggest cities have been under military rule since the overthrow and execution of Premier Adnan Menderes' government in May 1960.

Cars Hit, Woman Is Hospitalized

Pearl Elliott, 68, of 3431 M, was listed in good condition Wednesday evening at Bryan Memorial Hospital, where she was held for observation after the car in which she was riding was in a collision at 59th and Baldwin late Wednesday afternoon.

Police said she was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, P. R. Elliott, 74.

The Elliott car southbound on 59th was in collision with an eastbound car driven by Charles Bandiers, 18, of 2226 No. 56th.

Polk Voters Strong For Housing Issue

Polk — By vote of 110 for and 3 against, residents of this village of 430 population voted in favor of building low rental housing units, Mayor Marvin Frederickson said.

New Projects, Power Rate Hike Slated For State

Washington (AP)—A new plan for payout of Missouri River Basin projects will require a $1.5 million annual increase in the area's federal power rates and open the way for authorization of additional irrigation projects.

Kenneth Holum, assistant secretary of the interior for power development, told reporters he feels that the plan, made public Wednesday, clears the way for action by the House Interior Committee on proposed authorization of the $235-million Garrison Diversion Unit in North and South Dakota.

He said it also opens the way for action on bills to authorize the $84 million Mid-State Project and $47 million North Loup Division, both in Nebraska.

The power rate increase of one-quarter of a mill per kilowatt hour—about 5%—in the average price of firm commercial power will apply to customers in the eastern Division of the basin.

Nebraska Affected

The division includes North and South Dakota, Nebraska, most of Montana, and parts of Minnesota and Iowa.

The higher rate prevailing in the western division and the rates for secondary and dump power in the eastern division will not be affected.

The western division includes Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri.

Conferences will be held as quickly as possible with customers in the eastern division to put the proposed increase into effect.

Holum said no decision has been reached as to the amount of the increase to be applied to the demand and energy components of the rate schedule.

Need to Clarify

Holum said no legislative action is required to put the power rate increase into effect, but approval by Congress of ways to clarify the situation regarding the interest charge on commercial power facilities probably will be necessary.

"This report puts us in position to assure the committees and the Congress of repayment for existing power facilities and future authorizations within 50 years."

The plan proposes application of an interest charge of 2.5% per year on the unpaid balance as of June 30, 1964, on commercial power facilities completed or under construction by the Army Engineers. The rate now is 3%.

It is also proposed that interest rates on new power construction after June 30 be based on the interest formula of the Water Supply Act of 1958. For the year ending June 30 this rate has been determined to be 3.046%.

Costs of future units, divisions, or separable features undertaken after July 1 would be repaid within 50 years, except that a development period of up to 10 years would be allowed for irrigation investments.

Costs of units already constructed or under construction by June 30 would be recovered after completion of repayment of the interest-bearing commercial power investment.

"If these recommended financial policies are applied, the bureau's financial analysis shows that the commercial power investment, which will be completed by the year 2000, will be completely repaid by the year 2014," Holum said.

"All irrigation investment will be completed by the year 2018, and repayment will be completed by 2057."

Under the plan, Holum explained, about $40 million a year is expected to be available for irrigation costs beginning after 2018. He said none of the power revenues now accruing in the basin are being used to pay out irrigation projects.

The $5.8 billion 10-state Missouri River Basin Project has been under construction as a joint undertaking by the Army Engineers and Reclamation Bureau since 1944. The actual federal investment to June 30, 1962, was $1,688,300,000, and total power revenues through 1962 amounted to $193 million.

Labor Disputes Ended; Travelers Unhindered

Washington (AP) —Settlement of two major labor disputes had ended the threat of strikes that could have disputed many travelers' annual rush home for Christmas.

The AFL-CIO Machinists Union and United Air Lines, one of the nation's largest air carriers, reached an agreement early Wednesday to head off a strike scheduled at midnight Wednesday night.

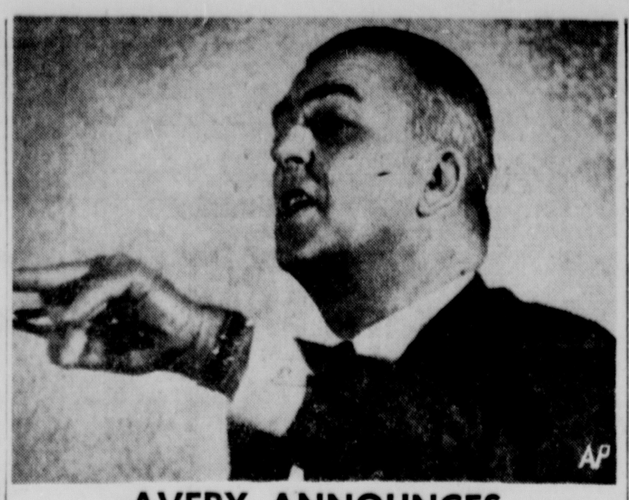
This came only a few hours after Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz announced that the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters called off a strike set for midnight Thursday.

Union officials had predicted that a strike by porters would shut down most of the nation's railroads.

United, which estimates it normally carries about 800,000 passengers during the Christmas-New Year's season, announced that it plans to operate all scheduled flights during the holiday period.

The settlement between the porters and the railroads announced by Wirtz called for a gradual reduction in the work month from the present 205 hours to 174 by July 1965. The porters had sought a 173-hour month which they said would just about reduce their present 48-hour week to 40 hours.

The porters will get a raise in hourly wages from $2.09 to $2.53, partially retroactive to Feb. 1, 1962.



AVERY ANNOUNCES

Rep. William Avery of Kansas gestures during a Wednesday press conference in Topeka where he announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the gubernatorialty. The 51-year-old seeker of the governorship, of Wakefield, Kan., is a 10-year veteran of Congress' lower house. He singled out government economy, expanded recreational facilities and state competition for industry as some of the leading aims of his candidacy.

Lone Wolf Policy Bars Shift

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson declared Wednesday that Communist China's "lone wolf" policy of aggression in Asia bars any change in Peking's relations with the United States or the United Nations.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations made the statement in replying to questions at a news conference at which he summed up the U.S. view of the just-concluded 18th session of the General Assembly.

Most of his questioners referred to a speech delivered by Roger Hilsman Jr., U.S. assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, in San Francisco last week. Hilsman said the door is being kept open for possible negotiations with Peking in the event the Chinese Communists change their present attitude of hatred for the United States.

Replying to questions as to whether Hilsman's speech heralded any possible change in relations between Peking and Washington, Stevenson replied that this was a problem for Peking to resolve.

He said the United States was ready to extend the hand of cooperation of all peace-loving nations, but a decision to pursue peaceful objectives was up to Peking and not Washington.

He said the Chinese Reds were supporting the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam and the Pathet Lao in Laos, as well as belligerency on the part of North Koreans.

"A long as the Chinese Communists persist in their present aggressive and lone wolf policies, there is not likely to be any improvement in their relations with the United States, or the United Nations," he declared.
